HOOVER'S FOOD RELIEF BACKED BY 40 SENATORS

Blow to Roosevelt's War Policies.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Increasing congressional opposition to the Roosevelt administration's war policies was indicated today by the revelation that 40 senators have signed a resolution approving former President Herbert Hoover's plan for feeding the starving populations of German occupied European nations.

Elmer Thomas.

Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.] announced in the senate that the resolution will be introduced if it is signed by eight more senators, enough to give it a majority, which the sponsors of the resolution hope to obtain soon.

The approval of Hoover's relief plan by as many as 40 senators constitutes a severe blow to the war policies of the Roosevelt administration and the British government, which have refused to consider relaxation of the blockade to permit shipment of food for the starving populations.

Anti-War Senators Heartened.

Anti-war senators regarded the Thomas disclosure as a good omen in the midst of increasing indications that congress soon will be called upon to decide the issue of full participation in the European war.

President Roosevelt is expected to declare for American air and naval protection for shipments of war munitions to Britain in his radio address to the world Tuesday night.

Well informed congressional leaders say the President will attempt, in this speech, to prepare congress and the country for active participation in the war, which might be accomplished by repealing the neutrality act and sending American ships, armed and escorted by naval vessels and aircraft, directly to British ports.

Josh Lee Makes Frenzied Plea.

Senator Josh Lee [D., Okla.], who vies with Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] in foretelling administration war moves, made a frenzied speech in the senate today urging the President to use the air and naval forces to aid Britain.

Lee admitted the United States is not prepared for war. But he made this his principal argument for going to war, declaring that the fact we are not armed "is all the more reason why we should keep that chain holding back the horde of Nazis while we do arm."

Replying to Lee, Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] recalled his own prediction in the senate on Feb. 28, 1939, that "there will surely be a war in Europe when the United States gives the word 'go.'"

President Keeps Silence.

At his press conference today the President refused to discuss proposals to repeal the neutrality act, convoys, his forthcoming speech, rumors of possible peace negotiations between Britain and Germany, or any other aspect of the war situation. All he knows, he said, is what he reads in the papers.

Noninterventionists, however, express confidence a majority of the senate will vote against convoys or neutrality act repeal if the President submits the issue to congress before acting. Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], foreign relations committee chairman, insists the President must and will ask congress for authority before ordering the navy into a shooting war. The President gave Senator George his pledge to do so when the British aid bill was being considered.

Adverse Effects Pointed Out.

The Roosevelt administration and the British government have relied on the blockade to produce insurrection by the hungry, oppressed peoples of Europe against their Nazi conquerors. Supporters of the Hoover plan contend that such a starvation policy merely makes more enemies for Britain and the United States and drives the subjected peoples into the arms of the Nazis.

Senator Thomas explained that Hoover is asking congress only for its good will and moral support, not for any funds. Shipments of food to the occupied countries would be paid for out of their dollar credits in this country, which have been sequestered by the treasury.

JOE LOUIS STOPS BAER IN SEVENTH; FOUL IS CLAIMED

Joe Louis made the 17th successful defense of his heavyweight title by scoring a technical knockout over Buddy Baer of California in the seventh round of a scheduled 15 round bout in Washington last night. Buddy was knocked down twice in the sixth and again after the bell had rung to end the round. His manager, Ancil Hoffman, claimed a foul and refused to let Buddy come out for the seventh. The referee then disqualified Baer and gave the fight to Louis.

U. S. BEING LED TO WAR AGAINST WILL, HE SAYS

Wheeler and Others Add Peace Pleas.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 23.—New York City stepped into the parade away from the European war tonight when more than 32,000 turned out for a great America First rally.

The crowd—22,000 packed into the Madison Square Garden arena and 10,000 listening to the program over loud speakers outside—staged a thunderous demonstration when Charles A. Lindbergh and Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] assailed the war propagandists and predicted the destruction of democracy if they finally prevailed.

Lindbergh Demands Accounting.

Lindbergh demanded "an accounting from a government that has led us to war while it promised us peace." He charged the country is being plunged into the European conflict without the approval of the people, just as "Hitler led his people into war without asking their consent."

People sprang to their feet and gave Lindbergh a rousing five minute tribute when he was introduced by John T. Flynn, economist and chairman of the New York America First chapter, by his new title, "Citizen Charles A. Lindbergh," no longer a colonel of the air force since his resignation after President Roosevelt questioned his patriotism.

Senator Wheeler, whom Flynn called "the leader who has carried this great fight to every corner of the country," declared that the task of keeping this nation at peace and from foreign wars is the most noble and patriotic service that an American can render the republic.

Wheeler Rips War Promoters.

The Montana senator predicted America would get a Hitler or a Duce at home if the country plunged in the conflict in the name of saving democracy abroad. He criticized "that venerable warrior," Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, and other cabinet members, for their war promoting activities.

Wheeler asserted Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard has gone into the middle west promising government largess in an attempt to change sentiment, but that the American farmer and his wife are no Judas Iscariots who would sell their sons into the war for 30 pieces of silver.

A roar of laughter went up when he said that the war makers are frightening people with the thought that Hitler's panzer divisions soon would roll down Broadway.

Fascist Leader Denounced.

There was a tense moment early in the meeting when Chairman Flynn denounced Joseph McWilliams, a local apostle of Fascism who was sitting in the audience, and said he did not know how this "stooge for Hitler" had sneaked into the auditorium.

Cries of "throw him out!" came from all parts of the audience. Several persons approached McWilliams. McWilliams, a stocky individual with iron gray hair, wearing a blue shirt, stuck sullenly in his seat. Flynn begged the crowd to let the program go on and finally obtained order.

It was a typical American crowd, much like the throngs in a big league ball park on ladies' day or

DEFENSE ONLY

President Roosevelt, on October 30, 1940, speaking to fathers and mothers on the selective service act:

"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers, I give you one more assurance.

"I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.

"They are going into training to form a force so strong that, by its very existence, it will keep the threat of war far away from our shores.

British Ring Last Nazi Base in Crete

ATTACK AIRFIELD AFTER CAPTURING TWO TOWNS

5,000 Germans Die as English Fleet Smashes Ships.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 23 (AP).—Five thousand or more German soldiers bent on a surprise landing on Crete were drowned when a British naval squadron smashed into the center of their hodge-podge convoy and blasted to the bottom an Italian destroyer, two merchantmen, and 40 sailing vessels, British naval officers related tonight.

Not a single German managed to reach the embattled island to reinforce the airborne Nazis already there, the officers asserted

Describing the carnage wrought in a three hour engagement which began about 11 p. m. Wednesday [May 21], the officers said the sailboats, Greek caiques, were loaded precariously with about 100 Germans each, and estimated that with the loss of life on the other larger vessels, the casualties must have passed 5,000.

Riddle Boats with Fire.

As the British cruisers and destroyers rammed the wooden boats and riddled them with the fire of 4 inch guns and anti-aircraft pompoms, they said the Germans who were hurled into the inky water screamed vainly for rescue.

The threat of torpedo attacks from German speedboats kept the British from attempting any rescue as they swept again and again thru the huddled caiques. The entire Nazi convoy was destroyed or dispersed.

The destroyer was accounted for by a resounding broadside of a British cruiser's six inch guns, which set the victim aflame from stem to stern.

A large merchantman, which the British said must have carried at least 1,000 men, was sent to the bottom in similar fashion, and another cruiser sank a smaller steamer of about 1,000 tons.

Captain Gives Account.

The captain of a British anti-aircraft cruiser, one of the first to return to Alexandria, gave this account of the dramatic action:

"Three cruisers and four destroyers were steaming eastward from Suda bay [in the Sea of Crete, between Crete and Greece] when a destroyer opened fire on a darkened ship.

"This was the first intimation that we were in contact with the enemy. We altered course, jammed on full speed, and entered the fray.

"Our destroyer fire was very effective. A great bonfire appeared on the ocean, apparently a merchantman burning from bow to stern.

"The first ship actually sighted from this cruiser was a large destroyer. It was not until we flashed a searchlight on her that we were certain she was an Italian.

Masked by Another Cruiser.

"We were at very close range and opened fire with our pompoms. She then fired torpedoes, and in avoiding them, this cruiser was masked by another cruiser.

"This other cruiser, however, thus got a clear view of the Italian destroyer and gave her a full broadside of 6 inch guns, all of which seemed to hit. A series of violent explosions occurred and the burning destroyer went down like a stone.

"The admiral then led the squadron thru the middle of the enemy convoy. We sank a large number of caiques, at least 40, each carrying at least 100 Nazis. We rammed many of them.

"In addition, this cruiser sank a small steamer of about 1,000 tons with our heavy guns.

"Some of the caiques tried to evade our attack by hiding the soldiers they were carrying and by flying the Greek flag. Others retaliated with rifle and machine gun fire.

"On a subsequent sweep, we saw a large number of Germans in the water, clinging to life belts and rafts and the wreckage of the caiques. The possibility of speedboat attacks made it impossible for us to stop to try to rescue any of them."

Continuing its patrol, the British squadron was attacked by German dive bombers at dawn, and the raids continued without letup until after dark Thursday, the guns of cruisers and destroyers alike growing hot with incessant firing which managed to bring down at least two Junkers.

Hitler Pours More Chute Troops Into Battle.

Blows at Fleet

BERLIN, May 23 (AP).—The German air force claims further damaging blows have been landed on the British fleet in the battle for Crete. Three destroyers were listed as sunk today in addition to "several" destroyers sent to the bottom yesterday and the day before, with four others damaged during the same period. Two cruisers were reported left aflame in new attacks, and five of six British speedboats sunk "while entering an eastern Mediterranean base." Earlier four British cruisers had been reported sunk, six others damaged by bombs, and two battleships struck.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—Allied defenders of Crete violently attacked the Nazi held airport of Malemi early today after recapturing the towns of Candia and Retimo.

British and Greek troops tightened a ring of tanks, artillery, and machine gun units around Malemi, the single Nazi foothold left on the island, as the battle roared into its fifth day.

But more German parachutists were reported cascading down from big air transports flying from the Greek mainland 100 miles away. Sixteen of these planes were knocked down by anti-aircraft fire. Another was downed by a British long range bomber.

Hold Upper Hand Momentarily.

Britain momentarily at least appeared to hold the upper hand in the surging battle for Crete, the outcome of which may depend on the navy's ability to withstand the damaging blows of Nazi dive bombers.

All day Thursday Anzac and Greek troops struggled thru the narrow streets of Candia, Crete's largest city midway on the northern coast, and at Retimo, 30 miles to the west.

By nightfall they had wiped out or driven out the German parachute and glider troops who held these cities and hoped to establish bridgeheads for the expected arrival of Nazi sea reënforcements.

Far to the east on the island's tip Nazi ships tried to land men and material from the Italian Dodecanese islands, but the British smashed that effort.

Hoarded Stores of Food.

Unsuccessful by sea, the Germans were nourished from the air. Transport planes attempted crash landings with food and ammunition, or dropped them by parachute.

Here the British and Greeks held an advantage with their hoarded stores of food, their field artillery, and the tanks that now have been thrown into the mighty effort to reduce Malemi airport.

But with the RAF out of the conflict the ground defenders were raked mercilessly by swarms of dive bombers. The British said their troops were holding up well under this type of assault.

A heavy artillery barrage now is being thrown against the Nazis in Malemi, which is only a few miles from Canea, new home of the exiled Greek government which commands nearby Suda bay.

Hand to Hand Fighting.

All this—the storming of Candia and Retimo and the attack upon Malemi—was made possible by "hand to hand" fighting, a British communique said.

"As the German losses will show, both the British and empire forces have never rendered a better account of themselves," the communique said. "In the Candia sector Greek troops also fought with great gallantry."

The navy, the British said, has held thus far, and they added that if it could only hold out a little longer the invasion must fail.

But—and this was stated openly—the fleet was operating in a long hour of peril, menaced by unending attacks from the air and handicapped by the confined space in which it

Alonzo Plants, Then Starts a Cabbagekrieg!

Moved by patriotic ardor, Alonzo Baker, 38 years old, colored, decided 10 days ago to do his bit for national defense. He had to cast about to decide just what form his contribution would take, as most of the defense program had already been cornered by some gentlemen named Knudsen and Henderson, respective heads of the OPM and OPACS.

Baker thought back to his days on the farm at Omaha, Ga., and was inspired to create an entirely new agency, the OCSM [Office of Cabbage Seed Management].

A Cabbage Step Up.

He consulted Eugene Lebovitz, owner of a hardware store at 2004 Grand avenue, and asked for some seeds that would start bringing cabbages off the production line in a hurry.

"The emergency is not only national, but local," Baker explained. "My backbone is rubbing my belt buckle."

Lebovitz suggested a type of cabbage which, given encouragement, might be expected to break ground in 10 days. Baker departed with a packet of seeds and began spading up the yard of his home at 1916 Hubbard street.

Time's Up; Cabbages Ain't.

Yesterday he returned to Lebovitz's store in a high dudgeon, or at least a dudgeon of medium height.

"The 10 days is up," he said, "and the cabbages ain't. They ain't on hand, and they ain't on order."

Sam Stein, who runs the corner beer parlor at 2002 Grand avenue, offered his services as consultant. He accompanied Baker to the cabbage patch and surveyed the bare earth. Then he submitted the opinion that Baker had raked the seeds to the surface after planting them and that the robins had got them. This argument failed to persuade Baker.

End of the Cabbagekrieg.

The army now is getting delivery of Garand rifles, 155 millimeter howitzers, and planes, but Baker has never tooled up for rearmament. When he returned again to the hardware store, determined to revise Lebovitz's boundaries, he carried only an obsolescent razor, which, however, had seen service in former campaigns.

As he was making a few practice passes, Mrs. Lebovitz put thru a call to West North avenue station to halt the cabbagekrieg. Policemen John Minihan, Kavin Ryan, and Walter Thomas arrived in time to prevent Baker from carrying out his intention of shredding Lebovitz into what used to be called Liberty cabbage.

JAMES J. BAMBRICK, SCALISE AID, GETS 1 TO 2 YEAR SENTENCE

New York, May 23 (AP).—James J. Bambrick, 52 years old, former president of the Manhattan local of the Building Service Employés International union [AFL], was sentenced to one to two years in Sing Sing prison today on his plea of guilty to a charge of theft of $10,000 from the union.

Judge John A. Mullen expressed belief that Bambrick's association with George Scalise, former president of the international, serving a prison term for stealing funds from the international, might have led to Bambrick's wrong doing.

18 CIO MEMBERS ARE INDICTED IN MINE SLAYINGS

Tazewell, Tenn., May 23 [Special].—Eighteen CIO unionists were indicted on murder charges by a special Claiborne county grand jury today as a result of the mine battle near here in which four men were killed on April 15.

Among those indicted were A. T. Pace, international auditor of the United Mine Workers [CIO], and James W. Ridings, international representative of the union and former sheriff at Middlesboro, Ky. They already are under bond of $30,000 each on charges of murder.

The defendants were charged with first degree murder, accessory before the fact, conspiracy to commit a crime, and encouraging persons to form an unlawful conspiracy in connection with the slaying of C. W. Rhodes, president of the Fork Ridge Coal company; E. W. Silvers, vice president of the company, and Bob Robinson, a former Tennessee patrolman. The fourth man killed was Sam Evans, a CIO picket.

VICHY, France, May 23 (AP).—A dawn shelling that spelled doom for the Egyptian liner Zamzam and wounded two of her 148 American passengers was followed by a 33 day voyage for the entire ship's company as enforced guests aboard a merchantman, the survivors related today.

Francis Vicovari. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The Zamzam sailed from Recife [Pernambuco] Brazil, April 9, for Cape Town, South Africa.

Opens Fire at Once.

At 6 a. m. on April 17, when she had covered a little more than half the 3,318 mile course, a German surface raider came into view. The location was about 750 miles south and slightly west of St. Helena, Napoleon's isle of exile.

The German vessel opened fire immediately, hitting the Zamzam eight or nine times.

Francis J. Vicovari of New York, Ned Laughinghouse of Wilson, N. C., a tobacconist, and an Egyptian were wounded. Vicovari was leader of 24 American ambulance drivers.

The Zamzam had to heave to, and the raider took aboard all the passengers and crew—more than 300 persons—and some of the ship's supplies.

Give Name of Raider.

The passengers said the raider was named the Tamieses.

Next day she fell in with the German motorship Dresden, to which she transferred the Zamzam's passengers and crew.

Then began a long zigzag voyage to dodge the British blockade. Finally, on May 20, last Tuesday, the Dresden reached St. Jean de Luz, on the German occupied west coast of France.

Vicovari and Laughinghouse were reported to be in the hospital aboard the raider.

Nazis Await Big Story on Crete.

BERLIN, May 23 (AP).—The German public was in the paradoxical situation tonight of having no official information whatever regarding the battle of Crete, yet was expecting that a military victory would be announced soon. There was a burst of publicity on Crete's history, geography, and strategic importance.

The papers likened Crete to a gigantic airplane carrier in the Mediterranean—a carrier which has the advantage of being unsinkable—or stressed its value as an air base dominating the eastern Mediterranean, the mouth of the Nile, and the entrance to the Suez canal. They printed so much background material on Crete that even the dullest reader could see some highly important announcement on that subject lurking just around the corner.

Most Dangerous Risks.

The Dienst aus Deutschland commentary observed that the reported sinkings of several British warships "confirm experience gained in the war thus far—namely, that any sea power which does not enjoy air supremacy within the area chosen for its activity is subjected to most dangerous risks."

The man on the street realizes that parachutists must have played a significant rôle in Crete. Otherwise why did the British announce withdrawal of the RAF from Crete because the necessary air fields no longer were at her disposal? The average German would remember that in previous blitz campaigns the parachutists always headed for the airports, bridges, and railway junctions.

They Find Out Somehow.

Strange as it may seem, utterances favorable to Germany such as the British admission they no longer had air fields on Crete have a way of leaking thru to the German public despite the heavy penalty for listening to foreign news broadcasts.

The German high command, on the other hand, proceeds on the theory that any revelation before a given action is completed is bound to help the enemy.

CAPT. JIM UNDER FIRE FIRST TIME ON TRIP TO IRAQ

CAIRO, Egypt, May 23.—Capt. James Roosevelt, the President's son, returned by plane here tonight from Iraq after having been bombed and machine gunned in forward British positions, which he had been inspecting. It was Capt. Roosevelt's first time under fire.

His first strafing was experienced as he and Maj. Gen. Thomas of the United States army, who was accompanying him and a party of British officers, were nearing Fallujah by automobile. When German planes flew over and bombed a nearby location, the group returned toward the British position some miles back.

As they entered the camp four Messerschmitts appeared flying low, they dropped bombs, one of which killed a British soldier near by. The planes also fired their machine guns, the bullets hitting all around the Roosevelt party but injuring none.

Rumania Seizes Surplus Grain for 'Public Welfare'

BUCHAREST, Rumania [via Berlin], May 23 (AP).—All surplus grain in Rumania was seized by the government today for the general welfare. Surpluses from the next harvest also must become state property under the measure, which was said to be aimed at a "just division among the people of Rumania."

British Claim Gains in Crete

Major developments of yesterday in the battle of Crete are told on the map. The defenders seemed to hold at least a momentary advantage, according to news from British headquarters in Cairo, Egypt.

CHINESE RED ARMY BATTLES JAPANESE IN SOUTHERN SHANSI

CHUNGKING, China, May 23 (AP).—The communist daily newspaper here bannered today a story that the 18th Chinese Red army was participating in battle against the Japanese in southern Shansi province. Chinese government supporters had expressed fear that Chinese communists might lay down their arms against the Japanese since Russia and Japan had reached a neutrality accord.

Admits Chinese Victory.

SHANGHAI, May 23 (AP).—Lieut. Col. Kunio Akiyama, official spokesman for Japanese forces in China, acknowledge today that Chinese troops had recaptured Chuki, strategic railhead in northern Chekiang province, after a "voluntary" withdrawal by the Japanese. Akiyama said the Japanese withdrew from the railhead "after crushing nine of 13 Chinese divisions."

[Reports two days ago from Chungking, the temporary Chinese capital, said regaining Chuki was one of the Chinese army's greatest successes in months—that the Japanese lost 4,000 dead and much material.]

BILL FOR PACT WITH U. S. PASSED BY CUBAN HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, May 23.—A bill authorizing President Fulgencio Batista to open negotiations for a military agreement with the United States was passed by the house of representatives today. It now goes to the senate.

The bill grants the executive power to sign any form of military pact satisfactory to the United States provided that the latter assumes the responsibility of defending Cuba.

It was said Cuba will offer to raise an army sufficiently large for its own defense if the United States will equip it with modern weapons and grant a loan to pay for other materiel.

FRENCH SOLDIERS IN SYRIA 'DESERT'; JOIN THE BRITISH

DAMASCUS, Syria, May 23 (AP).—A French colonel and some 200 of his native cavalrymen have fought their way thru their own frontier forces to the British territory of Transjordan, French officials acknowledged tonight. A few men were killed and wounded on both sides in the fight. Two of the slain men were loyal French officers.

The deserters were characterized as only 5 per cent of the command of the colonel named Collet [possibly Col. Philibert Collet, the "Lawrence of Syria"].

The Circassian troopers were led to the frontier, authorities said, on the pretext that they were going to maneuvers.

One complete squadron was surrounded by French guards on the Transjordan frontier and their commander was captured. Still others, described as a major part of the Collet command, refused to desert.

BRITISH CRUISER ARRIVES IN RIO; SHIP 'SAW ACTION'

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 23 (AP).—The British auxiliary cruiser Asturias arrived at this port today and Lieut. R. W. F. Rule, an aid to Capt. A. H. Ardill, said she had seen action.

He would neither tell when, where, nor against whom. To questions whether the German freighter Lech had been sighted or sunk during the Asturias' patrol in the southern Atlantic his only answer was, "yes and no."

The 3,290 ton Lech reached Rio de Janeiro March 3, 1941, after breaking thru the British blockade and sailed again April 28, apparently in an effort to run the blockade back home again. Maritime reports May 3, however, said she had been intercepted by a British auxiliary cruiser and left in a sinking condition off Bahia. This has not been confirmed.

BRITAIN DECIDES TO RISK FLEET IN FIGHT FOR CRETE

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 23.—While "the greatest sea and air battle in history" is proceeding on the waters around Crete and in the skies above the island, two phases of war development today were described as of paramount importance:

1. The officially expressed intention to continue to risk the British navy in dangerous operations in the confined waters of Crete to prevent German landings from boats, with the hope that airborne Nazi troops now in possession of certain key points on the island can be overcome thru lack of food and war supplies and equipment.

2. The apparent imminence of a formal break with the Vichy government. The British public has been informed that the United States is assuming joint responsibility in the matter so far as the economic blockade [of France] is concerned.

See Effect on Morale.

Since Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced that Britain would fight "to the death' to maintain its position in the Mediterranean, and mentioned Crete as the key base, there has been no attempt to disguise the strategic value of the island for the British navy, both for defensive and offensive operations in that area. Apart from Crete's immense strategic value, the effect on morale if the Germans are successful in taking it is considered even more important.

It is generally conceded that the result of the battle for Crete will be the turning point of the war. Hinging on it is the reported Russian deal, which also is expected to influence the attitude of Turkey and possibly that of the entire Arab world. All of this is bound to have an effect on the military operations in the middle east and perhaps far beyond it. Even political consequences are not ruled out.

Germany is said to be dangling before Turkey an offer to give her Greek islands important for Turkey's defense if she will break off her nonbelligerent alliance with Britain and agree to the transit of war materials to Syria and Iraq.

Stalin Is Intrigued.

The possibility of gaining slices of the Turkish republic, Kars, Ardahan, and Batum, former provinces of czarist Russia and the only provinces lost in the world war not yet brought under Moscow's hegemony, is said to be influencing Premier Josef Stalin to side with Germany as much as fear of German military power. Soviet recognition of the rebel Iraq government is interpreted as indicative of a closer Moscow-Berlin understanding regarding the new spheres of influence contemplated by the axis.

British political correspondents stress "the inevitability of the Vichy break." The Star headline says, "U. S. May Back Eden's Warning." It declares President Roosevelt next week is expected to echo Foreign Minister Anthony Eden's threat that if Vichy assists the German war effort unoccupied France will be regarded "as enemy territory."

"No more navicerts [certificates required for passage of ships thru the British blockade] will be granted to French ships," the Evening News states. "It is expected there will be complete Anglo-American coöperation in economic measures against France."

Report Axis Seeks New Routes to Iraq

Broken lines indicate routes thru Russian and Turkish territory, respectively, which the axis powers are attempting to get for military operations in the middle east, according to rumors in Rome.

ROME, May 23 (AP).—Rumors were heard in diplomatic circles tonight that the axis power are attempting to get further Russian aid for their war plans, perhaps thru soviet permission for their troops or supplies to pass thru Russian territory to the middle east.

The newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma said yesterday that axis forces might attack the middle east thru the Russian Caucasus and Iran [Persia] as well as from Syria and Egypt's western desert.

The possibility that Turkey might be asked to permit axis troops to pass across her territory into Syria, from which they could be transported by rail from Aleppo in the French mandate to Bagdad also has been raised in Fascist quarters.

Report Regent Returns.

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—The Press association, British news agency, said it had learned in London tonight that Emir Abdul Ilah, regent of Iraq deposed in the April coup d'état, had returned to Iraq and was considering formation of a new administration.

He had been out of the country since Premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani, whose forces now are fighting an undeclared war against Britain, seized power.

Reuters, British news agency, said the regent's whereabouts were being kept a close secret and that formation of a new government will be announced as soon as the Iraq situation has been clarified.

Shell Iraq Positions.

VICHY, France, May 23 (AP).—British naval units have shelled Iraq positions near the Persian gulf with only "insignificant damage," an Iraq communique relayed from Bagdad by Havas, French news agency, said tonight.

BULGARS TO BOSS BALKANS UNLESS BRITISH WIN WAR

Tribune Writer Told of Nazi Plans.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 23.—Unless the Anglo-Saxon coalition wins this war, there will be a new disposition of the Balkans. If the anti-German coalition wins, it is presumed, the Balkan nations will present about the same picture as they did two months ago, with the exception that Italy may lose Albania.

Meanwhile, the Germans are rearranging the Balkans in their own way. Their aim, according to official spokesmen, is to establish a "peaceful, just, enduring, and stable order" in southeastern Europe. Any one who knows this trouble pot of the world will consider this an extremely high ambition. The Germans already are showing that they are confused about the means of realizing it.

Some light on their intentions was obtained in the most typical of Balkan capitals, Sofia, Bulgaria. I was talking to a German officer who had been thru the recent campaign and who also had lived in the Balkans for years. He was familiar with many angles of this apparently insoluble problem.

Late one evening we were sitting in a tavern, which was so Balkan that I thought some one was playing a practical joke on me by giving a Hollywood setting to the place.

Here Is Answer to Problem.

At one end of the room a seven piece orchestra valiantly sawed away at patriotic marches. Not one of its unshaved and collarless players was keeping time with another, nor apparently caring. Along the entire length of one wall and up to the ceiling were crazily slanting shelves holding hundreds of bottles. All the tables were bare and dirty, the tableware chipped, all the knives bent. Dogs, lambs, and goats lay under the tables, waiting for their owners to get their fill of plum spirits.

"Right here," the German officer told me, "you see our answer to the Balkan problem. Only relatively little of the territory of the present Balkan countries will be snipped off by Germany, Italy, and Hungary. For the rest, the Balkan people will have to get along with each other as they always have. But I am sure that our government is tired of their eternal squabbles. They must have a policeman to make them keep peace. Here is the policeman—it is Bulgaria."

It is gratifying to the Germans, he told me, that Bulgaria should have fallen into the job. In the world war Bulgaria was the faithful ally of the central powers and has since maintained its sympathy for Germany.

Bulgaria to Be Boss.

With Germany's backing and with the increase in strength which Bulgaria will get out of this war if the Nazis win, it will be in a position to intimidate Turkey, Jugo-Slavia, and Greece so that they will have to keep the peace. In addition, the territorial arrangements will be such that these three countries will be split apart, at no point having a common frontier with each other. To join forces, they will have to cross territory owned by Bulgaria.

But will this arrangement produce the peaceful and just order which the official spokesmen in Berlin talk about? I asked this officer. He smiled the skeptical smile of every one who has lived in the Balkans.

"Berlin officials have to talk that way," he said. "They probably are up there with only their reports in front of them. They are quite sincere and even think their object practicable. People who deal with Balkanese know that no conceivable arrangement will ever be accepted by them as peaceful and just—especially just. Each little national or linguistic group here considers that real justice would be the extermination of all the others.

Welcomes Please Nazis.

"Each is fed on historic myths and romantic nationalism. It believes that the whole Balkan peninsula belongs to it alone and sometimes a good slice of the rest of Europe besides. The best we can say is that our arrangement will be no worse than the one which has existed for the last 20 years."

On my trip I had noted how sincerely elated the German soldiers were at the enthusiastic welcome they received at certain villages, particularly among the thick Moslem population of south Serbia, where clumsy, homemade swastika flags made a sudden appearance. My officer acquaintance had his own view on this occurrence.

"There is no fake about it," he said. "The enthusiasm was sincere, but it hardly means what our simple minded soldiers think it does. The fanatical Orthodox clergy in Jugo-Slavia and Greece has come down hard on the Mohammedans in the last 20 years. Now the Mohammedans say we Germans are freeing them and in a sense that is true. But their idea of being free is that they will now turn the tables and make things hot for the Orthodox and other Christians."

Fears to Leave U.S.

ILONA MASSEY.

Hollywood, Cal., May 23 [Special].—Blonde Ilona Massey, Hungarian actress, who came to this country three years ago on a work permit, recently completed arrangements for a five weeks' engagement at $4,000 a week in Rio de Janeiro, with all expenses paid for herself and her new husband, Alan Curtis.

Today she learned that if she left the United States the work permit would be revoked automatically and she would become in effect a woman without a country.

"Not for me!" the actress exclaimed. "Alan and I'll honeymoon at Niagara Falls. As for the $20,000, well, the privilege of living in the United States is worth a lot more than that to me."

GERMANY SEEKS VAST ECONOMIC AID FROM RUSSIA

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, May 23.—German-soviet relations have reached an important stage as a result of Adolf Hitler's new political and economic proposals, according to diplomats here.

THE TRIBUNE today obtained from diplomatic sources in Moscow Germany's economic demands. These include:

1. The soviet government is asked to agree to German control of a sufficient number of oil wells and refineries to supply German needs and grant control of necessary transportation facilities to insure delivery of these naphtha products.

2. Russia is urged to grant Germany vast concessions in the black earth section of the Ukraine for the sowing of grain to supply European needs.

3. The soviet government is asked to lease to Germany on a concession basis a number of recently constructed armament works in the Ural industrial region and to supply these factories with raw materials.

Want Russia in Axis.

Authoritative German sources said that the political proposals are even more important and include Russia's adherence to the Rome-Berlin axis.

When questioned as to what concessions Germany might make to Russia, they hinted that Warsaw and some parts of the Polish protectorate might be given to the new axis partner. They also said Germany was pressing Russia to occupy Iran [Persia] and obtain an outlet to the Atlantic thru the Persian gulf.

Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet commissar of foreign affairs, has taken little part in the new German-Russian negotiations, which are being conducted by Premier Josef Stalin and Count Werner von der Schulenburg, the German ambassador. Molotov's name has not been mentioned in the soviet press in the last two weeks, and there are rumors that he may be dismissed as foreign commissar.

Army Favors War.

The latest effort of the Nazi government to gain a fresh understanding with the bolshevik régime is proving a severe trial to the discipline and loyalty of German military forces. German military leaders are eager to destroy the communist régime, which they consider Germany's most dangerous enemy. The idea of a war with Russia is popular in all ranks of the German army.

In Moscow there is another difference of opinion between foreign diplomats and their military attachés. The former are conviced that war is approaching, while the attachés believe the soviet government will surrender to German demands.

FRANCE CHOOSES LIFE—AND NAZIS, DARLAN ASSERTS

Says Hitler to Let It Keep Empire.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 23.—Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan today disclosed in a broadcast to the country some of the new lines of policy which the government is adopting in its negotiations with Adolf Hitler.

Admiral Darlan.

These, Admiral Darlan said in his 10 minute talk, which was applauded by listeners in public places, would leave France in possession of its fleet and colonies and would not involve the nation in war with Britain.

Seeks to Allay U. S. Fears.

His mention of colonies was seen here as an attempt to allay American fears that Germany would get a foothold in French territories in the Caribbean sea. The talk also was believed aimed at reassuring French public sentiment which has been greatly disturbed by English and "Free French" radio propaganda and by uneasiness over relations with the United States.

"On the negotiations now under way depends the future of France," he said. "It is a question of choosing between life and death. Marshal Petain and his government have chosen life."

Darlan did not disclose what arrangements were being worked out with Germany, but it was assumed they would be announced soon in piecemeal fashion. It is expected that an announcement concerning the return of war prisoners will be made next week.

"The chancellor asked me for no colonial territory. He did not ask me to hand over our fleet. He did not ask me to declare war on England. Why should he? Germany waged this war alone at the beginning. It deems itself capable of finishing it alone against no matter what coalition.

"France is freely choosing the way that it is now taking. Its present and its future depend on itself alone. In the future European organization it will have the place which it shall have prepared for itself."

Deal Well Advanced.

The Nazi-French economic deal is believed well advanced but there has been no indication yet of the extent of any political deal or whether there has been a military deal. Far reaching decisions are expected from Marshal Petain's interministerial economic committee which has been meeting in Paris with German officials. Field Marshal Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army who has been in Paris for three days, left by plane today. He was said to have taken part in "many interviews."

U-BOATS RANGE CLOSER TO U. S., BRITISH ASSERT

See Widening Front for Atlantic Battle

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—Authoritative circles hinted today that waters near the coast of North America probably would become a battleground in the campaign against U-boats.

They said it is believed German undersea raiders are operating much farther west in the Atlantic than a few weeks ago on account of the American naval patrol.

[President Roosevelt on April 26 said that American warship patrols were operating 1,000 miles off the Atlantic coast or even farther if that were necessary to the defense of the western hemisphere. On May 4 the navy department refused comment on a report that the patrols had been directed to act as "spotters" of axis warcraft for the British.]

The British asserted that in recent weeks there had been a steady increase in the number of escort vessels for merchant ships crossing the Atlantic with supplies from America.

Explains Seizure of Tanker.

A ministry of economic warfare spokesman said that Great Britain seized the French tanker Sheherazade "because of the imminence of a definite break in the relations between Great Britain and Vichy."

The spokesman said "irrefutable proof that supplies now are reaching Germany thru unoccupied France and French possessions" also was a reason for British seizure of the 13,467 ton vessel.

Oil for Farm Use.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—The French tanker Sheherazade, seized by the British, was understood here to have been proceeding from the United States to French North Africa with a cargo of oil intended for agricultural purposes.

While official comment was lacking on the seizure, or on the London reports that the ship carried "a number of extra consular officials," it was known here that the United States had planned to send some additional consular officials to the French African colonies. There was no report on the number of such officials or their route of travel.

ACE NAZI U-BOAT CAPTAIN IS LOST; MORE SHIPS SUNK

BERLIN, May 23 (AP).—German submarines sank 110,300 tons of shipping in recent operations, it was announced here today.

Guenther Prien.

The high command, however, acknowledged the loss of Germany's ace U-boat commander, Capt. Guenther Prien, whose submarine failed to return from its last assignment. It was Prien who early in the war made the spectacular raid on the British naval base at Scapa Flow, torpedoing the battleship Royal Oak and escaping to receive the jubilant praise of Fuehrer Hitler and appropriate decorations. Now, apparently, he has joined the 810 officers and men who went down with the ship he torpedoed.

Cures Her Hiccups

Sybil Elaine Dudley as she appeared after curing herself.

Sybil Elaine Dudley, 4 years old, had the hiccups yesterday afternoon, but it didn't take a doctor to stop them. Sybil had her own cure. She turned somersaults. Later she told her mother, Mrs. H. E. Dudley, 1840 North Nordica avenue, all about it.

Sybil, who is a namesake of Sybil Jason, the child movie star, has been taking acrobatic and tap dancing lessons since she was 2½ years old, but somersaults still come hard for her. She always lands on her head because she hasn't learned to break her fall. Despite this, according to her mother, Sybil appeared none the worse after her drastic self imposed treatment.

The child, who is 3 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 38 pounds, is now taking ballet lessons and hopes to become "the most beautiful dancer in the world."

FIRE DAMAGES ROOMING HOUSE.

U. S. MUST FORCE PEACE ON WORLD BY WAR—KNOX

Cost Will Be 'Awful,' but Worth It, He Says.

Washington, D. C., May 23 [Special].—America must back up its devotion to peace with its full war might, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared today in a speech in which he advocated further involvement of this country in the European fighting.

The world cannot achieve peace, he declared, until America is "prepared to put behind our devotion to peace the power that we can control on the seas and in the air."

Appealing for ever stronger measures to defeat Germany, the navy secretary asserted "this is a fight for control of the high seas and God help us if we don't bear our share in that fight for the control of the sea and against human slavery."

Halifax Nods at Prediction.

Knox, who recently denounced the neutrality act as a gross blunder, gave a dark outline of the suffering America must endure in the world struggle he is urging this country to enter. Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, a silent guest of honor at the meeting, nodded when Secretary Knox predicted:

"We are going to win thru only by making sacrifices here to match the sacrifices of the British people. It is not going to be a short struggle. It is going to take a long time and cost an awful price, but it is worth the price."

Ship Situation Serious.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission and president of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, also was a speaker at the society's luncheon meeting in the Mayflower hotel.

"No matter what figures are given out, no matter how they are interpreted or misinterpreted, our shipping situation is serious to desperation," Admiral Land said. "You gentlemen have the burden in your hands and on your shoulders to ameliorate this situation of ships, ships, and more ships."

FINDS PROWLER IN BED.

Early yesterday Miss Marie Buttermeister, 18 years old, 848 Lill avenue, awoke to find a prowler lying beside her on the bed. When she screamed, the man fled thru an open window a few feet above the ground.

CHARGES WELLES BLASTED FRENCH, BRITISH ACCORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 23.—Sumner Welles, American undersecretary of state, during his visit to European countries last year, blasted an economic deal which had just been concluded between the British and French empires, according to revelations made by Henry Clerc, former French deputy and former mayor of Aix le Bains, in a lecture here tonight. His talk was to explain the need for coöperation in reorganizing the continent.

Clerc said an Anglo-Saxon victory would do Europe no good because it could only come after a very long war which would leave Europe in ruins.

In such a predicament, unless it wanted to see hundreds of millions of Europeans fall back into a state of savagery, the United States would have to stand profitless the cost of reconstruction, Clerc argued.

"The United States does not seem to understand the real economic situation in Europe," he said. "This lack of understanding was manifested during the spring of 1940 when Sumner Welles submitted a memorandum [urging a reutrn to liberal economy] to the London and Paris governments which completely torpedoed the economic accord which had just been concluded between the British and French empires.

"This accord between the two democracies would have been the basis of their future economic organization."

The inference, he seemed to leave, is that the United States was to blame for the rupture between the French and British last spring, at least economically.

BRITISH ADD 92 JAP VESSELS TO THEIR BLACKLIST

11 Large Pacific Tankers Are Affected.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—Great Britain tightened up on Japanese shipping in the Pacific today with a warning published in Los Angeles that "all disabilities" would be imposed on 11 large Japanese tankers and 81 smaller craft.

British officials here said this represented an extension of the long standing blacklist of Japanese and other ships which contravene British rules.

Altho such ships face possible seizure, it was indicated that the "disabilities" probably would involve only the denial of British port facilities and other measures hampering their operations.

The British were believed to have insufficient naval forces in the Pacific to undertake widespread search and seizure operations.

Use of Ports Denied.

The denial of port facilities, it was explained here, meant that if any of the blacklisted ships sought to put into Hongkong or any other British far eastern port, they would be refused port and pilot privileges and other obstacles would be put in their way.

The Los Angeles warning said that "charterers and shippers are advised in their own interests that by reason of contravention of British regulations, the British government will impose all disabilities in their power on trading of the undermentioned vessels."

In the Atlantic, failure of a neutral ship to obtain a navicert would, the British say, constitute contravention of British regulations. The British, however, have not applied a navicert system in the Pacific.

Would Ban Oil for Japan.

A four way move to stop exports of petroleum to Japan has been initiated in congress by Representative Samuel A. Weiss [D., Pa.], a member serving his first term. Weiss introduced in the house these four measures:

1. To make it unlawful to export petroleum or petroleum products to Japan or its possessions under penalties of serving one year in prison or paying a $5,000 fine.
2. To prohibit the clearance of any ship bound for Japan with petroleum or petroleum products.
3. To require President Roosevelt to include petroleum for Japan in any embargo proclamation issued under the export licensing system.
4. To urge the President to embargo petroleum shipments to Japan.

Japanese Decorate Head of U. S. Episcopal Mission

TOKIO, May 23 (AP). — Bishop Charles Shriver Reifsnider, head of the American Episcopal mission, was decorated today with the third order of the sacred treasure, Japan, in recognition of distinguished services in education. A missionary in Japan since 1901, Dr. Reifsnider was president of St. Paul's university from 1912 to 1940. He received the fourth order in 1928.

VOTE DOWN CURB ON SEARCHING OF PRIVATE HOMES

Senators Approve Raids Without Warrants.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—After rejecting a proposal to require at least the formality of a search warrant for the raiding of private homes, the senate today approved and sent to the White House a conference agreement on the administration's priorities control bill.

The measure gives President Roosevelt absolute control over the delivery of all materials used by American industry and the products thereof, regardless of their connection with the nation's armament program.

The conference agreement was adopted by a vote of 35 to 25 over the protests of Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], who asked that the senate insist on retention of his search warrant amendment.

Amendment Once Adopted.

The Danaher amendment, adopted without objection when the senate passed the bill last week, was thrown out in conference with the house managers. It would have prohibited the inspection of any private dwelling under the powers granted by the act without a warrant directing the search, issued in accordance with the requirements of the espionage act of 1917. It was an amendment to a section giving the President power "to obtain such information from, require such reports by, and make such inspection of the premises of any person, firm, or corporation as may be necessary or appropriate, in his discretion, to the enforcement or administration" of the act.

Senator Danaher said the bill would permit federal agents to search any private home in the United States for any purpose.

"They will not use the priorities bill to search people's homes for aluminum or magnesium, but they will use it on the pretext of searching for aluminum, on the pretense of searching for magnesium, and having gained access, they will go the full limit in any search," Danaher said.

Constitution No Guarantee.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], chairman of the military affairs committee and manager of the bill, argued that the Danaher amendment was not necessary because the constitution forbids unreasonable searches and seizures and requires search warrants. To this argument Danaher replied that warrants are not required, under federal law, for searches deemed by the courts to be reasonable.

Reynolds insisted that the senate conferees put up a strong fight for retention of the Danaher amendment and faithfully represented Senator Danaher's views to the house conferees. "But the house conferees insisted — particularly Representative Vinson [Carl Vinson (D., Ga.)], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, that the amendment be stricken out," Reynolds said.

MASS OF FLOTSAM MAY TURN OUT TO BE WORTH $50,000

BY STANLEY JOHNSTONE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD THE S. S. SIBONEY EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK.—Two tons of smelly and rubbery substance today were lying on the after deck of this ship. If the assumption of Capt. Wenzel Habel is correct, 1,000 pounds of this mass is ambergris—the biggest and most valuable piece ever found. It may prove to be worth $50,000 and $80,000.

[Ambergris is a secretion of the sperm whale highly valued in perfumery. Masses of it found in tropical waters weigh 60 and 225 pounds.]

This prize was picked up in the Atlantic yesterday—one day out of Bermuda. After a sparkling white object was sighted, Capt. Habel changed the ship's course. Believing it was a piece of wreckage, a lifeboat was ordered to investigate. The substance was taken abroad the Siboney. Asked why he believed it was other than rotting blubber, Capt. Habel said: "I noticed that sharks had not eaten it. Nothing eats ambergris."

like a big political rally on the night before the election. Many of the women carried American flags and wore red, white, and blue sashes or armbands. Many of the men wore poppies in their coat lapels, obtained from the veterans' present poppy sale campaign, a symbolic touch for the occasion.

Notables Sit on Stage.

On the stage sat such notables as Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.]. Mrs. Ida O'Brien, New York state chairman of the Gold Star Mothers, was brought forward and introduced.

Flynn declared with emphasis that the committee had nothing to do with Nazis, bundists, Fascists, or other subversive elements.

Nevertheless, two hours before the meeting started the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies put out a statement attacking the meeting and claiming it had the full support of Nazis, communists, and anti-Semitic organizations.

This statement, issued before the speeches were ever delivered, contended the crowd had booed mention of the President's name and of "the heroic country that stands between us and the barbarism of Hitler."

It was issued over the name of Dr. Frank Kingdon, New York chairman. Kingdon, incidentally, was born in England and was not a naturalized citizen of the United States until 1918.

Foes Distribute Hand Bills.

Agents of the Friends of Democracy, meanwhile, went around outside the auditorium distributing hand bills linking Lindbergh with the Nazis and claiming the meeting was packed with Hitler enthusiasts. There was no rioting or trouble reported. Six hundred police on foot, horse, and motorcycle preserved order both inside and outside the Garden.

Socialist Leader Norman Thomas, who ran for President last fall on an anti-war platform, read over President Roosevelt's campaign pledges to keep the nation out of war and the crowd repeated the phrases in a rising crescendo. Thomas urged support for Senator Wheeler's proposal for a national referendum on the war issue.

Referring to convoys as only a symbol, another step toward war which would lead to fresh demands by the war mongers in 24 hours, Thomas demanded that the President refrain from starting any naval warfare on his own hook.

Thomas Attacks Pepper.

The Socialist leader also singled out the senate's most ardent war promoter, Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] for attack. He said Pepper advocated "an arrogant imperialism worthy of Hitler himself" when in a recent senate debate he sought a declaration of war on five nations in the name of peace.

Kathleen Norris, noted author, delivered a "message from the hearts of hundreds of thousands of American women." Citing the futility of taking part in Europe's endless wars, she asserted America refuses to be "frightened into this war."

America realizes now, said Mrs. Norris, that Europe has been at war almost continuously for 1,000 years without settling any real boundaries. Then she spoke of the American cemeteries in France.

"Never Again," Crowd Cries.

"We dug those graves," she said, "we fathers and mothers. We were frightened into that war. We were blinded by propaganda, by the thrill of martial music and of thousands of flags."

There were cries of "Never again!"

During interludes in the program, Chairman Flynn read messages from prominent Americans all over the country indorsing the America First movement. One of these came from Cardinal William O'Connell, archbishop of Boston.

"To deny the possibility of immediate peace is to deny the presence of intelligence and good will on earth," read the archbishop's message. "Practically the whole population of our dear country is averse to the continuation of this stupid and insane war. Nearly all the people of this country have decided already and still hold to their decision that the United States must keep out of this madness created by hate."

Lillian Gish Sends Message.

Lillian Gish, the actress, sent her deepest thanks to Wheeler, Lindbergh, and Thomas "for their fearless fight to keep us out of a ruinous war."

The surprise message of the evening came from Sinclair Lewis, the novelist who wrote a best seller, "It Can't Happen Here," about the setting up of a ficticious dictatorship in this country. Lewis is the husband of Dorothy Thompson, one of the most militant interventionists in the movement toward war.

In his speech, Chairman Flynn denounced the un-American smear tactics of the war party.

"Of course an organization that has been able to raise such a barrier between the war makers and their objects has got to be discredited," he said. "The way to discredit it is to smear it. The way to smear it is to call men and women who have been sacrificing their time and sacrificing their interests, Nazis and fellow travelers of Nazis. And upon what ground?

"The great American cardinal whose prayer and blessing I have just read to you must be a Nazi because some misguided fool somewhere in Manhattan, with Nazi sympathies, manages to get a few tickets to one of our meetings."

It was at this point that Flynn departed from his prepared speech to denounce McWilliams.

"All the young men and women of the America First committee who work night and day to save this country from war are Nazis because a few crackpots here and in some other towns also, for thoroly bad reasons, want to see us out of the war.

Seeks Support of Millions.

"I am one of the millions of Americans who if we had a platform and a megaphone would tell the new crop of self-appointed prophets that we see every reason for not going to war and that we regard any use of our navy to convoy ships as a warlike action.

"This organization seeks the support of the one hundred million Americans who are against war. It is not crazy enough to want the support of a handful of Bundists, communists, and Christian Fronters who are without number, without influence, without power, and without respect in this or any other community.

"Those who are smearing us are artfully and cunningly appealing to both racial and religious intolerance and we will leave that dark and damnable art to them. We will take no part in it."

Then Flynn called for "Citizen" Lindbergh and the crowd went wild.

Warns of Losing Democracy.

In his speech Lindbergh asserted that if the country were plunged into the conflict abroad in the name of saving democracy we would likely end up by losing it at home.

"There are already signs of danger around us," he said. "We have been shouting against intolerance in Europe, but it has been rising in America. We deplore the fact that the German people cannot vote on the policies of their government—that Hitler led his people into war without asking their consent. But, have we been given the opportunity to vote on the policy our government has followed?

No Chance to Vote, He Says.

"No, we have been led toward war against the opposition of four-fifths of our people. We had no more chance to vote on the issue of peace and war last November than if we had been in a totalitarian state ourselves. We in America were given just about as much chance to express our beliefs at the election last fall as the Germans would have been given if Hitler had run against Goering."

The interventionists overlooked our failure in the last war "to make the world safe for democracy," Lindbergh declared.

"They overlook the persecution and the intolerance which followed that war in Europe," he continued. "They do not seem to realize that the elements they dislike in Germany lie beneath the surface of every nation; that they are here in America just as they are in Europe, and that nothing is as likely to bring them out as war—especially a prolonged war."

Col. Lindbergh called for what he termed "an independent destiny" for America. This does not mean isolation, he said, but it does mean that the future of America would not be tied to the eternal wars of Europe.

"An independent American destiny means, on the one hand, that our soldiers will not have to fight everybody in the world who prefers some other system of life to ours," he went on to define. "On the other hand, it means that we will fight anybody and everybody who attempts to interfere with our hemisphere, and that we will do so with all the resources of our nation.

"It means that we rely on our own strength, our own ability, and our own courage to preserve this nation and to defeat any one who is rash enough to attack us.

Wants Faith in America.

"It means that we have faith that these United States of ours can compete in commerce or in war with any combination of foreign powers; and that we are no more afraid of the Europe of Germany than our forefathers were afraid of the Europe of France or England or Spain."

America has nothing to fear, but the nation lacks leadership, Lindbergh asserted.

"We in America should have no reason to fear," he continued. "With adequate leadership we can be the strongest and most influential nation in the world. No other country has as great resources. None is as easily defended.

Defines Type of Leadership.

"We lack only a leadership that places America first—a leadership that does for 130 million people what Washington did for us when we were only 3 million people—a leadership that tells what it means and means what it says. Give us that and we will be the most powerful country in the world. Give us that, and we will be so united that no one will dare to attack us."

Lindbergh recalled he had opposed the war before it was declared because he felt it would be disastrous for Europe. He now opposes our entry because he does not believe our system of government and way of life could survive. Lindbergh spoke of the staggering cost in American lives.

"And here I address a plea to any interventionists who may be listening to me tonight," he said. "I ask them to consider what a prolonged war will bring. I ask them to consider what the last war brought to Europe—to Russia, to Italy, to Germany, and now to France and England and even the smaller countries.

Foresees Frightful Losses.

"I ask them to remember that we in America returned from that war with the loss of relatively few soldiers, but that now we face a war in which our losses are likely to run into the millions, and in which victory itself is doubtful.

"I ask them to stop and consider whether democracy, tolerance, and our American way of life are likely to survive in such a struggle. Or may we not find conditions as bad or worse in America after a war, than they are in the dictatorships of Europe today?

"It is all very well to shout for war, to say that aggression must be stopped, that our ideals of democracy must be preserved all over the world. But when the shouting is over, then we will be faced with the reality of war. Some one must lay plans for invading Germany, for invading Japan, for invading possibly Russia, France, Italy, and Spain as well.

Calls Task Staggering.

"Some one must do the fighting; some one the dying.

"When we turn from sentiment and emotion to reality and action, the task we face is staggering. We find ourselves unprepared for war, about to enter an action that will require us to cross two oceans and to invade nations with a far greater population than ours, nations with armies that have been trained for years, armies that have been hardened by generations of warfare, armies that are larger now than ours can ever be.

"We find ourselves in a position where we would have to force landings on hostile coasts against the prepared positions of the strongest military powers in the world.

"Does any one think that democracy can survive a conflict such as this will bring? Does any one think that freedom can exist even in America if we are forced into such a war?

Jeopardizing Our Civilization.

"The United States is a nation of mixed races, religions, and beliefs. We came from every part of Europe and from every portion of the earth. Here in this country we have learned to live peacefully together. Here we have developed a racial tolerance such as the world has never known before. Here we have developed a civilization in many ways never previously approached.

"Why must all this be jeopardized by injecting the wars and the hatreds of Europe into our midst? Why, in this second century of our national existence, must we be confronted with the quarrels of the old world that our forefathers left behind when they settled in this country?"

Senator Wheeler, in his address, told the crowd that peace or war was not a partisan issue but an American issue. He asserted the people from one end of the country to the other to whom he had talked on his recent 7,600 mile tour thru more than 20 states, were firmly resolved to avoid this war.

Simply Pro-Americans.

"These crowded, overflow meetings from Boston to Denver were composed of a cross section of the population," declared the Montanan. "They were not pro-Nazi pro-Fascist or procommunist. They were simply pro-Americans. They, like myself, were sympathetic with the English people. No blood but English flows thru my veins or any of my family. And next to being pro-American I am pro-English. I greatly admire the English. Unlike us they have never been accused of being sentimental suckers."

The senator had a few observations to make on the recent westward journey of Lord Halifax, the British ambassador.

Halifax Tour Assailed.

"When the Willkie crusade to preserve the Chinese way of life flopped Lord Halifax was rushed into the middle west," he said. "Talk of subversive activities—speak of fifth columnists—what brazen effrontery! A British ambassador touring the United States to arouse our people to sacrifice their sons and their treasure to save the British empire.

"The American people resent this abuse of diplomatic courtesy. They resent it just as they resent the untiring efforts of the royal refugees to plunge us into war. They know that these royalists did not give their subjects the democracy they now implore us to save. They know that these royalists did not solve the economic and social problems in their lands."

After ridiculing the people who fear that Hitler's mechanized forces will be rolling down Broadway, Senator Wheeler dwelt at length on the stupendous physical difficulties the Nazis face in an invasion of the United States.

But the war mongers have conjured up the threat of an economic invasion, the senator said. He declared the American way of life could meet any such threat.

"And to those who preach economic defeatism I say—as I said to their craven hearted allies who fear Hitler will soon be on Broadway—have faith in American industry—in American labor—in American business—and in American genius, Wheeler declared. "They are all first class. Free American industry is superior to controled Nazi slaves, and I know that American business men are smarter than any Nazi competitor.

"If the economic history of the world proves anything it proves that low wages and slave labor cannot compete with free labor. American wages have always been high and we have always competed and held our own in world trade. Chinese factories—owned and operated by the British with cheap coolie labor—have never been a real threat. And in India most factories are equipped with modern English machinery. The great majority of the executives and technical experts are British—the cheapest labor is employed—and yet India is no economic threat.

"The plight of India's workers is tragic. Go there—as I have gone there—see them earn a few pennies for their day's labor. See them spend it for the cheapest food; see them asleep at night on the public thoroughfares, on streets and on sidewalks with only boards or concrete under them, and nothing over them except the heavens and the British flag."

2,000 AT PEACE RALLY OF MINISTERS CALL ON F. D. R. TO AVERT WAR

A resolution urging President Roosevelt to keep this country out of war was adopted last night by an audience of about 2,000 persons attending the first in a series of meetings sponsored by the National Ministers No War committee. There was only one dissenting vote.

The Rev. E. S. Jones.

The meeting, held in Orchestra hall, was addressed by Dr. E. Stanley Jones, for many years a missionary to India. He declared that "no man should be the one to decide on war. If this country is going in it should be settled by the people." He also said that in his opinion the United States should act as a mediator, not as a participant in the present European struggle.

Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary and national chairman of the National Churchmen's Compaign for Peace Thru Mediation, presided. Speaking for the committee he said he felt the common people of Britain, the United States or Germany did not want war and that all would welcome a just peace.

AN ANTI-LINDBERGH RALLY IS PLANNED IN PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 23 [Special].—A "Save Freedom Citizens committee," hurriedly organized here, announced plans today for a massmeeting in Convention hall next Wednesday "to make Philadelphia's answer to appeasers known thruout the world."

The rally was planned after it had become known that Charles A. Lindbergh would address a meeting the following night at the Arena under auspices of the America First committee.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York and William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, will address the gathering. Wendell Willkie, also invited to speak, said he would notify the committee tomorrow of his decision. The "Save Freedom Citizens committee" is headed by George Stuart Patterson, cotton broker, with Mayor Robert E. Lamberton as honorary chairman.

HEADS FOR THREE ARMY BRANCHES NAMED BY F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt appointed new chiefs today for three branches of America's expanding army, the air corps, infantry, and chemical warfare service.

At the same time, he jumped H. H. Arnold two ranks, from colonel to the permanent rank of major general. Arnold will continue as deputy chief of staff. Arnold, who has just made a survey of conditions in Britain, also has held the rank of chief of the air corps. Maj. Gen. George H. Brett was nominated to succeed Arnold in this post.

Brig. Gen. Courtney Hodges was selected to be chief of infantry to succeed Maj. Gen. George A. Lynch, who retired last month.

Col. William N. Porter, was nominated to be chief of the chemical warfare service to replace Gen. Walter C. Baker, who also retired last month.

Also advanced to the permanent rank of major general was another deputy chief of staff, Brig. Gen. William Bryden. Others selected for advancement to major general on a permanent basis were Maj. Gens. Richard C. Moore, Henry C. Pratt, Walter T. Wilson, Ernest D. Peek, Frederic H. Smith, and Philip B. Peyton, who have held temporary rank.

NO WAR! MIDWEST TELLS PRESIDENT TO KEEP PLEDGES

Torrent of Messages Goes to White House.

Hundreds of persons in the middle west sent telegrams and letters yesterday to President Roosevelt during the Plea to the President hour. They demanded that he fulfill his campaign promise to keep this country out of foreign wars.

Officials of the America First committee, sponsors of the hour, said that both telegraph companies reported their wires were heavily burdened from noon to 1 p. m., the period designated for sending a torrent of messages to Washington.

Many Write Letters.

Many of the 218,000 members of the committee's 93 Illinois units and an estimated 20,000 or more in Iowa sent messages, officials reported. Many wrote brief letters whose general theme was "Keep us out of Europe's war." Others sent coupons which were printed in yesterday's newspapers.

"We hope the letters and wires to the President show him the sentiment of the people," said Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, national vice chairman. "The messages should tell him how we feel about getting into the war.

"He cannot disregard the voice of the people. That voice says, 'We do not want war. The war in Europe is not ours. We want to stay at peace.'"

Protestant Editor Writes.

One of those who wrote to Washington is Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, leading Protestant journal. He asked that President Roosevelt attempt to mediate the war.

"The precondition of such mediation is that you give assurance that the United States has no purpose to enter the war as a belligerent. Our rôle is peace, peacemaking and mediation. This is not America's war and I pray that you will be given divine wisdom and divine guidance to keep our country out of it."

Iowa Drive Planned.

Committee officials, convinced of the success of the hour, announced plans for an extended membership drive in Iowa. They said response to the plea for messages was particularly strong in Dubuque, Clinton, and Sioux City. Dates for meetings in the state and plans for organization of new chapters are being arranged.

In Highland Park, young members of the America First unit began a house to house canvass, handing out leaflets bearing President Roosevelt's utterance, "I hate war," and urging attendance at the units' first meeting Monday night at the Highland Park Y. M. C. A.

The speaker will be Dr. Harold G. Swann, University of Chicago physiologist. One of the members of the chapter is Mrs. Robert E. Wood, wife of Gen. Wood.

RESERVE MILITIA TO MAKE DEBUT MEMORIAL DAY

The 2,500 men of the recently organized 1st brigade, Illinois Reserve militia, will make their first public appearance in Friday's Memorial day parade, Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin announced yesterday. Organized to replace the National Guard after it was mustered into federal service, the militia is required by the war department to wear a uniform distinctly different from that of the regular army. The new uniforms were only recently received.

NEW PRESS HIKES TRIBUNE OUTPUT BY 50,000 HOURLY

To meet the requirements of expanding circulation, a new press manufactured by the Goss Printing Press company has gone into operation in THE TRIBUNE'S black press room. The press, containing 7 units and a folder, is capable of printing more than 50,000 newspapers an hour and contains many features of advanced design. Thirty press units installed by THE TRIBUNE between 1923 and 1926 are being removed to make way for 32 new press units similar to the press just installed.

When this modernization program is completed, THE TRIBUNE will have 116 press units, of which 16 can be used in high speed color printing.

One of the most important features of the new press is its safety designing. Guards developed by THE TRIBUNE cover gears and rollers which formerly made serious accidents possible. A new color printing development insures greater clarity and distinctness in color printing, and automatic devices permit adjustments to be made on the press mechanism while the press is running at full speed.

The power drive of the new press is operated by alternating current. THE TRIBUNE'S older black press units are operated by direct electrical current. Only in the last few years have alternating current drives and controlers been developed to a point where they are practicable for newspaper presses, but Tribune engineers believe that all presses eventually will be powered with alternating current.

LICENSE DENIED TO REORGANIZED KLEVER SHAMPAY

City Collector Louis Rixmann refused yesterday to issue a license to the Gaines Dry Cleaners, Inc., a reorganization of the Klever Shampay Cleaning company at 4633-49 Cottage Grove avenue. The Klever Shampay company, which was alleged to have been controled by Murray Humphreys, a lieutenant in the Nitti-Stanton gang of hoodlums, was closed by the city three weeks ago.

DEWEY DEPLORES CIVILIAN GOUGING OF SERVICE MEN

Hits Unfair Prices; Cites Lack of Facilities.

Thomas E. Dewey, New York district attorney and national chairman of the United Service Organizations, yesterday painted a sad picture of the reception given draftees by civilians in towns and cities near training camps. He predicted a "very nasty situation the country over" if 1,500,000 men leave the armed forces feeling resentful of their treatment while making their sacrifice for national defense.

Dewey stopped in Chicago during a coast to coast inspection tour which to date has taken him to 21 army camps and naval bases. He is a self-styled "traveling salesman" for the U. S. O., which has launched a campaign to raise $10,765,000 this year to provide recreational facilities.

Includes Varied Service Groups.

Organizations in the U. S. O. are the YMCA, YWCA, National Catholic Community service, Salvation Army, Jewish Welfare board, and National Travelers' Aid association.

Recreational facilities provided by the army and navy in the camps are good, Dewey said, but a different situation exists where 50,000 or more men are forced to spend their leisure time in towns often of 5,000 population or less.

He cited instances of restaurants which sell coffee to regular customers for 5 cents a cup but charge soldiers 10 cents, and bowling alleys which have one price for civilians and another for men in uniform.

Tells Responsibility to Men.

"The soldier and the sailor have to have a place to go where they don't have to buy their way in, because they just don't have the money for that," Dewey said.

Accompanied by Lieut. Col. William H. Wells of the war department's bureau of public relations and Paul E. Lockwood, his executive assistant district attorney, Dewey went to the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

After a conference with Rear Admiral John Downes, Dewey talked with some 75 naval recruits. At Fort Sheridan, where he was met by Brig. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel, he followed the same procedure.

Late in the afternoon, Dewey left for a massmeeting in Milwaukee in the evening. He is to return to Chicago this morning to leave by plane for Los Angeles.

TANNERY STRIKE ENDED; 600 WILL GET PAY BOOSTS

A 36 day old strike at the Griess-Pfleger Tanning company, Waukegan, ended last night as 600 striking employés ratified an agreement whereby they will receive wage increases of 7 cents an hour.

The agreement was promoted by Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor, and his executive assistant, John Meade, after three federal mediators had failed.

The company also agreed to grant one week vacations with pay, effective next year. Workers will be given $25 each this year in lieu of vacations. J. Harry Jordan, plant superintendent, and Abe Feinglass, international vice president of the Fur and Leather workers union [CIO], said the wage increase would add $100,000 annually to the workers' pay.

ABORTION RING KILLER ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA

Daniel Moriarity, suspended policeman and confessed "fixer" for an abortion ring, was arraigned before Chief Justice James F. Fardy in Criminal court yesterday on a charge of murdering Miss Jennie Martin, 24 years old. Moriarity pleaded not guilty. He was indicted Thursday.

Judge Fardy assigned the case to Judge John A. Sbarbaro who will set a date for the trial next Monday.

Moriarity, who had been assigned to the state's attorney's office, shot Miss Martin to death in her home at 4367 Lake Park avenue on April 29. At the time of the crime he said he had mistaken the girl for her mother, Mrs. Ada Martin, who has been charged with conspiracy in connection with the investigation of an abortion ring. He later admitted he had accepted $3,000 from Mrs. Martin to fix the charge against her. She denied this.

WAR OR PEACE FOR AMERICA.

Senator Tom Connally, Texas Democrat and an intimate in Mr. Roosevelt's circle, says that he understands there is some sort of a peace movement in Europe and he added that if Great Britain "keeps her independence and her navy that is all we can ask. We can't dictate just how they are going to draw all the lines in Europe."

Washington has these rumors that Great Britain has been approached with proposals which would not touch the integrity of its empire, but would require it to accept German arrangements on the continent in what Hitler calls the new order.

Admiral Jean Darlan, vice premier of France, has broadcast to his country an appeal for support of the Vichy government and of Marshal Petain's collaboration policy. Both Petain and Darlan, it is revealed, have been in direct negotiation with Hitler—Darlan at Berchtesgaden at Hitler's request. The French people were told by the vice premier that France under the proposed arrangements would retain its empire and its fleet and could have the peace it needed to make its recovery from the war in which it had been conquered.

There is no official intimation from London that Mr. Churchill's government would listen to any peace proposals which could be expected from Germany. The official statements are all of the other tone. Mr. Eden, British foreign minister, has put the Vichy government on notice that collaboration with Germany will bring reprisals. The British have not retreated from the declaration that a Hitler dominated Europe would be intolerable.

Nevertheless, many people in Washington with some knowledge of underground currents believe that the attitude of the American government will have a great deal to do with decisions abroad. They believe that what Mr. Roosevelt has to say in his radio speech Tuesday night may have a determining effect upon the course of events.

He has twice postponed that speech, apparently thinking that the American people were not ready for it. It is believed that he has made Mr. Churchill more promises than he has revealed to the people here, altho the general nature of these commitments has been outlined by the cabinet officials whose statements were intended to prepare the way for what Mr. Roosevelt himself may say later.

Undoubtedly a war speech by Mr. Roosevelt would mean that the war would go on to an end which no one can foresee. Mr. Roosevelt personally has adopted the extreme war objectives of the British government. He has gone beyond them. He has declared for the four freedoms everywhere in the world, altho no one knows exactly what he means or how he would carry out his program. In the very narrowest construction of his pronouncements he means the overthrow of dictatorial government in Europe and the stopping of Japan in Asia.

Senator Connally narrowed the question down to what the Defend America advocates have declared to be the direct national interest of the United States—that is to prevent the destruction of British sea power, which they say is our first line of defense. When they go beyond that, as Mr. Roosevelt does, they drop all pretense of the defense of the United States and adopt a world-wide crusade.

It would be said that a peace now would be only a breathing spell which would allow Hitler to consolidate his gains, organize the continent politically and economically in German interests, and exploit it to increase his military power. It would be said that this would be a treacherous peace, leaving irreconcilable systems of government facing each other, and that the advantage would rest entirely with the enemy.

That assumes that the alternative—a prolonged and devastating war involving the unprepared United States—would be better.

What is overlooked is that the alternative might be a peace in which Great Britain would submit to crippling conditions because none other could be had. The United States has only naval aid which it could give the British now in addition to what it is already supplying. Its troops are not equipped, it could not fight the war now, and our industries make no promises of being able to produce war equipment in sufficient amounts within less than a year. That year might prove to be the decisive one and the decision might be disastrous.

Possibly the United States could not bring the war to an end with a peace which left Great Britain intact. The British might be willing to take all the risks with full understanding that American aid would be insufficient. They might also see that the risks were too great and the immediate advantages of retiring from the continental sphere were greater than anything offered by the alternative.

We can only guess as to that; but we can see clearly that if Mr. Roosevelt rejects everything except his crusade for his freedoms and his determination to remake the world he may be inviting the British to their ruin and bring a disaster of terrible dimensions down on his own country.

He may have the power to do this. He must take the responsibility for it if he does. He already has the authority to commit acts which will lead to war. Congress hasn't put the restrictions upon him which should have been contained in different grants which have made it possible for him to go to fighting.

If, by his executive orders, he brings about a war in spite of his promises and in spite of the national opposition, he can't predict what will be the outcome of it, but anybody can see what a part of the cost will be. What all the cost will be no one can tell.

BORROWING TO PAY THE GROCERY BILL.

The city of Chicago is preparing to ask the legislature for authority to meet its unpaid bills and judgments with a bond issue. This is a thoroly bad proposal. The legislature should not grant it. If it is so foolish as to do so, the enabling act should receive a prompt veto from Gov. Green.

The city's conduct is similar to that of a householder who has lived beyond his means for a number of years and then goes to the bank with a request for a loan to pay his grocery bill. A wise banker would advise such an individual to reduce his scale of living and pay his debts out of the money so saved. That is what the city should do.

The use of borrowed money to pay current operating expenses, or debts incurred because operating expenses were allowed to exceed income, is inexcusable. It is, among other things, a gross fraud on the taxpayers, who because of the interest burden on bonds have to pay nearly twice as much eventually to retire the bonds as they would have had to pay to meet the original debt.

Since Jan. 1, 1933, the city has spent for ordinary operating costs approximately $5,681,000 more than its operating revenue during that period. Between that date and May 1 of this year unpaid bills increased from $9,025,000 to $10,064,000. Judgments against the corporate fund, with accrued interest, increased $4,642,000 from $719,000 in 1933 to $5,361,000 at the beginning of the month. The only difference between an unpaid bill and a judgment is that in latter instances the creditor has grown weary of waiting for payment and has gone to court to collect.

These are not the only short term debts of the city. In 1933 there were $6,569,000 in judgments and accrued interest, representing governmental extravagance prior to that time, subject to payment out of the special judgment tax fund levy. At present those judgments, with interest, have been reduced to $3,132,000.

The city also owed $10,662,000 in special assessment judgments in 1933, which have been reduced at present to $371,000. This sum is practically balanced by a bond issue of $11,285,000 sold several years ago to pay judgments. This was a more or less excusable procedure, if it is considered that the money went to retire obligations originally contracted for capital improvements, not operating expenses. The present proposal is not comparable.

Two things should be understood regarding the existing debts. The first is that they were all incurred on the authority of legal appropriations; the second, that the appropriations, in turn, were based on legally adequate estimates of city revenue. The hitch is that the revenue did not come in because of tax delinquency.

This tax delinquency is a condition of long standing in Chicago. It was well known to the members of the city council when they passed their budgets, but they consciously neglected to take it into account. The bond proposal seeks to load on the taxpayers who have already paid their obligations the debts from the taxpayers who have refused to pay.

As chief executive of the city Mayor Kelly is properly concerned over the city's loss of its credit standing, due to its failure to pay its debts, and the consequent higher prices it must pay for supplies. As head of the political organization that controls the county as well as the city government, he has the remedy in his hands. That remedy is not an unjustified bond issue. It is for the mayor, in his capacity as a political leader, to step over to the county building and demand some action on tax collection. In that demand he will have full support from the legislators, a committee of whom recently laid the tax delinquency mess at the door of lax county officials. Bills to expedite tax collections are pending in the legislature. They are the only legislative relief the city and other local governments need, or should have.

Editorial of the Day

TWO ROADS FOR AMERICA.

[Ohio State Journal.]

America has two roads ahead of it, in case we actually get into the fighting. One of these is the road that leads to Hitler's stronghold in Europe. The other leads to strategic points within our own natural water and land barriers. To choose the former means that we would take the war to Hitler. To choose the latter means that if Hitler wanted to fight us, he would have to come here. It takes no superreasoning to say which road would be to our advantage.

Everything that has happened since Chamberlain asserted war existed between England and Germany shows that Hitler is virtually impregnable on the continent of Europe. As he conquers nation after nation, his position is made stronger for the reason that he can arbitrarily draw on additional resources. England, with all her famed power, is not able to obtain and hold a position on the continent; even the grip she had on North Africa is slipping. Her control over the Suez canal, her vital lifeline, is in danger.

What reasons exist for any one to believe the United States, 3,000 and more miles distant across an ocean, can go over there and accomplish what Britain has signally failed to do? Where are the transports and where are the literally millions of trained, properly equipped soldiers, and the modern mechanized units, the bombers, divers, fighting planes and pursuit ships that would be needed for us to hazard such a foolhardy thing?

It will require years for us to create them in necessary quantity, and Hitler meantime will also be building against just this possibility. In plain words, the United States is not prepared to tackle Hitler in Europe or any where else across the Atlantic.

Most of the reasons that prevent us being a serious menace to Hitler in Europe are factors which likewise prevent Hitler from being a menace to us in our hemisphere. He has the men and the equipment, it is granted; but he does not have the ships, he does not have the bases over here and he does not have the advantage of fighting on his own field.

If we build a defense here at home, from Greenland to South America; if we fortify our position in our zone we will be more impregnable here than Hitler is in Europe.

With the strongest navy in existence, with the greatest resources any one nation can boast, with an industrial machine that can and will create defense armaments until these will exist in abundance to meet every conceivable need, the United States, in its own sphere, cannot be conquered.

That is the fact we must remember at a time when too many of our war mongers are flirting with the dangerous thought of fighting overseas, where we could only expect at the very best a long, costly war, taking heavy toll of American lives; where it is more than probable we would simply stick out our chin for the same sort of knockout punch that has already been delivered to nearly a score of unprepared nations.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

ONE HUNDRED YEARS YOUNG.

You may add to the long list of this year's important anniversaries the 100th of Punch, England's famous weekly. The birthday will occur on July 17 and the centennial number will reach the periodical tables of American clubs two or three weeks later. Deliveries of Punch have been delayed by the war, but the clever little magazine never loses an issue.

The first prospectus for Punch announced it as "a New Work of Wit and Whim, embellished with Cuts and Caricatures. . . . This Guffawgraph is intended to form a refuge for destitute wit—an asylum for the thousands of orphaned jokes—the superannuated Joe Millers—the millions of perishing puns which are now wandering about without so much as a shelf to rest upon." Its title was adopted as a pun, for its leading spirit was named Mark Lemon, and at a preliminary meeting of contributors somebody remarked that the paper should be like a good mixture of punch, "being nothing without Lemon."

The familiar title page of Punch dates from Jan. 6, 1844. Richard Doyle was the designer. It is the sixth in the series. The first, by A. S. Henning, depicted a Punch and Judy show; the second, by "Phiz" [H. K. Browne], also used the puppet booth theme, with Punch alone; the third was by William Harvey, the fourth by Sir John Gilbert, and the fifth by Henry Meadows.

Mark Lemon, principal founder, was a copious playwright and librettist. His chief collaborator, Henry Mayhew, was active in English journalism and is said to have been the first writer to deal with London's slums from a philanthropic point of view. Douglas Jerrold, Thackeray, W. S. Gilbert, and William Brough were prominent contributors to the early Punches. Among the writers of the post-Victorian era, Owen Seaman and E. V. Lucas have been outstanding.

Why Commencement for Graduation?

Paul Pferdner, typographer-in-chief for this column, asked us why the word "commencement" was generally used for graduation at colleges and universities, and we glibly told him it was because the students were supposed to be making their debuts into the cold, hard world of practical affairs. The dictionary, however, says that we were caught off base.

In medieval universities the bachelor's degree was awarded only after the candidate had proved his merit by a public lecture or disputation. This was the young man's first appearance in the scholastic arena and was called the "principium," and also the "inception." After passing, he would usually continue his studies for the master's or doctor's degree. As these words imply, it was regarded as a first step. Hence the awarding of bachelor's degrees later became known as "commencement."

Concerning Serbs, Croats and Slovenes.

Your article, "This Was Illyria, Lady" [May 20], contained a couple of mistakes. Louis Adamic, the American writer, is not of Croatian birth. He is a Slovene, born in the village of Blato, in Slovenia [Carniola].

The bottle of hard liquor that stands in the Linemaster's pantry with the lettering, "Domaca Slijivovica—Plum Brandy—Buljan & Co., Split, Yugoslavia," is not a "Croatian hard liquor." It's the famous sljivovica brandy mostly produced in Serbia and Bosnia.

Americans who visited Jugo-Slavia during the last ten years called the railroad leading from Uzice [Serbia] to Sarajevo [Bosnia] the "Slijivovica Line," because of the numerous plum orchards along the road. Walter M. Chuk.

DAY OF ASCENSION.

(Thursday, May 22.)

"Farewell, my planet most beloved," He thought;
"Good-by, green tender grass upon the hill.
"You, Jordan in the valley, cooled my feet;
"Gray river, keep men mindful of me still.
"The taste of Martha's bread I shall recall,
"The smell of broiling fish by salty shore,
"And sound of shouting boys in far-off fields
"Will be with me until I come once more."
He smiled: "It's well I join Thee, Father, now,
"Else might I spoil the timing of your plan,
"So easy would it be to stay, too soon,
"Upon this earth I learned to love as Man."

A Hot Tip for Fishermen.

Passing by the fire engine house I saw a group of men gathering worms for a fishing expedition. They had two iron rods in the ground, rigged up with an electrical connection with the lighting system within the building, and were "tickling" the worms, as one expressed it, so they'd come to the surface. Quite a number of worms were bagged in that way. Perhaps fishermen should take along a storage battery instead of a can of worms.

Arthur J. Richardson.

Strangest remark we ever heard in a newspaper office: A writer sang out the question: "Farragut—street or avenue?" and the fellow at the adjoining desk answered, "I don't know. I have never lived in Chicago."

Listen, youse guys who leaped at the Linemaster's throat for using the French "de" instead of "du" in that soup whimsy [May 21]: We wrote, "The cook intended to say 'Soup de jour'." If he had known enough French to say "du," he would not have written it "de jure." Objections overruled.

How to cure that welt on your high instep: Pluck out the metal eyelet that presses upon it.

NUMBNESS AND PAIN ON WALKING.

IT WAS in 1858 that the famous French physician, Charcot, described to his colleagues what seemed to him to be a new ailment. One of his patients complained that after 15 minutes of walking his right leg became numb and weak. If he could sit down all would be well. But if he proceeded—even at a leisurely pace—tingling and pain would be experienced, followed later by sharp, stabbing cramps. After three or four minutes of rest the stroll could be continued for another quarter of an hour, at the end of which period the symptoms would repeat themselves.

This distinguished medical man suggested that too little blood was reaching the muscles of the leg [due to spasm of the vessels] and he thereupon named it "intermittent limping" [claudication]. He adopted the name from horse lovers who had applied it to a peculiar gait sometimes manifested by their equine friends.

Today every physician realizes that on the appearance of this condition, measures to combat its progress will need to be adopted. Recently a man of my acquaintance called upon his doctor with the statement, "I walk to my office and for the last few weeks I have felt some numbness in the lower legs. This very morning I found myself going along slowly—in a halting sort of fashion—as tho I were lame."

An examination showed that the arteries of his extremities had been subjected to enough contraction to blanch the skin and obliterate the pulsations of the main vessel on the top of the foot. Ordinarily this structure carries sufficient blood to supply the parts adequately. But, as we can understand, if the conduit contracts, the muscles will not receive enough nutriment to carry on. In modest protest then they exhibit the warning signal—pain.

Much has been made of the fact that tobacco has some share in speeding up the malady or influencing its severity. Nicotine is probably not causative, but it adds just that much of a load to elimination. One of the first bits of advice the patient receives is to cut down smoking at least by half, or to interdict the habit completely for a given time.

Strangely enough, the disorder is not confined to those in the older decades of life. A 39 year old man entered the hospital with the history that a few weeks before he had been en route to a lunchroom when his left leg began to ache violently. The soreness traveled down to the foot and centered in the sole. So severe was the discomfort that he was obliged to take a cab to his home. As he explained it, "My legs seem to be all right, but after I have walked a few blocks distress in the calf muscles becomes so great that I am compelled to sit down on the curb and wait for the agony to pass. The legs feel as tho they weighed 100 pounds each."

Early warnings, as a rule, point to proper treatment. The blood channels may be dilated by means of drugs, heat, and massage. The use of alcohol is reduced in quantity—or eliminated entirely—while the diet is revised to a balanced ration, with only the minimum quantity of protein. Alkaline mineral waters may be helpful and the victim is cautioned to exercise only to the point at which symptoms may come on. In fact, fatigue in any degree is avoided. Occasionally typhoid vaccine proves of the greatest value. Now and then, correcting some slight heart deficiency will aid circulation just enough to overcome the trouble.

LAUGHTER NO JOKE.

M. C. writes: If something strikes my funny bone and I start to laugh, my knees buckle under me and I fall. If I am sitting, I cannot raise my arms or head until the spell of weakness passes. What causes this situation?

REPLY.

Laughter is an emotional reaction. The expression, "I laughed so much that I was weak" means that the nervous system is overwhelmed. Thus the muscles lose their power temporarily. A more striking result follows intense fright, when one cannot utter a sound or move a finger.

BLEEDER.

Mrs. M. writes: After an extraction my gums bleed for a long time. Since I must have another tooth removed, I want to know if there is anything I can take to relieve this condition?

REPLY.

Tell your dentist frankly about your bleeding tendency. Your physician also may be able to help thru prescribing large quantities of vitamin K. This should be taken for at least two weeks prior to the operation.

GARBAGE CAN SYMPHONY.

Chicago, May 19.—For the last few months unusual sounds have been heard in the dead of night in the vicinity of Montrose and Milwaukee avenues. In the stillness of the morning hours loud baritone voices in conferences over the quality and amount of garbage awaken the sleepy citizens. Then a commotion begins—dropping of garbage cans, the spinning and rolling of the lids down the back yard sidewalks until some object obstructs their journey, the wrestling of shovels and then again—that deadly silence of the night.

In the morning the rears of the yards look as if bombers had made a surprise attack. The early worker is greeted with garbage cans and lids lying around on the lawn and sidewalks, together with left over garbage strewn about. Cannot something be done to persuade these nocturnal emissaries of sanitation to leave the garbage cans upright, in place, and with their lids on, and to go just a little easy on their fortissimo conferences? This midnight garbage can chorus may be a necessary part of city life, but the objectionable features should be eliminated.

HER TORY GREAT-UNCLE.

Glencoe, Ill., May 19.—In your editorial of May 15 entitled "Roosevelt Tories" you state "Mrs. Roosevelt should know Tories" and then give several good reasons for your declaration. In this connection I think you would find it worth while to read the article entitled Fifty Destroyers, which appeared in the issue of Aug. 10, 1940, of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle. In the second column of page 747, the article says:

"Capt. James X. Bullock, great-uncle of Mrs. Roosevelt and once an officer of the United States navy, was the naval agent of the confederacy, accredited to England and France, and his activities had already resulted in depredations upon American shipping by commerce destroying raiders constructed in Great Britain, notable among them the Florida and the Alabama."

Claims for the huge damages inflicted by the Alabama and other ships constructed in England for confederate use had the attention in President Grant's day of Hamilton Fish, his great secretary of state, who I believe was the grandfather of the present Hamilton Fish. George G. Tunell.

PRAISE FOR EDITORIAL.

Chicago, May 20.—We wish to thank you for your splendid editorial entitled "Funeral Homes." The statements which you have made relative to the use of the old homes of America as funeral service establishments by the morticians of the nation is certainly more than true. As a national organization representing the funeral service industry in this country, we appreciate this fine tribute.

National Selected Morticians,

REPLY TO WINIFRED DEAR.

Chicago, May 20.—Winifred Sinclair of New York, in a letter in your column, asks regarding Col. Lindbergh, "Is this an American speaking?"

No, Winifred, dear, Col. Lindbergh meant that Great Britain and France jumped into the war unprepared just as you easterners are anxious for the United States to do. F. G. Clapp.

LITTLE GIFTS FROM HEAVEN.

Chicago, May 21.—I wish to compliment Mrs. H. M. J. on her letter in the Voice of the People, "No Children Allowed." She exposes the landlords who have no time for children in their apartments. I think it is time something should be done to remedy this situation. Let's get back to the old days when children always came first—welcome gifts from heaven—and the dog was kept in his place. Daniel T. Scanlan.

Peru, Ind., May 20.—As to children in flats: In my own experience as a landlady, the 6 year old son of a tenant was allowed to take a knife and cut into a large shade tree in front of the house. Result: Tree died; more years to raise another one.

I try to keep my lawn mowed. The two children of another tenant are allowed to carry in stones and sacks of sand and spread them over the grass. They take a knife and cut initials in the woodwork; take pencils and crayons and draw pictures on the wall paper; but mother laughs and says, "Isn't it cute how junior plays."

I do not dislike children but I will never rent to another family that has any. Landlady.

TO ALD. McDERMOTT.

Chicago, May 20.—I can't understand the mind of Ald. McDermott. Imagine, just because a tired stenographer wants a little relaxation in a cocktail lounge between 5 and 6 o'clock [when all good aldermen should be tending to their own business] the story makes the front page of The Tribune. Bah!

Why don't they worry more about repairing the city streets and cleaning out the slums instead of passing silly laws about "lady barflies." It may interest the alderman to know that after a day in an office where everybody is rushing around like mad, the hour spent in a bar is the only enjoyment a girl can get before going home to make her own dinner and start ironing yesterday's wash. O, no, I'm not apologizing for the stenographers. I'm just stating a bald truth.

The alderman might check up on the race track touts and gamblers who infest the bars. D. R. T.

HAVE ALL THEY CAN READ.

Fort Eustis, Va., May 19.—We asked in your column for books and reading matter, and we have been deluged with responses. Please excuse us when we say more came than could be accommodated. And we thank the senders.

The Boys of Barrack 1306,
B Battery, 10th Battalion.

One letter from Chicago to these boys in Fort Eustis said:

"Okeh, fellows, there are 45 pounds of Life and Reader's Digest magazines going forward to you today, express prepaid, via Leehall, Va.

"I hope a lot more Tribune readers will do the same after reading your letter in the Voice of the People. I think some of our Junior leaguers ought to take a tip and start magazines rolling into all army camps, instead of making Bundles for Britain." R. E. Rosain.

SEAWAY BOBS UP AGAIN.

Chicago, May 22.—The St. Lawrence deep seaway and power project, sometimes classed as Mr. Roosevelt's pet scheme, has bobbed up again. If put thru it will mean freighters from Europe and also freighters to Europe. Freight dumped at Chicago, Duluth, and other lake ports will doom rail traffic formerly moving from eastern seaboard to these points, and other commodities from those points to the east.

What of the hundreds of thousands of railroaders and longshoremen now making a good living in a going industry? They, too, would go to swell the list of the unemployed. What of the finances of the carriers? More stocks and bonds at almost no value?

The backers of the scheme blandly state that the cost to America will be about 266 millions. That will not even scratch the top.

Twice the project has been defeated. It is back again—camouflaged. The backers now state that it will help our defense and aid Britain. They know it cannot be completed until 1948. Won't the war be over by that time? Citizen.

PRESCRIBES VISIT TO HINES.

Evanston, Ill., May 22.—I recently visited Hines hospital. To me the scenes there provide the greatest argument that can be advanced against the war mongers. Why not ask the shouters for entrance into the war to visit Hines? They may find there an answer to their vociferous question, "What are we waiting for?" Veteran.

NEEDS A SAFETY ISLAND.

CHILD SUPPORT.

Berwyn, Ill., May 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise if I would be able to collect support for my child from his father who resides in New York.

He is several hundred dollars in arrears and I would like to know if I can secure payment from him [2] on account of his residing in New York.

3. What steps should I take?

4. Would it be necessary to see an attorney?

5. Are there other means? M. J.

1. Your mention of arrears implies that there is a court order and if so, we see no reason why it should not be enforceable.

2. His absence from this state would make the proceeding somewhat more difficult for you but should not make the collection impossible. The chances of collection obviously depend in part on the father's assets and income.

3. Employ an attorney and leave the procedure to him.

4. As a practical matter it seems probable that such employment would be necessary.

5. We cannot advise further without having your facts more clearly.

LACK OF POWER TO CLOSE TVA'S MUSCLE SHOALS

Steps Taken to Conserve Output for Aluminum.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., May 23.—The Tennessee Valley Authority soon will shut down its 4 million dollar fertilizer works at Muscle Shoals in order to save the power used by this plant for the production of aluminum. TVA officials say a threatened power shortage is the result of prolonged dry weather, a problem which TVA engineers are criticized for having overlooked in constructing the network of hydroelectric dams.

The contemplated closing of the Muscles Shoals fertilizer plant was revealed today by David Lilienthal, vice chairman of the TVA. He indicated that the shutdown at Muscle Shoals is only the first step in a program of power curtailment by which the TVA hopes to be able to keep on meeting the needs of the huge Aluminum Company of America plant at nearby Alcoa, Tenn.

Conservation Drive Planned.

Another major step in the curtailment program, according to Lilienthal is a survey of private industries now purchasing secondary power from TVA to ascertain what ones might be reduced or cut off without harming the nation's rearmament program.

A third proposal is a conservation campaign, in which public officials of the four major cities and dozens of other municipalities served by TVA will be asked to urge citizens to save as much electricity as possible. In this connection there were reports the TVA's campaign to induce the people of the region to buy electric toasters, electric washing machines, and other electrical appliances to increase power consumption may be put in reverse.

"Store window lights, electric signs, and other such electrical equipment can be lit at a later hour to conserve power for defense uses," Lilienthal said. "We want to impress it on people that every kilowatt hour of power saved is needed by defense at this time.

Power for Alcoa Is Goal.

"The aluminum company right now is taking about 165,000 kilowatts of power from TVA. When the company's two new additions go into operation, one this December and the other next March, this figure will be boosted to about 280,000 kilowatts. This power, with the 120,000 kilowatts which the company's own system of power plants will be producing, will operate the plant at capacity.

"The TVA is going to undertake to get that power for Alcoa, by cutting off our own fertilizer works and possibly reducing activity on some of our own construction projects, by revising our secondary power contracts with private industries not engaged in defense production, and by other such means we will scrape it together despite the drouth."

Lilienthal disclosed that a conference in Washington, D. C., from which he returned yesterday was devoted mainly to this problem of supplying the power needed by the Alcoa plant.

Explains Contract Setup.

"The Aluminum company has contracts with TVA for only 30,000 kilowatts of firm power and another 30,000 of secondary power, to be delivered 75 per cent of the time over a 10 year period," Lilienthal asserted. "Beyond this TVA is not legally called upon to furnish power to the company.

"The power over and above these contracts is being furnished by TVA, not because it is required to do so, but because TVA knows that Alcoa needs it for defense production."

840 Work at Muscle Shoals.

The Muscle Shoals fertilizer plant to be shut down now uses 30,000 kilowatts of TVA power 10 months of each year. The plant, built in 1934, employs 840 workers and produces 100,000 tons of an experimental triple super phosphate annually.

Lilienthal emphasized that the survey of private industries to determine which might get along on less power would be made only among those companies and plants buying secondary power from TVA under contracts providing that such power be delivered for a certain number of months each year, or a certain percentage of the time over a period of years.

"Our firm [steady] power contracts, which total about 600,000 kilowatts, will not be touched," Lilienthal asserted. "We may ask cities, among the largest users of firm power, to do what they can to save, but we will not lower their contracts."

Area Has Light Showers.

Light showers fell in the Knoxville area today, but were too insignificant to have any appreciable effect on the dry spell from which the Tennessee valley is suffering.

George V. Fish, chief of the Knoxville weather bureau, said only 19.9 inches of rain have fallen at Knoxville since last September compared with a normal fall of 33.4 inches.

"The Knoxville deficiency in rainfall, with its effect on streams and rivers, is fairly representative of the entire valley area," Fish said. "I would say that chances that the dry condition will be relieved in the next month or so are better than that it will continue. I base this belief upon the fact that, over a long period of years, the valley usually has an excess rather than an insufficiency of rainfall. However, this might be the exception."

Precipitation records for Knoxville over last 10 years follow:

Year.	Deficiency or excess in inches.
1940	6.96 deficiency
1939	.23 excess
1938	3.61 excess
1937	2.88 excess
1936	1.20 excess
1935	3.91 excess
1934	3.03 excess
1933	3.66 deficiency
1932	10.17 excess
1931	5.35 deficiency

The normal average rainfall for the foregoing years would be 47.48 inches. The figures show that in the 10 years there was a total of 9.06 inches excess rainfall.

Funds Asked for Storage Dams.

At Chattanooga today James P. Pope, a TVA director, said the Office of Production Management in Washington has recommended that funds be given the TVA to construct three or four more large water storage dams to prevent future water shortages.

Pope suggested the citizens of Knoxville, Memphis, Chattanooga, Nashville, and other communities served by TVA might be willing to adopt daylight saving time to save power.

Pope also disclosed that the TVA is putting strong pressure on contractors to speed work on projects now under construction to increase TVA's gross capacity.

ARMY WILL SEEK 'SECURITY FLEET' OF 13,000 PLANES

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—The army is preparing to ask congress for 2½ billion dollars for the creation of an American "security fleet" of 13,000 bombing and fighting planes within the next 18 months, without reference to Britain's needs.

This was learned today as the administration sharply revised its airplane goal upward. A year ago the goal was set at 50,000 planes. Now the administration has set the goal at 80,000 planes and the ceiling is not in sight.

The 13,000 planes for which the army will ask the 2½ billion dollar appropriation are to be superimposed on the present army goal of an air force of 21,000 planes, which is not reaching materialization because the fighting planes being produced in this country are, for the most part, going to Britain.

Fear Outcome of War.

An air force of 13,000 fighters and bombers within 18 months would prepare the United States against any turn the European war is liable to take within that period.

The disclosure that army air chiefs are beginning to worry about the strength of the army air force more than aid to Britain indicated that the nation's air experts are considering the prospects of British defeat.

The seriousness of the British position was brought home to the army by Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, deputy chief of staff for air, on his recent return from an inspection tour of Britain. Arnold made a thoro survey of the British situation and reported that United States aid may not arrive soon enough to insure victory.

President Demands Bombers.

The gloomy report he is reported to have made prompted President Roosevelt to call on the airplane industry to step up the goal for bombing planes from 300 to 500 planes a month. The gesture was made largely to encourage British morale as American plants are only turning out 50 bombers a month under the 300 bomber goal.

Air experts said that if the United States should begin production of 500 bombers a month and a total of 30,000 planes a year by the fall of 1942, America might be able to insure air supremacy of nations at war with Germany by midsummer of 1943.

Since last June American plants have turned out about 7,000 planes. The goal for the coming 12 months is 18,000 planes and for the year after that 30,000 planes.

DENY BRIDGES' PLEA TO CALL MME. PERKINS

San Francisco, Cal., May 23 [Special].—Defense demands for a subpena summoning Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to testify in the Harry Bridges deportation hearing were denied today by trial Examiner Charles B. Sears.

At the same time Examiner Sears ordered attorneys for Bridges, alien California CIO director, to speed up the defense presentation in an effort to close the hearing next week.

In addition to asking for a subpena for Secretary Perkins, Mrs. Carol Weiss King of Bridges' counsel requested Sears to summon Gerald Riley, labor department solicitor, and Maj. Lemuel Schofield, chief of the department's immigration and naturalization service. Mrs. King explained she wanted to question all three "to show that no one has been deported from the United States in the last 21 years on grounds of membership in the Industrial Workers of the World." At a hearing in 1939 Bridges admitted he was a member of the IWW for a short time.

COURT URGES TROLLEY FARE BOOST IF WAGE INCREASE IS GRANTED

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe said yesterday he will instruct the Chicago Surface Lines' management board to seek an increase in the 7 cent street car fare before the Illinois Commerce commission if current negotiations for a new labor contract result in a wage increase. The streetcar men's union is asking a boost of 10 cents an hour, two weeks' vacation with pay instead of one, and $75 a month pensions for men over 65.

Judge Igoe's statement was made at a court hearing at which the surface lines' board recommended acceptance of the city's unified traction ordinance proposal, as amended in recent weeks. The judge suggested that the city council pass the amended ordinance and that meanwhile city and transit officials try to get unconditional approval by Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, of a proposed 53 million dollar federal transit loan. The hearing was continued to June 13.

"From reports made here of your conferences with Jones this week, I don't think Jones is going to make any loan," Judge Igoe told city and traction representatives. "If there is no loan, unification plans may have to be abandoned in favor of a separate reorganization of the surface lines."

Barkley Enters Hospital for Infection Treatment

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, was in Naval hospital tonight for treatment of a leg infection. Dr. George W. Calver, capitol physician, said he had ordered Barkley to rest and take treatments for about a week.

Army Tries Out New War Weapons

Fort Story, Va., May 23 (AP).—The first test of a new automatic gun control led army coast artillery experts to express confidence today that they soon will have a greater defense against speeding, twisting mosquito boats.

Closely guarded, the new device was given its first beach test here, aiming shells from a 37 mm. gun at a 40 mile an hour, radio controled boat zigzagging in Chesapeake bay a mile from shore.

The new control reduces the human element to a minimum and is an improvement on the lightning calculators that have given the army such faith in the efficiency of their anti-aircraft batteries.

An indication of its effectiveness is the fact that a battery of the 74th coast artillery put two holes in the 26 foot target boat in the first 19 rounds of firing and put the craft out of commission.

Fort Monroe, Va., May 23 (AP).—The first full battery of the army's new 90 mm. anti-aircraft guns—officially rated "at least the equal of the best in the world"—will be ready for field service within the next 10 days.

With an effective range of about 38,000 feet, 11,000 feet higher than the present standard 3 inch piece, the highly mobile new gun has greater accuracy and more destructive force per burst.

The four 90 mm. guns are the first of thousands on order. All of the army's anti-aircraft regiments will be equipped with them. The present 3 inch gun can fire 25 of the 12¾ pound shells per minute. The new gun—.6 of an inch larger in caliber—flings a 21 pound shell just as rapidly.

Observers report that few bombers fly as high as 20,000 feet when nearing their targets. Beyond that altitude accuracy is impaired.

CHILD'S PARENTS SAY A MOUTHFUL: DON'T FEED HER!

Readsboro, Vt., May 23 (AP).—Four year old Betsy Earle is so popular with the townsfolk that her parents have published the following announcement in the town's column in the North Adams Transcript:

"Betsy Earle's parents wish to announce that she is suffering from a severe case of worms and they urgently urge that, in the interest of her continued good health, the townspeople discontinue the practice of feeding her candy."

This isn't the first time Mr. and Mrs. Earle have tried to meet the problem. Once they hung a sign around her neck, reading "Don't feed me."

CHEMISTS GIVE GIBBS MEDAL TO DR. E. A. DOISY

The 1941 Willard Gibbs medal for "conspicuous contributions in chemistry" was presented last evening to Dr. Edward A. Doisy of St. Louis university school of medicine who first isolated pure vitamin K, the blood clotting agent, and who is internationally known for his research on female sex hormones. The medal, one of the highest honors bestowed in chemistry, was awarded by the Chicago section of the American Chemical society at a gathering of scientists in the Stevens hotel.

Dr. William Lloyd Evans of Ohio State university, president of the society, made the presentation. Dr. E. H. Volwiler of the Abbott Laboratories spoke on the scientific achievements of the winner, and Prof. H. B. Lewis of the University of Michigan told of his personal characteristics. Dr. W. F. Henderson of the Visking corporation and chairman of the Chicago section discussed the award.

BIOFF INDICTED FOR EXTORTION OF FILM FIRMS

Ex-Pander, Now 'Vital' to Arms Drive, Accused.

New York, May 23 [Special].—Willie Bioff, ex-pander and former Chicago hoodlum whose services as head of west coast theatrical employés recently were adjudged vital to the national rearmament program in preventing labor trouble, was indicted today by a federal grand jury for extortion under threats to paralyze the entire movie industry with a strike.

Willie Bioff. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Indicted with Bioff was George E. Browne, who holds the title of president of the International Association of Theatrical Stage Employés [AFL], of which Bioff is the actual boss.

They were charged with using their union positions to extort $550,000 from four of the country's leading motion picture companies by threats to call their 35,000 followers out on strike. The IATSE, comprised of the industry's mechanical crafts, is a dominant union in the entertainment world.

The Four Big Victims.

Victims of the conspiracy were the 20th Century-Fox Film corporation; Loew's, Inc.; Paramount Pictures, and Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., according to the indictment, which was returned before Federal Judge Murray Hulbert.

The indictment was the first returned in this district accusing labor union leaders of collecting for themselves from employers by a strike threat.

The defendants, who were named on two substantive counts and one of conspiracy, face maximum prison sentences of 10 years and fines of $10,000 on each of the three counts.

The indictment charged a continuous conspiracy dating back to November, 1935. The strike threat, it was alleged, was made in 1936. The indictment set forth that at least $400,000 of the $550,000 was paid by officials of the four corporations to Bioff and Browne in bills of $1,000, $500, and $100 denominations.

Schenck Trial Outcome.

The long investigation which resulted in the indictment was initiated by United States Attorney Matthias Correa as a result of evidence uncovered by treasury agents during the inquiry and prosecution of the income tax evasion case against Joseph M. Schenck, resigned board chairman of 20th Century-Fox. Schenck was sentenced to serve three years in prison and pay a fine of $20,000.

In the Schenck trial his personal bookkeeper, John B. Codd, identified notes, checks, and vouchers covering Schenck's payment of $100,000 to Bioff in June, 1937. Schenck contended the money was a loan.

Bioff subsequently was accused, in an indictment brought in California, of failing to report or pay taxes on $100,000 in cash and $50,000 in stock which he allegedly received in that year.

It was in this case that Bioff on May 19 won indefinite postponement of his trial set for June 24 on the novel plea that his services are indispensable to the arms drive.

Prosecutors Don't Object.

No objection by government prosecutors was offered to the plea of Bioff's attorney that the case be set aside for the present because, the attorney said, Bioff is needed to take charge of technical crews to avert labor trouble during the making of a series of films to be used for army instruction and in armament factories.

Bioff served five months in jail at Chicago last year after being called back there to complete a 20 year old unfinished sentence of six months imposed for pandering.

ACQUIT, GUARD IN FATAL BEATING AT ST. CHARLES

Robert M. Adams, former guard at the St. Charles School for Boys, was acquitted of a murder charge last night by a jury in the Circuit court of Judge William J. Fulton in Geneva. The jury was out an hour and a half and took seven ballots.

Adams was accused of the fatal beating last Feb. 13 of James Williams, 16 years old, colored inmate of the school. Another former guard, William Laird, 27, also faces a murder charge in the same case, but has been granted a separate trial, starting June 9.

The state tried to prove that Adams, who is 33 and lives in Lanark, Carroll county, beat Williams beyond the needs of discipline. Defense Attorney Edgar Eaton, former Carroll county state's attorney, argued that Adams fought back in self-defense after Williams struck him.

400 ROCKFORD PUPILS GO THRU BROOKFIELD ZOO

More than 400 grade school pupils from the Jackson and Hall schools, Rockford, visited the Brookfield zoo yesterday in company with parents and teachers. The trip was made by special Burlington train from Rockford to Hollywood and return and was for many of the children both their first train ride and first visit to a zoo. The outing was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher associations of the two schools. Ralph Haen, president of the Hall school group, and T. A. Swenson, vice president of the Jackson school P-TA, were in charge of the party. Robert Bean, assistant director of the zoo, and several guides showed the party thru the zoo.

MISSING WITNESS HUNTED FOR TRIAL OF ALLEGED GOON

Car Washer Quits Job, Police Learn.

State's attorney's detectives last night were seeking a key witness in the trial of an alleged labor slugger after the witness' disappearance had been reported in Felony court. Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, sent out a squad with instructions to find the man before the next hearing on Tuesday.

The missing witness is Edward Brown, 31 years old, colored. Upon his testimony depends much of the state's case against William Bibby, 39 years old, a business agent for the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers union, who was once convicted as a labor goon.

Accused of Assault.

Bibby is charged with assault and battery on the complaint of Furlin Thomas, 42, of 4919 Ravenswood avenue, an employé in a garage at 1240 Morse avenue, where Brown worked as a car washer. Thomas, who weighs 140 pounds, said that the 225 pound Bibby slugged him on May 14 in the garage after Thomas demurred at paying his $2 monthly union dues until he could learn what the union would do for him. Brown is said to have witnessed the attack.

Policemen Edward Erickson and T. Constant of the Rogers Park station told Assistant State's Attorney Myron Lewis that Brown had quit his job last Wednesday. The policemen said they went to his home at 4711 St. Lawrence avenue Thursday night to serve him with a subpena, but were told he was not there.

They left the subpena at the nearby Wabash avenue police station. Another squad reported five visits to Brown's home during the night without finding him.

When the state demanded an immediate trial in Felony court yesterday, Bibby's attorney, Robert Romano, asked for a jury trial. The case was taken before Judge Michael Tremko in Jury court.

Bond May Be Reinstated.

Romano pleaded for a continuance, and the judge, at Prosecutor Lewis' insistence, set the case for Tuesday Previously in Felony court Judge Jay A. Schiller indicated he might set aside forfeiture of Bibby's original $50 bond if Bibby could prove his failure to appear at an earlier hearing had been unintentional. Bibby later surrendered and posted a $1,000 bond.

In 1935 Bibby was convicted of slugging an Oak Park florist who refused to join a drivers' union and was fined $100.

FIREMEN TRAIN THREE PETS TO CLIMB LADDER

Three apprentices are being trained in ladder climbing by the firemen of Engine Company 98 for the annual Fire and Police Show in July. They are a bantam rooster, an English bulldog and a blue ribbon kitten, pets of the firehouse who eat and sleep in the same box in the station at 202 East Chicago avenue.

The kitten, Maggie, leads in ladder climbing technique. She can scamper up six rungs while the rooster, Sonny Boy, is close behind. Libby Boy, the bulldog, has achieved the third rung.

"By the time of the show we'll have them on the top," Capt. James O'Malley, said yesterday.

ORLANDO GUILTY OF VOTE FRAUD; FACES 1-10 YEARS

A jury in the court of Judge John F. Bolton last night found Sam Orlando, Democratic precinct captain and a central figure last year in a sensational jury bribing case, guilty of aiding and abetting vote frauds in the 1939 judicial election. The penalty for this crime is 1 to 10 years in prison.

Sam Orlando.

Judge Bolton set June 6 as the date for arguments on a motion for a new trial. Meanwhile Orlando will remain at liberty on bond. It was ordered, however, that his bail of $2,000 be increased to $5,000 on Tuesday. Orlando said his bondsman, now out of the city, would put up the additional sum when he returns.

Admits Stuffing Ballot Box.

During the trial just ended an array of state witnesses testified that Orlando had forged signatures on voters' application blanks in his precinct, the 52d of the 11th ward. One, Mrs. Gladys Spizzirri, 2723 South Union avenue, an official in the polling place, asserted she had stuffed the ballot box with illegal ballots at Orlando's orders.

Taking the witness stand in his own behalf, Orlando denied any wrongdoing. His assistant precinct captain, Joseph Vinci, who has been indicted on the same charges and granted a separate trial, supported his story. Their testimony apparently made little impression on the jurors, however, as the verdict was reached after only two hours' deliberation.

Acquitted at First Trial.

Orlando and Vinci were first tried in December, 1939, on charges of election stealing, and were acquitted. Investigation by the state's attorney's police brought to light evidence that the jury had been bribed.

Indictments were returned charging Orlando, his attorney, George Crane; a suspended state policeman, John Howe, and James Creed, superintendent of city dumps, with jury bribery. Howe had been convicted of robbery.

The bribery trial was held last July. Several members of the jury that had tried Orlando and Vinci testified that they had been paid money to acquit them, and others told of being approached with offers. The principal witness for the state, however, was Marvin Olson, a former convict. He confessed he had been the go-between for the defendants in approaching the vote fraud jurors.

Distrusted Witness Later Slain.

The bribery trial resulted in acquittal. William Fahey, foreman, said the jurors had not been impressed by the state's case and felt little credence could be placed in Olson's statements. Several months ago Olson was shot to death in a mystery that has never been solved.

Beaten in two trials, the state's attorney obtained the new vote fraud indictments against Orlando and Vinci. The jury chosen for the second Orlando fraud trial numbered three men and nine women. The case was prosecuted by Assistant State's Attorney Richard B. Austin.

OPINIONS IN FOX CASE DEFENDED BY EX-JUDGE, 85

They Were Good Law, He Testifies.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 23 (AP).—In a dramatic courtroom appearance, retired U. S. Circuit Judge Joseph Buffington, 85 years old, today defended opinions written in the William Fox bankruptcy cases by Judge J. Warren Davis. Buffington signed the opinions as the senior member of the court.

The white haired, partially deaf Buffington, a member of the federal judiciary for 46 years, was called by the government at the trial of Judge Davis, also retired, and Morgan S. Kaufman, a Scranton, Pa., attorney. With Fox, who pleaded guilty, they were indicted on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

"I want you to know," Buffington told the jury, "that altho I didn't write these opinions, I am not shirking or repudiating them. I regard them as good law, bowing to the Supreme court in the one case in which we were reversed."

The government has charged that Fox sought judicial favors thru unsecured loans to Davis. In the indictment, it alleged that opinions in five cases before the 3d Circuit Court of Appeals in which Fox was interested had been written by Davis and that the defendants influenced Buffington, then senior judge, to sign them. Buffington retired in 1938, Davis a year later.

1,000 Homeless, 12 Missing in Carlsbad (N. M.) Floods

Carlsbad, N. M., May 23 (AP).—Rain fed mountain torrents, racing upon this Pecos river city in 15 foot crests, tonight left 1,000 persons homeless and at least a dozen missing. Relief agencies armed themselves with power of arrest to enforce evacuation of householders in threatened areas.

Coal Firm Convicted by Jury on 2 Charges; Fined $100

A jury in the Municipal court of Judge Erwin J. Hasten yesterday found the Chicago Waterways Fuel company, 1110 Division street, guilty of mixing coal of different types, and of selling coal that had been damaged by a yard fire. A fine of $50 was imposed on each charge.

PLANS FOR NEW AIRPORT BUILDING ARE CALLED OFF

After an hour's conference with a committee of air line representatives, Mayor Kelly announced last night that the proposal to construct a new $1,813,000 city airport terminal building is "all off."

"The new building combined with the new enlarged airport, which will be completed this year, would be expensive to maintain," Mayor Kelly said, "If the air lines are not willing to see the importance of improving the field by paying the maintenance expense of the improved terminal we shouldn't put money into the building."

The mayor said that the city may consider improving the present terminal instead of building a new one.

City officials estimate that the new enlarged air field would cost approximately $275,000 a year to maintain compared with cost of $169,000 for the present field.

If the air lines only paid $185,000 a year—what is said to be the suggestion—the city would have to appropriate $168,000 a year to meet the field maintenance costs.

Open Gardens, Homes Today in Benefit Tours

BY JUDITH CASS.

If the number of houses and gardens that are to be opened to the public this spring for sweet charity's sake were laid end to end it's certain that ticket holders would have a good long walk. Seventeen places in the Fox river valley will be available to the horticulture enthusiast, the architecturally conscious, and the plain curious today and tomorrow. For 2 dollars on each day the hiker may inspect everything from a glass barn where cows are milked to music to a small prefabricated house that went up in stop-watch time.

Eight Winnetka gardens also will be opened today, those of Mrs. Kingsley B. Colton, Mrs. George D. Smith, Mrs. A. Ballard Bradley, Mrs. Hugh Foresman, Mrs. William Warfield III., Mrs. Abel Davis, Mrs. Everett D. Graff, and Mrs. Langdon Pearce. The Bethlehem Crèche will receive the proceeds from the Winnetka tour. The British War Relief society will receive the proceeds from the Fox river valley one, which starts in Dundee and continues in Elgin, Wayne, St. Charles, Geneva, Batavia, and Aurora.

Notable Homes in Wayne Are Being Opened Today.

There will be more homes open in Wayne than in the other towns. Dunham castle, built by Mark Dunham in the 1880s; Paddock wood, Mrs. George Woodruff's home, where tea will be served; the Dunham Woods Riding club, where luncheon may be had by invitation; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johns' studio home, built by the artist Nicolas Remisoff; the Henry T. Stantons' and the J. MacWilliams Stones' homes will be on view in Wayne. There will be songs by the Elizabethan Madrigal singers tomorrow afternoon at Kanewoods, the Charles Reckitts' Geneva home.

In the absence of their daughter, Jane, who departed unexpectedly for Honolulu, Mr. and Mrs. John Brill Sherman of Evanston will give a dinner-dance tonight at the Glen View club for Miss Jessie Jean Smith and Richard Bernays, who will be married on May 31. Miss Smith is departing early next week for Boulder, Colo., where the ceremony will take place.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hensley Smith, the bride's parents, will have the rehearsal in their home the night before the ceremony. Later the wedding party will go up to Heidi, a Swiss chalet in the mountains, for the bridal dinner. A luncheon and reception will follow the ceremony, which will be held in the Smiths' garden. Mr. Bernay's father, British Consul General Lewis Bernays, and his two brothers, Robert and Peter, will go west for the wedding.

Saddle and Cycle Plans Wienie Roast Tonight.

Members of the Saddle and Cycle club are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping for a warm, clear night, for they plan to have a midnight wienie roast on the lawn. The annual spring dinner-dance will be given tonight, rain or shine, but the wienie roast is dependent upon the weather. The Thomas L. Underwoods, the John Roots, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rogers, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. McIntyre are among those who have invited guests for the party.

Those who go to the Key club tomorrow night to dine will see a fashion show that the women who planned it—and who will model in it—call a "We'll Wow 'Em" show. The clothes that will be displayed are not of this year's vintage, but of a dozen or more years ago, and they are certain to look as queer today as 1941 fashions will look in about 1955.

Mrs. Nathaniel Lane, Mrs. Watson McLallen, Mrs. James Waller Rogers, Mrs. Noel Flint, Mrs. Ballard Moore, and Mrs. Paget Cady have arranged the show and will take part in it.

Three Arts Club Presenting Style Show, Art Exhibit.

The Three Arts club, a residence club for young women interested in music, drama, or painting, is presenting its annual style show and art exhibit tomorrow and Monday. Mrs. L. Parsons Warren, president of the board of managers; Mrs. Clay Judson, Mrs. Royden J. Keith, Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, Mrs. John A. Holabird, Miss Harriet Welling, and Mrs. Malcolm Millard are some of those interested in the club who will be present at a reception following the fashion show at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night. The gowns to be modeled were designed by residents of the club.

Robert H. McCormick is departing today for a visit in Byron, O., with his son, Robert Hall III., and his wife and two babies. Mr. McCormick has a new grandson, the baby born on Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Collier in Boston. He is the Colliers' second child. This makes six grandchildren the Robert H. McCormicks have, for the former Patty McCormick and her husband, Warren Buckler Jr. of Baltimore, have two children also.

Mrs. McCormick was in Boston to welcome the new baby. She will not be back in Chicago until October as she will go directly from Boston to her summer place at Bar Harbor, Me.

Chart for Book Buyers.

Bookman Ben Abramson doesn't see why symbols should not be used to describe books, as grade A, B, and C indicate quality or stars indicate movie merit. "A triangle might mean a book beautifully produced," he suggests; "a square, that it is of vital interest to a student of that phase of literature; an oblong, that the book is superbly written; an octagon, that it is of historical importance; a circle that it is of great bibliographical interest."

On an ovate symbol in case the author laid an egg?

Cuff Notes.

A first edition bound in vellum of Eugene Field's Echoes from the Sabine Farm with the bookplate of the late Francis Wilson, the actor famous in the nineties, stands among the fine books on a loop department store shelf, with a letter from Field to Wilson on the flyleaf, dated January, 1892, expressing the Illinois poet's appreciation of Wilson's "superb recognition of our work." Wilson had had the book specially bound and gave it to Field. Field returned it with several drawings inside and the letter flyleaf inscription:

"I hope you will live forever, and I should like to live one day longer, in order to write your epitaph, as it is hard to tell one to his face how much we love him."

• • •

Joseph T. Ryerson, collector of Chicagoana, recently picked up a catalog of the art exhibited at the world's fair of 1893 that had belonged to Field. In it were also autographs of William F. Cody [Buffalo Bill], James Whitcomb Riley, and Frank Remington, and a drawing by Remington. . . . The other night when Quiz Kid Richard Williams, 11 years old matahematics expert, missed a simple problem because he gave it a complicated interpretation, his brother, Glenn, 14, commented: "You got your permutations mixed up with your common sense that time, didn't you?" . . . Allis McKay, author of the best seller They Came to a River, writes a Chicago friend: "For novel sensations I recommend having a gob in a shiny set of navy blues rush up to you and throw his arms around you and it turns out to be your husband!"

Chicago Dime Novels.

There are several collectors of old-fashioned paper-covered dime novels, also of 5 cent ones, that are concerned with Chicago. Among them: Frank Merriwell's Speed, or Breaking the Chicago Colts [1900]; Fred Fearnot in Chicago, or the Abduction of Evelyn [1899]; Jesse James in Chicago [1901]; The Red Flag, or The Anarchists of Chicago; Dick Dashaway, or A Dakota Boy in Chicago; Saved at the Scaffold, by Allen F. Pinkerton.

One of the paper-bound books is Who Killed Dr. Cronin? or At Work on the Great Chicago Murder Mystery, by "Old Cap Lee," published in 1899. In the Young Rober library is Link Rover in Chicago or Making Things Fairly Hum, and in the Nick Carter library is The Pullman Plot, "the time of which was about the beginning of the great Pullman strike in Chicago."

Good Morning!

To say that "Penny Serenade" is a "gem of purest ray serene" would be to stretch a point. Because serenity broods not like a dove over anybody in the story. But a "gem of purest ray" this picture is, . . . One of the most searching, interesting and sympathetic documents that has ever come out of Hollywood.

The screen tale, adapted from Martha Cheaven's novel, is the story of a young couple who, frustrated in their desire for a child of their own find deep but short lived happiness thru their adoption of a foundling. . . . Then comes a blow that both feel has shattered any possibility of happiness for them apart or together. . . . But the action ends on a healing and happy situation.

There is SO much about this picture that makes it worth while!

First—the manner of presentation.

As it opens, young Mrs. Adams, about to leave her husband's home, pauses to play over beloved old victrola records—tunes that have punctuated and embroidered the lives of the happy-go-lucky newspaper man and his wife.

As she puts on each record, the events of which it reminds her are depicted in flashback. . . . Very effective. . . .

Then—the acting. Miss Dunne has starred superbly in many notable movies but never has she more brilliantly demonstrated her right to a first rank place in the movie firmament than as Julie Adams. . . . She is so super special in so many places. For instance the scene where, in stark panic, she tries to give the new baby its first bath. . . . She looks and acts just scared to death. . . . And not a mother among us but agonizes with her.

And, Cary Grant! What a humdinger of a characterization HE turns out! There are many facets to young Adams and Mr. Grant touches them all with complete understanding. . . Beulah Bondi, as head of the adoption bureau, delights with one of her rare and believable portrayals and there's a new man—Edgar Buchanan—whom you're going to love. Plays a sort of adopted uncle-man-of-all-work-foster-father-best-friend - and-severest-critic. . . . He's just the most human guy who ever fixed a faucet or pitched in and showed a young mother how to solve the three cornered pants' adjustment mystery. . . . Mr. Buchanan has had minor rôles in several pictures, but here he gets his BIG CHANCE and goes right to town with it.

Golly, I wish I could see a "Penny Serenade" EVERY day!

See you tomorrow.

Miss Marilyn Betty Upp, whose engagement to Guy Pershing Berner, son of the Fred Berners of Buffalo, N. Y., is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Roscoe W. Upp of River Forest. Miss Upp is a student at Duke university. Mr. Berner attends the Harvard Business school. After their marriage this summer Mr. Berner and his bride will be at home in Cambridge, Mass., until he finishes his course.

Woman's Band to Open Its 16th Season Oct. 22

The Women's Symphony orchestra will open its sixteenth season on Oct. 22 with the first of a series of four concerts in Orchestra hall, Mrs. James Shakman, president of the orchestra board, announced yesterday. Izler Solomon will be the regular conductor, as in the last two seasons.

The concert dates, all of which fall on Wednesday, and the soloists are as follows: Oct. 22, Alec Templeton, pianist; Nov. 19, Emma Otero, soprano; Dec. 17, Alfred Lustgarten, violinist, and Edgar Lustgarten, cellist; Jan. 14, Alexander Kipnis, bass.

The 1940-41 season, the second of Mrs. Shakman's presidency, was by far the most succesful year in the history of the Women's Symphony orchestra. Not only was the season completed without a deficit, but for the first time the orchestra possesses a financial backlog to guarantee its future operations. In addition to an Orchestra hall series of concerts the orchestra played for 26 weeks on a coast-to-coast radio program.

The "Prelude and Toccata" for small orchestra by Gardner Read of Evanston has been awarded the annual publication prize of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. Mr. Read is becoming a habitual prize winner. In 1936 he received a fellowship at the MacDowell colony in Peterboro, N. H., where he completed his first symphony. The symphony won the first prize of $1,000 in a New York Philharmonic-Symphony society contest. In 1938 Mr. Read was awarded the Cromwell traveling fellowship, which he used to enable him to study with Ildebrando Pizzetti in Rome and Jan Sibelius in Finland.

U. S. to Rebuild World, Hull Aid Tells Women

BY BETTY BROWNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., May 23.—A post-war world in which the United States government "will provide the tools, build the factories, open the mines and develop the resources" not only for its own citizens, but for "like-minded" peoples everywhere, was envisaged today by Adolf A. Berle Jr., assistant secretary of state. He spoke on "Social Consequences of the World War and the Realities We Must Face" at the golden jubilee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs here.

Asserting that he has no objection to "money lenders" and private bankers who are "guided by whether they could make money out of business," Berle said that nevertheless "there must be a finance that works anyhow. And so we have already built, altho slowly, the institutions of the new finance."

At the close of the war, Berle declared, it will be necessary "to use the new instruments of finance to re-establish the new life." The nation, he predicted, "will wish to do this not only for ourselves, but for other like-minded peoples as well. It is quite as easy to work together rebuilding a fruitful world as to cooperate in providing for the common defense on a lend-lease basis."

Berle prefaced his rosy picture of a post-war world with a grim picture of America's dependence on the British navy for its safety, and went on with another statement that puzzled many in his audience:

"Even in conquered Europe there is general awareness that the whole structure will break down of its own weight before very long. But if this is to occur, it must be because of positive acts on our part; and it will happen thru an endless amount of courage and hard work."

Earlier in the day convention delegates adopted the so-called "convoy" resolution approving "the policy of giving whatever aid is necessary to those nations whose defense is deemed vital to the defense of the United States because they are defending their independence against the threat of totalitarianism and thereby halting its advance."

A corollary sentence recommending that American citizens be prohibited from furnishing war supplies to axis powers was added on a motion from the floor. An earlier speaker had said this nation was supplying Japan with considerable war material.

Discussion of the resolution was brief despite the fact that Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md., president elect, asked the delegates for a frank expression of opinion, pointing out that the resolution favored going to war if necessary.

Only one woman rose to speak against the resolution. A half dozen, however, rose in support of it and to declare their willingness to send their sons to war, if necessary, to insure a British victory.

A resolution urging members to promote the preparedness program and to "oppose all unwarranted activities which tend to hinder the progress of total defense" was adopted after an amendment specifically mentioning strikes as deterrents to armament was voted down.

A resolution urging preservation of the freedom of radio "for the best interests of democracy" and advocating "further congressional study and investigation of problems facing the [country's] broadcasting system" was unanimously adopted and ordered sent to the President, the interstate commerce committee of congress, and the Federal Communications commission.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

From the note book:

We've seen a lot of stunning short hair cuts lately. For the woman with naturally curly hair or a good permanent that gives her hair curl, body, and sheen, these seem to us smart and practical. Think how easy it will be to keep a short, almost-but-not-quite "windblown" hairdo presentable in the sticky weather that lies ahead of us!

Surprisingly enough these short cuts, brushed upward, are even more flattering to the mature woman than they are to the average youngster. They give the contour a more clean cut line, and a lifted line, and can be softly arranged about the face to give it the flattering frame it needs.

We wouldn't go so far as to say that these are flattering to every woman over 30, but we do feel that lots of women who are trotting about in drooping hairdresses ought to take a flyer with one of these. Hair that falls limply down at the side furthers the illusion of droop to the contours—and that's exactly what the mature woman can't and shouldn't stand.

Speaking of hair, don't forget that sun on it is a mixed blessing. Too much sun makes dry hair dryer and oily hair oilier. Sun your hair moderately and if you're determined to go hatless be sure you use some sort of protective on your locks, and some sort of lubricating scalp cream at night. This is particularly important if your hair is extremely dry. The modern protectives aren't greasy, but they are effective.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.
MOVING DAY.

The office door opened just then, and a mild looking townsman walked in. After the greetings, he said, "Harve, some one busted in the office last night."

Beal frowned. "What would anybody want in the county recorder's office? Is anything missin'?"

"Not that I can find. Books is all in order. Stamps are all there. But still, the lock was busted."

Ernie hoisted himself to his feet and followed the man out. The county of Yellow Jacket did not have a court house. Its business offices were in front of the second story of Badey's store. The court room was in the rear. Both were approached by a wooden stairs on the outside of the store. Ernie followed the county clerk up to the top of the steps, investigated the lock and scratched his head. "It's busted all right. But since nothin's gone, what's the difference?"

The clerk laughed. "I guess there isn't any."

"I'll get a new lock," Ernie said. He went down the stairs, and this time there was a smile on his face. Dave had made a neat enough job of breaking in, and he hadn't left a trace of what he was after. Considering that Sheriff Beal had also fallen for the deed fraud, and had ordered Wallace to have the deed at the Bib M that afternoon, Ernie concluded that he and Dave made a good pair.

But he wished, almost wistfully, that his conscience didn't hurt him the little it did. But when he remembered last night, the deafening blast from the shotgun, his conscience evaporated.

The only thing left was speculation as to who shot thru the window. Beal, Maitland, Lacey Thornton—or somebody Wallace sent?

He didn't know, and he wished savagely that he did, for whoever it was knew that he'd been talking with Dave.

* * *

When Dave saw the first pennant of smoke rise from the chimney of the Bib M after dawn, he waited long enough to give Lily Sholto time to dress, and then knocked at the kitchen door.

Lily answered, and let him in. She even smiled a little as she shut the door behind her.

Dave said quietly, "It was pretty lonely last night, wasn't it?"

"I've got over it, Dave," Lily said. "I thought all last night about it, and I know something now. Jim was lucky to be killed."

Dave didn't say anything, and Lily went on, "I suppose you guessed that Wallace had something on Jim."

"I figured he did."

"Well, it was murder," Lily said. "Plain, inexcusable murder. Jim killed a man once, a good man, when he was mad. Wallace saw him do it. He held that over Jim for three years, and brought Jim here from Texas when he came. Every waking hour of Jim's life, he thought of that murder. It was never away from him. It rode him and sucked the very life out of him. I tried to help him, but I couldn't." She shrugged. "Don't you think he's better off now?"

Dave nodded again, admiring this girl's sense.

Lily shuddered a little, as if shaking off the memory. "That's why I'm not very sad about it. I'll miss him, but he's thru with all that—thru with it." She smiled again, and said, "You'll want breakfast."

"I could use some," Dave said. "I'm goin' to look thru the house."

He disappeared in the front part of the house and Lily set about getting breakfast. She liked Dave Coyle. Carol McFee could hate him and like him by turns, but there was none of that uncertainty in Lily. For Dave Coyle, outlaw or no outlaw, was the only man since she could remember who had tried to help Jim, to be a friend to him. It was Dave Coyle who had taken her from Wallace's place, where every drunken puncher annoyed her, where Wallace taunted her daily, where her life had been lived in constant fear that Wallace, when he couldn't use Sholto, would toss him to the wolves without a quiver of conscience. He had tried to help them. That alone was a passport to Lily's liking.

When breakfast was ready, Dave appeared and sat down.

He said, "Ernie said the funeral is today."

Dave grinned faintly. "Why am I talkin' with him? Well, there's going to be a lot of things you won't understand, Lily. But don't wonder out loud. You'll know soon."

"Are you—going to get the man that killed Jim?"

Dave's gray eyes looked steadily at her. "I am," he said.

"Then don't worry about me," Lily said. "I won't ask questions."

Dave pointed to the door to the front part of the house. "When I walk thru that door," he said, "You forget I've been here. Don't think about me. Don't look for me. Do everything like you usually do. Wallace is movin' in today. Miss McFee will tell you when she comes out. I reckon you'll move some furniture and such. Don't act nervous, and don't look for me. Forget me."

"Then you'll be in the house?"

Dave nodded and went on eating. Presently, Lily said quietly, "Dave."

He looked up.

"When this is over, what are you going to do?"

"And leave Carol here?"

Dave looked blank. "Where would I take her?"

"Where does any man take his wife?"

Dave stared at her a long moment, and then he felt his neck begin to get hot, his face too. He looked down at his plate and shook his head. "I'm an outlaw, Lily. It can't happen."

"Jim was a murderer," Lily said. "It can happen."

"She wouldn't have me."

"She cried the other night, when she thought they were going to get you."

"She was crying over Jim bein' shot, I reckon."

"Not all of it, Dave. She was crying like her heart was going to break."

Dave said miserably, "Quit it, Lily, quit it."

"All right," Lily said wisely. "But just remember it."

Dave got up, his face bleak, and went into the front of the house. There was a noise somewhere up there, and then it was silent. Lily finished her work, then went thru the rooms. She was looking for him, like she was told she mustn't. And he was gone, vanished, and yet she knew he was there somewhere.

* * *

Just at dusk, Ernie, Beal, and Senator Maitland had helped Lily and Carol load the next to the last trunk into the buckboard. It was then that Lily said "There's some one coming into the valley."

Ernie looked. A canvas covered spring wagon had just topped the ridge with flanking riders on each side. It was Wallace all right, moving in. A dozen more riders trailed out behind the wagon.

Ernie looked at Carol and Carol said, "If you'll bring that last bag, please, we'll go."

Senator Maitland got it from the front door. Beal helped Lily and Carol into the seat, and Ernie loaded the bag while Maitland climbed in and took the reins. Carol handed Maitland something and Maitland gave it to Beal.

"The key," he said drily. "Miss McFee has given him everything else, he might as well have that."

Beal flushed a little under the jibe and said: "All you got to do is give the word, Miss McFee, and I'll make Wallace wait until the furniture is moved out."

"Where would I move it?" Carol said dully. "No, he might as well have everything—lock, stock and barrel."

"I'll see he takes good care of it," Beal said.

"Why should he? It's his, isn't it?" Maitland said grimly. He slapped the reins down on the horses and the buckboard moved off. Beal came back to the porch and sat on its edge with Ernie. Beal watched the two wagons pass in the middle of the valley, neither Wallace nor Carol giving any sign of recognition.

A reader called us the other day to report that she'd been baking loaves of our quick apple bread to sell for British war relief. Sounds like a good idea. Our booklet, "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls," contains a number of good recipes for quick breads which should sell like quick breads for a popular cause.

Here's the apple bread.

Quick Apple Bread.
(1 pound loaf.)

¼ cup shortening
1 cup unpeeled ground apples
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3½ tablespoons sour milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted flour
½ to 1 cup nuts

Cream shortening and sugar thoroly and beat in eggs. Add apples, sour milk, and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients together several times and mix into first combination. Add nuts last. Place batter in well greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to an hour.

"Setting Your Table" is the name of a new book by Helen Sprackling, published by M. Barrows & Co., New York. Take a look at it next time you wander into a book store. I think it's pretty good. There are chapters on china and glassware, silver, the etiquet of eating and drinking. Cost, $2.50.

The same publisher has produced another book, one of esoteric appeal. It's called "Gourmet Dinners." Gourmet author, G. Selmer Fougner, scorns welsh rabbit made with milk. Beer or ale is compulsory, says he. And he has collected some pretty fancy menus and high sounding recipes, including "Blazed Capon France Forever." If you're a gourmet, or would like to be, you'll be interested to know that this hrndsome looking book is available for two-fifty.

WHAT WE NEED IN THE DIET EVERY DAY:

1. Milk, a pint or more a day. Children need ¾ to a quart, and so do expectant or nursing mothers.
2. Orange juice or tomato juice for vitamin C. Grapefruit is good, too.
3. At least one leafy green vegetable a day, and two or more other vegetables.
4. One other fruit besides the orange or tomatoe juice.
5. Eggs, if not every day, at least three or four times a week.
6. Lean meat, poultry or fish, one or more servings per day.
7. Cereals and bread, at least two servings of whole grain products.
8. Fats, such as butter, bacon.
9. Water, about six glasses, on the average.
10. Cod liver oil or direct sunshine, for vitamin D, especially in the case of children.
11. Sweets to fill in the diet, after other needs have been cared for. Sweet desserts, sirups, honey, jelly are sweets as much as is candy.

WEDDING

Miss Eleanor and Miss Frances Koerner, twin daughters of Mrs. Gregory A. Koerner of Drexel avenue, will be married to John J. Roche of Calumet avenue and Charles A. Cupp of South Rockwell street in a double ceremony today in Holy Cross church. A wedding breakfast for the immediate families and out of town friends will be given at the Wedgwood hotel.

figuratively. Fresh purple blossoms marked each guest's place at the Arts club, and Mrs. James Shakman added verbal orchids as she praised the board for bringing the Woman's Symphony orchestra thru its current season without a deficit.

Among board members who drank a toast to the symphony's 16th season were Mrs. Burt J. Denman, Mrs. Albert Ullrich, Mrs. Charles H. Wrigley, Mrs. Donald Boynton, Mrs. Charles Puhlman, Mrs. Ewald H. Siebel, Mrs. S. B. Wentworth, Mrs. H. Comer Winter, Mrs. George Everitt, Mrs. George Woodruff, Mrs. Silas Ichenhauser, Mrs. William H. Stanley, Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell, Mrs. J. V. Spachner, Mrs. Ernest J. Kruetgen, Mrs. Hugo Dalmar, and Mrs. William McGibbon.

$38,700 Now Subscribed for Chicago Symphony.

The men and women who have been working for sustaining members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra to subscribe $47,700 annually, had their last meeting yesterday and reported that $38,730 had been raised. The work will go on, altho no other meeting is scheduled, and when the goal is reached there probably will be a cocktail party to celebrate the success, said Edward L. Ryerson, president of the orchestral association.

The woman's committee, headed by Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, has obtained $14,365 of the total amount raised, and will continue its work until June 4, Mrs. MacArthur announced.

Honors were presented by Miss Madeleine McConnell, director of nurses. Miss Sylvia Lukonen received the Mrs. Charles H. Morse award for her record in activities, administrative duties, bedside manner, and high marks. Other awards went to Miss Mary Stypuloski for the highest grades during the three year course; Miss Stella Konecko, outstanding in psychiatric nursing; Miss Marian Schemp, in pediatric nursing; Miss Edythe Watson, best operating room nurse; Miss Darlene Dolva, in obstetrical nursing, and Miss Elizabeth Savio, best bedside manner.

The Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, gave the address, and Charles H. Schweppe, president of St. Luke's, presented the diplomas.

Doris Ernst, soprano, and Robert Mack, baritone, pupils of Grace Keesler, will make their recital debut Sunday evening in the assembly hall of the Auditorium building. They will be assisted by Frances Barge, violinist, and Anna Slack, cellist.

GASOLINE ALLEY—POPPING THE QUESTION

WILMER WAS AROUND YESTERDAY, SALLY, DENYING THAT THE BOSS WEARS A TOUPEE. I HADN'T HEARD THAT HE DID.
NOTICE
I JUST GOT A SLANT AT HIM AND I'M NOT SO SURE HE DOESN'T. I NEVER NOTICED IT BEFORE.
WELL, IF HE HAS WILMER DENYING IT THERE MIGHT BE SOMETHING TO IT.
I THINK YOU KNOW MORE ABOUT IT, SALLY, THAN YOU'RE ADMITTING.
IF I DO, I TOLD MR. CHIGGER I WOULDN'T TELL A SOUL.
SKEEZIX, DOES MR. CHIGGER WEAR A WIG?
THAT'S JUST WHAT I WAS GOING TO ASK YOU, HORACE.

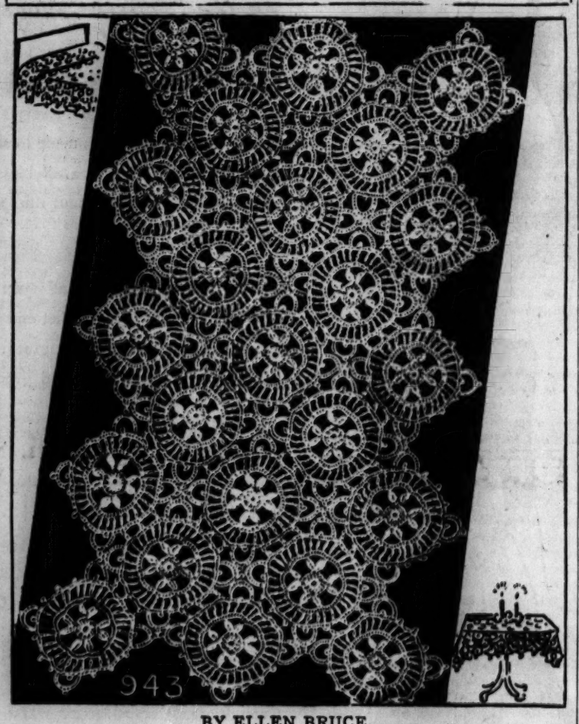
Pilot Wheel Medallion



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This clever, crocheted pilot wheel medallion, which incorporates the wheel and four points of a compass at the outside, works up most attractively in this luncheon doily. The medallions are set together on the diagonal as a change from the usual geometric arrangement. However, this same motif may be set together in the conventional manner and may be used for a luncheon doily, table cloth, bedspread, or antimacassar set.

For instructions in crocheting the pilot wheel medallion, No. 943, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

U. of Iowa to Induct Former Chicagoan as President Today

Iowa City, Ia., May 23 [Special].—Virgil M. Hancher, 44 year old native Iowan who left the practice of law in Chicago to become an educational executive, will be inaugurated as president of the University of Iowa tomorrow, six months after he took over the executive duties.

More than 175 universities and colleges will be represented at the ceremonies, marking the 13th time in the history of the Hawkeye school that the induction of a president has been made. Included in the official delegates will be the man Hancher has succeeded—Eugene Allen Gilmore, currently dean of the law school at Pittsburgh.

Hancher, a graduate of the liberal arts and law colleges here, will address an estimated 1,500 persons in the huge Iowa fieldhouse following the induction and charge which will be given by Henry C. Shull of Sioux City, Ia., president of the state board of education.

ENGAGEMENTS

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Ferry to Dr. Raymond F. Corpe of Chicago has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Ferry of Waukegan. Miss Ferry, a graduate of the Henrotin School of Nursing, is employed at the Henrotin hospital. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Corpe of Colfax, Ill., was graduated from Eureka college and from the University of Illinois. He is interning at the University of Illinois Research and Educational hospital.

Mrs. Gerald G. Schwager of South Dorchester avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Belle, to Leslie Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Asher J. Goldfine of the Piccadilly hotel. Both Miss Schwager and Mr. Sanford were graduated from the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Anthony F. Kartholl of Sherwin avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary Frances, to Thomas J. Cassidy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cassidy of Talman avenue. The wedding is planned for June.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Saturday, May 24.

Don't mistake serious thought for the blues today; this is an excellent time to look both backward and forward; to estimate the values of experience and to plan for the future. Evening suggests applications of talent and sympathy.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if this is your date of birth, contains personal changes. Make them with foresight, not haste. Push personal plans till February, then slow up, work for future, not quick, gain. Danger: Feb. 24 to March 12.

Tomorrow.

National Jewish Welfare Board to Meet Here Today

The first conference of the National Jewish Welfare board to be held in the midwest will convene today, tomorrow, and Monday at the Standard club.

Mrs. Walter E. Heller, vice chairman of the national committee on arrangements, has chosen for hospitality duties Mrs. Henry I. Monheimer, chairman; Mrs. Max Biesenthal, Mrs. Leon Block, Mrs. J. L. Block, Mrs. Jesse R. Gerstley, Mrs. Hugo Hartmann, Mrs. Louis E. Halperin, Mrs. Benjamin I. Morris, Mrs. Arthur M. Oppenheimer, Mrs. Maurice L. Rothschild, Mrs. Julius Stone, and Mrs. Michael H. Weinberg.

Mrs. Heller will serve as chairman at tonight's session, at which Rabbi Edward Israel of Baltimore, Md., and Prof. Morris R. Cohen of the University of Chicago will speak. The Chicago women's committee will give a reception after the opening session.

Cotton Takes Starring Role in Lingerie

BY REA SEEGER.

Cotton futures selling at a new low on the present market, star such super comforts as lingerie. Crisp lawn and dimity nightgowns, refreshing as a lake breeze, come in dainty pastels, with baby blue as a special and in tiny color floral prints against cool white. Old fashioned batiste with that silky texture makes some particularly appealing nightgowns matched with either brief bed-jackets or full skirted house coats.

Seersucker of very fine crinkle is used for stunning house coats as well as negligees. This seersucker is the pet and delight of the lazy summer shopper for it never needs the press of an iron . . . tub, dry, shake out, and it's as it was at the first sight. Seersucker is also an amiable traveling companion.

Dotted cotton, that is prints that feature dots of small size, look cool and fresh when the background cotton is thin and the dots are of rose red or blue. This dotted stuff is used for the slickest sleeping pajamas ever unpacked. The tops have cap sleeves for extra air conditioning and the pajama pants are cut with the same pattern as well tailored lounging slacks. The price mark will make the most hardened shopper gasp.

Broadcloth is another cotton used for tailored pajamas. Some are trimmed with red braid, others with blue. There is a sailor collar on the slipover top and you may select either the new shorts length pants or the regulation long affairs. While these last mentioned pajamas were really designed for sleeping hours, lots of the appreciative shoppers have bought them and plan to wear them for play suits around the house or in the garden.

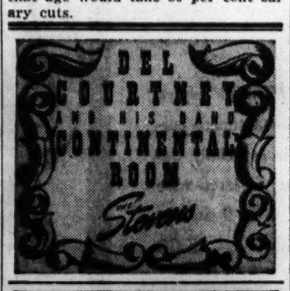
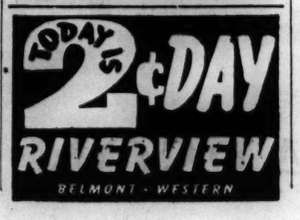
Seminary Merger Progress Reported by Presbyterians

St. Louis, Mo., May 23 [Special].—Progress in a proposal to merge two out-of-state theological seminaries with Presbyterian seminary of Chicago was reported yesterday by a special committee on theological seminaries before the 153d General Assembly of the Presbyterian church. The two seminaries are that of the University of Dubuque, Ia., and the Omaha [Neb.] Theological seminary.

The assembly also was told that much progress had been made in a proposal to reunite with the Southern Presbyterians, formally known as the Presbyterian Church in the United States. The two churches have been separated since the civil war. Union proposals also are under discussion with the Protestant Episcopal and United Presbyterian churches.

Dr. John Timothy Stone, president emeritus of Presbyterian Theological seminary, in a report of a special committee on pensions, recommended changes in the service pension plan of the church, to be effective Oct. 1, 1941. The plan calls for a 10 per cent pension reduction and establishment of 68 as an automatic pension age. Pastors remaining in service after that age would take 30 per cent salary cuts.





Nightgown and Hostess Coat

WOMAN'S AND MISS' GOWNS.

Today's two patterns fashion a beautiful nightgrown and a glamorous hostess coat. Such feminine attire is a "must" in the wardrobe, and pennies, plenty of them, may be saved if you make this intimate apparel for yourself. The nightie is lace trimmed and has a ribbon sash. The housecoat [the pattern also may serve for a daytime frock] is a graceful paneled affair, allowing wide latitude in fabric and color contrasts.

Style No. 2926 is designed for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52 inch bust measurement.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Dali Attracts Record Crowd to Arts Club

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The tea given yesterday at the Arts club to open the last three exhibitions of the season was scheduled to start at 4 o'clock, but at least an hour earlier there were 100 women assembled in the galleries. Not the pictures, but Salvador Dali, one of the artists, was the main attraction.

When Dali arrived at 5 o'clock there were nearly 350 persons waiting to greet him, almost a record for a tea party in the fashionable club in the Wrigley building. However, the guests did look at Dali's paintings and drawins and jewels as well as at Fernand Leger's water colors and drawings, and Horace Pippin's paintings.

Pippin, important Negro painter, was at the tea, too, being introduced by Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, president, to many who went into the two small galleries in which his oils are hanging. Dali and his Russian wife arrived with Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, whom they are visiting, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, former president of the club and an old friend of the artist's.

Mrs. Dali was thoroly Parisian in appearance. She wore a short black chiffon afternoon gown with her shoulders and entire back covered only with one thickness of the sheer material. On one shoulder was pinned a small bouquet of fragrant valley lilies. Mrs. Goodspeed was wearing a silk gown with a background of pale blue printed with deep maroon carnations. Mrs. McCormick's frock was of navy blue sheer and she wore a small corsage of Easter lilies. All three women wore small light airy hats made of veiling or of lacy straw. Mrs. Dali's and Mrs. Goodspeed's of black and Mrs. McCormick's of blue.

The portraits of Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Dali attracted much attention and every one agreed that they were excellent likenesses. A portrait of Mae West that Mrs. Goodspeed had lent also was one of the Dalis that every one wanted to see, but it is doubtful if any one would have recognized it without a title, for it is more surrealistic than the other two.

The tea table was a triumph for its creator, Miss Mabel Schamberg. It was the essence of spring with a large mirror tray with a white rim, a green glass compote holding green grapes and sprays of tiny white blossoms, green glass candlesticks with crystal teardrop pendants and white candles, and four green pottery plates holding green limes and some of the white blossoms were the decorations.

Some of those at the party were Mrs. John H. Winterbotham and her daughter, Mrs. T. W. Badger; Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mrs. John J. Bryant, Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, Mrs. John L. Fortune, Miss Joanna Fortune, just back from Palm Beach; Mrs. George A. Kelly and her attractive daughters, Miss Kathleen and Mrs. John L. Irving; Mrs. George A. Poole, Mrs. Oliver Picher, Mrs. Rend Clarke, Mrs. John Clarkson, Mrs. Leslie Buswell, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Vernon Herbst, Mrs. Leonora Hoyne, Mrs. Aubrey H. According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is the height of folly to make a play that you yourself feel has little or no chance for success, this, of course, assuming that you have any alternative. The average player makes many of these hopeless plays simply because he lacks either the versatility or the patience to explore hidden paths. The declarer in today's hand surrendered much too easily.

West, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	2 spades
Pass	3 spades	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West was hard pressed for a good opening lead and finally selected the ace of clubs. East, who liked clubs better than any other suit, signaled with the queen and declarer won the club continuation. The heart ten was led toward dummy; West hopped up with the ace and played a third club. Declarer ruffed and, certain that a trump finesse would not work, laid down the ace and a low trump. West, fearing that to pass the trick might result in his eventually being thrown on lead and forced to play a diamond from his tenace [after declarer had stripped hearts and clubs], went right up with the king and returned his last club. Declarer ruffed and drew the last trump, then finessed against the queen of hearts. Dummy's jack holding, the king was cashed. West, of course, following with the queen.

Now, with the play in dummy and only three diamonds left in his own hand and in dummy, declarer virtually "gave up." He cashed the ace and led another diamond toward his queen. West, of course, gobbled up the king and jack, the latter the setting trick.

West's original no trump had marked him with all the missing high honors and his penalty double was confirmation of this card-placing. West, it had been proved, started with four clubs and not only from his no trump but from the fall of the cards it was quite obvious that he held three cards in each of the other suits.

At the point where the declarer led the ace of diamonds a very simple play would have fulfilled the contract. Instead of the ace a low diamond should have been led from dummy and declarer should have put on the nine spot. West would be helpless; he would win with the ten, but then would have to return a diamond to the combined North-South tenace. It is to be assumed that declarer was pretty sure about the position of the diamond king, but apparently he did not know what to do about it.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, who usually are helpless whenever they entertain the Cincinnati Reds in Wrigley field, remained true to precedent yesterday as they submitted to an 8 to 4 whipping in the opener of a four game series with the champions. Tho they made half as many runs as the Reds, they were by no means half as good as the visitors.

Johnny Vander Meer, Reds' starting pitcher, knocked himself out without giving up a hit in the first three innings plus. And the Cubs didn't make their first hit of the game until Clyde McCullough doubled off Elmer Riddle with two out in the sixth inning. Charley George got the second hit, a pinch single in the seventh, and then, after replacing McCullough as catcher, knocked the third Chicago hit, another single, in the ninth. He scored on the fourth and last Cub hit, a double by Stan Hack, and a long fly by Phil Cavarretta.

How to Score Without a Hit.

The Cubs were trailing, 6 to 0, and Claude Passeau had been knocked out, when they made three runs without a hit off Vander Meer in the third inning.

Vern Olsen, who had replaced Passeau, walked and, after Hack grounded out to Lonnie Frey, Cavarretta was hit by a pitched ball. Dom Dallessandro walked, filling the bases, and Bill Nicholson got credit for his 33d run batted in when he walked, forcing Olsen across the plate. Lou Novikoff forced Nicholson, Cavarretta scoring, and, when Eddie Joost threw wide trying to complete a double play, Dallessandro followed Cavarretta across the plate. McCullough popped to Frey.

Vandy Leaves the Job.

Possibly because Vander Meer had struck out McCullough, Lou Stringer and Bob Sturgeon in succession in the second, just before he blew up in the third, Manager Bill McKechnie let John go out to the mound at the start of the fourth. However, when Johnny threw two wide ones to Stringer, he was hoisted. Riddle went in, struck out Stringer, and

LYONS BAFFLES TIGERS, 7-1, FOR FOURTH VICTORY

Trout Masters Dietrich in 2d Game, 9 to 0.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—Theodore A. Lyons, the frisky patriarch of the mound, took excellent care of the White Sox cause this afternoon, but his performance failed to arouse heroics in the right arm of a fellow pitcher. The 40 year old Lyons did his bit by dusting off the Tigers, 7 to 1, in the front half of a double header. Then Bill Dietrich was put on the firing line and he not only wilted, but his mates also went into a batting slump to fall before Paul [Dizzy] Trout, 9 to 0, for their fourth shutout of the season.

Lyons' job, his fourth success of the year, was practically settled before he had pitched one ball. His associates put him on Easy street with a noisy five run first inning which cut short the appearance of the 35 year old Tommy Bridges. Tommy got into difficulties because of his wildness and an error by Charley Gehringer and when the pressure was at its peak, the Sox exploded a pair of extra base hits. One of these was a two bagger by Myril Hoag that sent three Chicagoans charging across the plate. Bridges was gone before the third out was recorded, leaving the matter in the hands of Luther Thomas.

Old Ted Remains Calm.

Having a five run lead from the start, Lyons put it to good use. Base hits didn't disturb him. He yielded at least one in all except two innings, but until the sixth all except one of the numerous hits came with one or two out. In the sixth he was pressed by two singles with none gone, but this was quickly solved by a fly ball and a double play. The only other time the Tigers had a runner on base before an out was recorded was the ninth, and before the inning ended the champions were able to decorate the scoreboard with their lone tally.

Dietrich stood his ground for three innings before indicating that he was doomed to be knocked out for the fourth straight time. In the fourth, Bruce Campbell, a Sox alumnus, sailed a homer into the seats with two on. The fifth also was a bit strenuous for Dietrich and the sixth actually boisterous. Campbell touched off the inning with another homer and by the time Johnny Humphries responded to a rescue call four more Tigers had counted. Also figuring in this big inning was another Sox graduate, Rip Radcliff, who not only spanked Dietrich with three hits but also added one during Humphries' term.

FIRST GAME

Bridges retired Knickerbocker in the first inning and then learned immediately that he had a real job on his hands. Appling singled thru short, Kuhel was nicked by a pitched ball and Wright walked, filling the bases. Lodigiani grounded to Gehringer, and the old fellow juggled the ball, Appling scoring. Bridges got some relief by the forcing of Kuhel at the plate on Kreevich's tap. This was where Hoag broke in with his base cleaning double to center, Wright, Lodigiani, and Kreevich counting. Tresh also doubled, and Hoag scored, whereupon Thomas took over the pitching.

Shutout Escapes Ted.

Thomas conducted the show to suit himself until Tresh opened the seventh by beating out a bunt to McNair. Lyons' out pushed Tresh to second, and he went on from there to the plate when Knickerbocker lined a two bagger down the left field line. Knickerbocker galloped to the plate on Appling's single to left. Kuhel tapped into a double play.

Campbell singled to open the ninth, and this led to the end of whatever shutout hopes Lyons may have had. With one out, Tebbetts singled. With two gone, Billy Sullivan swung for

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—Major league rookies who are having trouble at the plate may be heartened at a recitation of the experience of Jack Fournier during his first trial with the Boston Red Sox. . . . Fournier, who later developed into one of the big league's prominent sluggers, told this story to Fred Haney, manager of the Browns: "The first time I batted was in Washington against a guy named Walter Johnson. Then we went to Cleveland and they sent me up against a pitcher named Vean Gregg. The next time I got off the bench I swung against a fellow named Ed Walsh in Chicago. The next time I batted I was in Montreal." . . . Bill Benswanger, head man of the Pittsburgh Pirates, an accomplished pianist, says some evenings he sits at the piano and soothes himself. . . . Other times he touches the keys artistically and accurately but blue noises come off his beloved sounding board. . . . Spring football practice at Michigan established the fact that the Wolverines will have a particularly strong line next fall. . . . The conversion of Mervin Pregulman, star freshman, from center to guard has plugged one of the spots that had been worrying Fritz Crisler. . . . Jimmy Dykes, a professional umpire hater, has had so little trouble with the guess men this spring that rival managers complain that he has the arbiters intimidated. . . . Larry MacPhail, who has led the way in breaking down some of the game's oldest traditions, unfortunately cannot effect a simple change which requires no imagination whatever. . . . It's apparent that Ebbets field cannot accommodate the crowds anxious to watch the Dodgers play, but its seating capacity of 35,000 cannot be substantially increased. . . . The terms of the Tony Zale-Al Hostak championship fight at Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night do not include a return match in event Hostak wins, according to Sam Pian, Zale's manager. . . .

Tad Gormley, for 40 years a track coach in Louisiana, says Billy Brown of Louisiana State is the greatest athlete the south ever has had. . . . In the Southeastern conference meet he won the 100 yard dash in :9.5 seconds, the 220 in :20.9, and the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet 2⅛ inches . . . He ran a quarter of the winning relay team and cleared 6 feet for fourth place in the high jump. . . . Several White Sox players have contracts providing for a bonus if home patronage for the season exceeds a certain figure. . . . The interested players can keep their own books as the season progresses, because the daily attendance announced by the club is the actual paid. . . . Many clubs not only include the pass list, but add a few hundred or a few thousand to make themselves feel good.

We Don't Want War.

We say we don't want war—
That what we want is peace;
We don't want war,
We only seek surcease
From all this harrowing fear
With which our day is filled,
We long for quiet hours—

But just as war is but the aftermath
Of envy, malice, hatred, greed and strife,
So, then, is peace the afterglow
Of true interpretation of this life;
As war emerges from the awful spawn
So, then, must peace be recompense
For kindness, understanding, sympathy and love.

To kill a spirit with harsh, cruel words
Is crushing out a soul's aspiring breath;
The foul, dank vapors of a lethal gas
From our own daily dealings with our fellow man
Must come that peace we strive so hard to find!

Mystery Marvel	106	W. Borton	12-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Lincoln Fields will launch its stake program this afternoon with the $5,000 Crete handicap, a 6 furlong dash which has drawn 13 speedy sprinters in the overnight entries. Quite a few of them are old favorites of Chicago fans. Joe Schenck, Technician, Potranco, Flying Lill, Talked About, Montsin, Kings Blue, and Equistar have figured in many a close finish, and all of them will be back to try again today.

In addition to these veteran campaigners, the field includes some new recruits to the handicap ranks—notably the 3 year old colt Smacked and a filly of the same age, Mystery Marvel.

Renew Spirited Rivalry.

Today's main event will start off the 1941 renewal of a series of races which brought out some high spirited rivalry last season. The Lincoln Fields stake events, which include the Crete, the Peabody Memorial, the Steger, the La Salle and the Lincoln handicaps, bring out some of the tightest competition to be found anywhere in the country. In addition there is the Joliet stakes for juveniles.

Joe Schenck, Technician and Potranco all figured prominently in the struggle for supremacy among the handicap horses at Lincoln Fields last season. Two other veterans—Shot Put and Mucho Gusto—are scheduled to take up the defense of their laurels later in the meeting.

Potranco, one of the best local juveniles of 1939, has demonstrated that he is back in good form. In a six furlong dash on opening day, Monday, he came charging up in the last sixteenth, knifed in between two rivals, and drew out to win by more than two lengths in 1:12⅘.

Dead Head in Double.

The Woolford entry, Joe Schenck and Technician, had been scheduled to go in that same race, but both were withdrawn. Both started within the last few weeks at Churchhill Downs, however, and showed that they are in racing condition.

The daily double payoff yesterday was split by a dead heat in the second race in which Falerno got up in the closing strides to drop his nose on the finish line exactly even with Illinois Tom. The other half of the double was easy for Darby Dallas, which won by three lengths. The payoff was $30.20 and $34.20 for those who linked Illinois Tom and Falerno, respectively, with Darby Dallas.

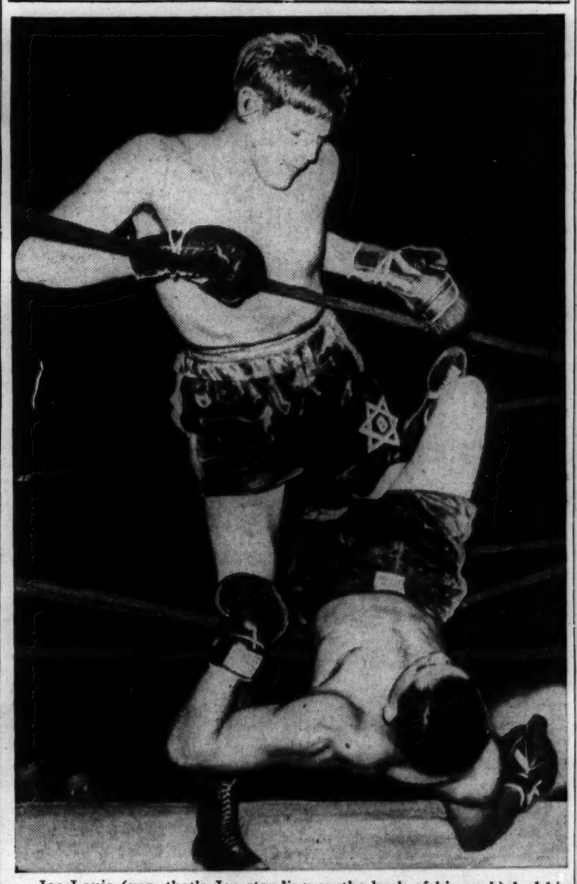
It Was Good While It Lasted



Joe Louis (yep, that's Joe standing on the back of his neck) had his hands full with Buddy Baer in their title fight in Washington last night, but the champion came back, as he always does, to score a technical knockout over the Californian in the seventh round. This bit of action occurred in the first when Buddy battered Joe thru the ropes and out onto the apron. Louis took a count of four getting back into action.

NATIONAL PRO TENNIS TOURNEY TO OPEN TODAY

Donald Budge is seeded No. 1 in the field of 30, followed by Fred Perry, Bill Tilden, and Dick Skeen. Perry and Tilden will play today, but Budge and Skeen will postpone their tournament debut until tomorrow.

Karel Kozeluh, Keith Gledhill, and Lester Stoefen, all former professional champions, will be seen in action today with Lloyd Budge, brother of Don; George O'Connell, the home club professional; and Frank Rericka, of Deauville, Fla.

The leading professionals will appear at a free clinic for Chicago youngsters on the Town and Tennis club courts this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Today's schedule:

Fight Decisions

At Brooklyn, N. Y.—Frank Martin beat Joey Silva [8].

3D KNOCKDOWN FOLLOWS BELL ENDING SIXTH

Buddy Disqualified; Manager in Ring.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Joe Louis, who throws his bombs the American way, tonight was awarded a technical knockout over Buddy Baer in the seventh round of as wild a contest as heavyweight boxing has known in years.

The end came with dramatic speed. Baer, the second member of his family to get a look at Shufflin' Joe's fast ball pitching, had taken everything the champion had to offer for five rounds. He had knocked Louis thru the ropes onto the apron of the ring in the opening session. He had blood streaming from a cut under the Brown Bomber's left eye in the fifth.

Then It Happened.

Early in the sixth round Louis let go one of his famous short rights that seem to come from nowhere. It caught Baer flush on the chin. The 6 feet 6 inch giant, who carried a 35 pound edge in weight, reeled all the way around and fell flat on his face in the center of the ring. Every one thought the match was over. But at the count of nine Buddy was on his feet, bewildered but attempting to carry on. His efforts were weak and ineffective, like Ohio State's 1940 line against Michigan.

Again Louis' lightning right streaked thru the night and down went Baer for another count of nine. As he struggled to his feet it was apparent that his courage was still flaming but his strength was slowly ebbing. Facing inevitable defeat, the challenger, dazed and shaken, his eyes swimming in agony, looked to his corner as if to call for help from his trainer, Issy Kline. While Buddy was backing away, instinctively ducking punches and trying to hold up his guard, the bell clanged ending the round. A second or two later came the punch, which was started almost simultaneously with the bell, that threw 23,912 customers, to say nothing of the principals and officials, into complete disorder.

It Was Dynamite.

The blow landed on Baer's jaw and knocked him cold. His handlers rushed to mid-ring and dragged him to his corner while Manager Ancil Hoffman jumped thru the ropes and cornered Referee Arthur Donovan directly in front of your correspondent's typewriter. Hoffman protested vigorously that Baer had been floored after the bell and that Louis should be disqualified. He then screamed that Baer should be allowed more time between rounds. He still was there holding on to Donovan when the bell rang for the start of the seventh round. The referee immediately disqualified Baer, because Hoffman was in the ring.

By this time most of the fans were on their feet joining in the excitement. Some of the more uncultured ringsiders pursed their lips and emitted raucous sounds which were singularly reminiscent of the contemptuous razzberry.

Hoffman Speaks His Piece.

In the dressing room after the bout Hoffman said he had been obliged to accept Donovan as the referee in order to get the match. Baer pointed out that Donovan had pulled a boner in the opening round when he ordered both men to their corners several seconds before the bell ended the session. Hoffman said he would go before the District of Columbia Boxing commission tomorrow to claim the world championship for Baer.

Donovan explained his disqualification of Baer on Hoffman's refusal to leave the ring when ordered to do so. The referee contended that the blow which floored Baer for the third time landed exactly as the bell ended the round. The collective observation of newspapermen at the ringside, however, will not support his judgment. The timekeeper made the chaos thicker than ever by his statement that he had counted out Baer after his second knockdown in the sixth round. All of which proves there was definite lack of team play among the officials.

It Was a Great Show.

The dizzy outcome of the sensational battle provided unexpected entertainment for the throng of customers of assorted political faiths who were trying to get away from the convoy problem, industrial strikes and whatever became of Rudolf Hess. Senators, congressmen, and cabinet officers became so absorbed in the goings-on that isolationists were seen actually talking to interventionists. It was the largest crowd that has seen a boxing bout in the nation's capital. Receipts were announced to have been $105,183.

Let's take a look at developments chronologically. Louis, who weighed only 201¾ pounds at noon as compared with Baer's 237½, opened the fight with a flurry of short lefts and rights that forced Buddy to back away. Just when it looked as if the Bomber might be setting up his foe for the kill, Baer caught the champion with a left hook that lifted him off his feet and sent him sprawling between the second and third strands of ropes onto the wide apron

'TO BE A FIGHTER YOU MUST FIGHT,' —AND ZALE DOES

That's Why Coulon Picks Tony Over Hostak.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

"To be a great fighter you have to fight." This seemingly trite sentence is the reason Johnny Coulon, one time bantamweight champion of the world, offered yesterday afternoon in support of his contention that Tony Zale will whip Al Hostak next Wednesday night.

Coulon was a visitor yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium and watched Zale go thru five rounds in the ring in preparation for his defense of the middleweight title. Of course, Coulon naturally might be expected to pick Zale, who is considered a Chicagoan, altho he lives in Gary, Ind. But he continued his line of reasoning.

"Look at Hostak's record. After he broke his hand in his match with Zale in 1940 he didn't fight again for six months, and then he was stopped in the 13th round and lost his championship. What has Hostak done since? He knocked out George Burnette in one round here last February, stopped Ben Brown in three rounds in April in Seattle, and went one round to stop Atilio Sabatino May 6.

Hasn't Had Tough Fight.

Chicago fans will agree with Coulon that Zale is a great fighter because he fights. Already they have given a vote of confidence in an advance sale which forecasts a sell out Wednesday night. All $1 seats are gone but the Stadium box office men report that they have an adequate supply of $2, $3, and $5 tickets.

Test of Endurance.

It isn't enough, however, for Zale to be an established card. But Hostak also has proved his boxing ability [he led Zale in five rounds in their first match until he fractured his hand] and he has a hard right hand punch. The bout comes to a question of Hostak's endurance and Zale's ability to escape or weather Al's best smashes. This situation always is a magnet for the crowds.

That Zale is in shape may be taken for granted. His five rounds yesterday, however, were evidence. After three fast rounds against Speed Schaefer, Tony finished against Buddy Rose.

IT'S GRADUATION DAY TOMORROW AT GOLF SCHOOL

You're Invited to Watch 32 Finalists Perform.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

An invitation to the graduating exercises of the ninth annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE is herewith extended to all golf-minded Chicagoans. These final ceremonies in the largest plan of group instruction in the game's history will begin promptly at 2:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the first tee of the Jackson park course, 63d street and Stony Island avenue. Every one interested in seeing the 32 finalists swing for prizes is urged to attend the closing exercises of the 1941 school.

These 32 prize students, all of them novices, were chosen by the members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association at the conclusion of the fourth and final lesson of the regular series last Thursday night on the four courses of the Chicago park district. Each of the four courses will be represented by two men, two women, two boys, and two girls in tomorrow's graduation party.

Give 72,000 Free Lessons.

The 1941 school closed with a record of 72,000 free lessons given by the Illinois PGA faculty, second highest total in the nine year career of this unusual institution. The total number of instructions for the nine years has now reached 329,000.

The prize student in each division who is adjudged to have the best swing will be awarded a set of clubs and a golf bag, and season tickets to the Chicago Open at Elmhurst in July and the $11,000 Tam O' Shanter Open in September. The other 28 finalists each will be given a dozen balls and a ticket for one day's admissions to the aforesaid tournaments, biggest of the local season.

Students Like It.

Following the close of the school, a number of students sat down and wrote their impressions of it and the services rendered by the PGA members who gave their time to the school. One of these sentiments follows:

Geraldine Wells, Alexandria hotel—It was thrilling to be among the thousands who took advantage of these free lessons. I attended the classes at the Diversey course, and they brought back many pleasant memories, for it was there that I first took up golf last year. My own particular problem was a tendency to alice, but the instructor explained that, first of all, I did not shift my weight properly to my right leg on the backswing. At the same time, my right arm was raised high instead of remaining close to my side. You can imagine my surprise, after practicing a while, when I was asked to show the class the improvement in my swing.

THREE DRIVERS VIE FOR MIDGET LEAD TONIGHT

Myron Fohr of Milwaukee, Ray Richards and Tony Bettenhausen of Chicago will battle for the lead in the early season midget auto racing competition at Raceway Park, 129th street and Ashland avenue, tonight. The trio leads in point standing in that order. A victory for either in the 30 lap feature tonight, will give him first position.

It's Derby Day Again Today—at Midlothian

Midlothian's 37th annual Derby, oldest and best known of the Chicago golf district's annual invitational events, will go to the post today with a field of more than 250 players running the first 18 holes. Another 18 tomorrow will conclude the race. A total of 27 prizes has been offered, and each entrant must go the full route to qualify for any of them. Joe Creevy, chairman of the Derby, and his 24 colleagues, have prepared an extensive program, off-course feature of which will be the running of the annual horse race for members. Formerly, this thrilling spectacle was transacted on horseback, but this year it was decided to switch to chariots. This race will be run at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. Each foursome in the golf event will contain at least one member of the home club.

Owner of Bears Signs Standlee and Gallarneau

San Francisco, Cal., May 23 [Special].—Hugh Gallarneau, half back, and Norman Standlee, full back, members of the undefeated Stanford university football team last fall, today were signed by George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, to play with the champions of the National Professional league in 1941. Halas has been here for several days discussing terms with the Stanford back field stars but he declined to state the salaries he had agreed to pay them.

Halas was particularly pleased to get the Stanford men, whose brilliance never was better demonstrated than in the victory over Nebraska in the Rose bowl game, because they are expert in the T formation which the Bears use. Clark Shaughnessy, who took Stanford thru its undefeated season in his first year at Palo Alto, and Halas have worked together in recent years prefecting the T formation. Stanford's effectiveness was based on the deception of the man in motion backed up by the plunging of Standlee.

Both players should fit into the Bears' attack without any delay. Gallarneau was called the most effective Stanford back by Nebraska players after the Rose bowl game. He is a graduate of Morgan Park High school, Chicago.

Standlee is from Long Beach, Cal.

Louis Stops Buddy Baer in Seventh Round of the ring. Louis, embarrassed and slightly confused, was blinking his eyes like a movie patron who suddenly comes into the sunlight as he crawled thru the ropes to resume the contest.

Joe Goes to Work.

Louis went to work in earnest in the second and peppered his opponent with every type of blow in the book, but his attack didn't upset the California giant in the least. In the third Louis landed four lefts in succession without a return on two occasions, but Baer always came boring in, resting his nead on the Negro's shoulder much of the time. This style was commendable for its earnestness but was lacking in high dramatics. The fourth was a repetition of the third. It was Louis all the way, but he was doing no great damage.

IRISH TURN BACK BADGERS, 76-55, IN TRACK MEET

Madison, Wis., May 23 [Special].—Notre Dame's well balanced track team defeated Wisconsin, 76 to 55, this afternoon at Camp Randall as two field and five meet records fell and another meet mark was tied. The Irish won 9 of the 14 individual events and the relay. They added five seconds, seven thirds, and two second place ties.

Five of the eight records tied or broken were by Notre Dame boys, including both field marks.

WHITE SOX AND TIGERS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER

SECOND GAME

The situation began to get out of hand for Dietrich when Radcliff doubled past Kuhel with one out in the fourth inning of the second game. York walked and advanced with Radcliff on a wild pitch. Campbell then plunked his first homer into the right field pavillion for a cluster of three runs. Bespectacled Bill was subjected to a little more roughing in the fourth. Croucher, Gehringer, and Radcliff ripped off singles to make it 4 to 0.

The first disturbing item in the stormy sixth was Campbell's second homer, this one going into the right field second story. The next two men were retired but Croucher beat out a bunt and a fresh panic was on. Trout drilled a single into right and scored with Croucher on Mullin's triple to the center field wall. Gehringer survived on a pass and Radcliff singled to score Mullin. Satisfied that Dietrich had taken enough punishment for one afternoon, Manager Dykes called on Humphries to end the inning and the rescuer didn't fail.

The only run yielded by Humphries went over in the eighth on hits by Radcliff and York after a fumble by Don Kolloway, one of the several shock troops who were given some exercise during the last few innings.

Hold State Junior College Tennis Tourney Today

The annual State Junior college tennis tournament will be held at Maine Township Junior college this morning. Besides the three city junior colleges, Herzl, Wright, and Wilson, the contenders will be Lyons Township, North Park, Thornton, St. Procopius, Morton, Joliet, and Maine. Wilson is the favorite.

HOLD PREP RELAY CARNIVAL TODAY ON STAGG FIELD

The annual prep relay carnival under the sponsorship of Chicago Teachers college will be held today in Stagg field. Preliminary events will start at 1 o'clock. More than 400 athletes are expected to compete.

Calumet and Tilden Tech are the favorites in the two mile relay event. Du Sable and Englewood are expected to have point winners in the 100 yard dash. Two records were established and five tied in last year's carnival.

FOREIGN NATIONS BOMBARDING U.S. DAILY BY RADIO

London, Berlin, Rome Vie for Listeners, Says Fly.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Foreign governments are bombarding the United States with propaganda by short wave broadcasting, but its effect on the American public appears negligible, James L. Fly, chairman of the Federal Communications commission, said today.

"The British alone broadcast each week more words than are contained in the Bible or the works of Shakespeare," Fly said in discussing the strategy of foreign broadcasts. He spoke before the communications committee of the American Bar association.

He described the work of the FCC's listening posts in recording, transcribing and then analyzing the huge volume of propaganda beamed to the United States and other countries of North America.

Doubts Serious Effect.

"Fear has been expressed in some quarters that foreign propaganda aimed at the United States by short wave may corrupt the American listening public. I am very much inclined to doubt it," said Fly. "So long as the public trust in the impartiality of domestic news and discussion is maintained few if any listeners will be misled by partisan propaganda from abroad.

"The amount of this stuff aimed at the United States is amazing," Fly continued. "Thus, the Italian radio sends us more than four hours of broadcasts a day; the British broadcasting company [BBC], about six and a half; and the German radio nearly 11 hours. Japan's North American service now runs to about four and a half hours daily. To this total must be added various programs directed at American audiences by stations in Australia, the Soviet Union, and 15 or 20 other nations.

Seek Certain Groups.

"In general, the BBC seems to concentrate upon American groups which are in a position to influence public opinion, while Germany caters to larger but less articulate sections of the American public," he continued.

"One night last week, for example, the British broadcast to the United States a program appealing primarily to American ministers of the gospel, while a simultaneous German program was appealing to tenant farmers, sharecroppers, and the Oakies portrayed in 'The Grapes of Wrath'."

Discussing the technique of emphasis, Fly recalled that when in the Greek campaign the Greeks were retreating the British radio talked about the "Greek army." But when the tables were turned and the Italians were pushed back into Albania, the British radio stressed the Italian defeat at the hands of "allied forces."

ILLINOIS DOCTOR AND WIFE KILLED, 1 HURT IN CRASH

Dr. Joseph Michael O'Malley, 66 year old physician of Ohio, Bureau county, and his wife were killed yesterday and a truck driver was critically injured in a collision at 183d street and Cicero avenue, five miles west of Homewood.

State highway police said skid marks on the pavement showed that the truck, driven by Morris Semons, 50, of 3358 Jackson boulevard, was headed north in Cicero avenue, while the O'Malley car was going west in 183d street. Mrs. O'Malley was instantly killed. Dr. O'Malley died shortly after he was taken to the Oak Forest infirmary. Semons' skull was fractured.

Donald Gawne, 5 years old, of 2715 North Hoyne avenue, died last night in Alexian Brothers hospital of injuries received earlier in the day when he was struck by an automobile at Damen and Diversey avenues. The driver, Anton Motycka, 38, of 2320 Lombard avenue, Berwyn, told police that the boy, who was riding a tricycle, swerved into the street in front of his car.

Annette Ciolli, 11 months old, suffered a possible fracture of the skull when the baby buggy in which she was riding was struck at Laflin and Polk streets by an automobile driven by Edward Pallone, 29, of 1244 South Spaulding avenue. Mrs. Emily Ciolli, 1423 Lexington street, mother of the child, was pushing the buggy and was slightly hurt. The baby was taken to the Mother Cabrini hospital.

Daniel Burns, 64, of 2714 South Keeler avenue, died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries received on May 9 when he was struck near his home by an automobile driven by Max Armstrong, 45, of 4956 Wentworth avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 348 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 257 were killed in Chicago where 8,754 were injured in the same period.

'ALBERT MEYER'S WILL BEQUEATHS CHARITIES $195,000

Charitable bequests of $195,000 were made in the will of Albert Meyer, retired president of the People's Pure Ice company, which was admitted to probate yesterday. The estate was valued at approximately $525,000. Michael Reese hospital, of which he was a director for several years, was left $100,000; the Chicago Tumor institute, $25,000; the Policemen's Benevolent association, Home for Destitute Crippled Children, and Illinois Social Hygiene league, $15,000 each, and $25,000 is to be used to bring refugees from Germany and assist them in establishing themselves in this country. The balance of the estate is to be shared by a brother, Carl, and four sisters, Mrs. Levy Mayer, Mrs. Isaac H. Mayer, Mrs. Sydney Stein, and Mrs. Frederic at the age of 74 in his home at 179 Fechheimer. Mr. Meyer died May 10 Lake Shore drive.

VICTOR HERBERT, TUNES BACK ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Col. McCormick Will Talk on Aviation.

Popular melodies of Victor Herbert, denied the radio public for over four months, will be blended into the brilliant musical program offered on the Chicagoland Hour over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9 to 10 p. m. tonight. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak on the part played in modern warfare by aviation.

The Herbert melodies will include "Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta" and the trio of favorites, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," "Kiss Me Again," and "Thine Alone." This music, as well as the works of most of the country's outstanding composers, has been brought back to W-G-N and Mutual thru arrangement with the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers.

Marion Claire to Sing.

Marion Claire, soprano, and Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will share solo honors. Miss Claire will sing the "Italian Street Song" while Baggiore will offer Chauncey Olcott's "Macushla" and Brahe's "Bless This House."

The soloists will join in a duet of "Play Gypsies" from Kalman's "Countess Maritza," and "Wanting You" from Romberg's "New Moon."

Adolph Hoffman, cellist of the W-G-N Concert orchestra, will offer a solo supported by the chorus and orchestra of "Liebestraum" by Liszt.

Henry Weber and the concert orchestra will play the music of Delibes, Kalman, Grofe, Liszt, Olcott, and Romberg, as well as Herbert.

The Chicagoland Hour program follows:

Procession and the March of Bacchus.....Delibes Orchestra.
Italian Street Song [Naughty Marietta]
.....Herbert
Marion Claire and chorus.
Liebestraum .....Liszt

Marion Claire and Attilio Baggiore.
Favorite Herbert Melodies — Tramp, Tramp, Tramp [Naughty Marietta; Kiss Me Again [Mlle. Modiste]; Thine Alone [Eileen].....Herbert Marion Claire, Attilio Baggiore, chorus, orchestra.

As an introduction to Col. McCormick's address the orchestra will feature a few bars of music that are symbolic of aviation.

DR. ALICE F. RUD DIES; PHYSICIAN AND CLUBWOMAN

Dr. Alice Florence Rud, 77 years old, a practicing physician in the Austin neighborhood since 1895, died yesterday in her home at 535 North Central avenue. She was the widow of Dr. Anthony Rud, who died in 1928.

Dr. Rudd had been an active clubwoman. She was a member of the Chicago Woman's, Austin Woman's, and Current Topics clubs; the Infant Welfare society, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Art institute. She was graduated from the Woman's Medical School of Chicago, now a part of the University of Illinois, in 1890, and took her internship at County hospital.

She leaves a son, Anthony, a daughter, Mrs. James C. Hatcher; a sister, Mrs. C. G. Gibson, and two brothers, Seth and Ellsworth Piper. Services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 318 North Central avenue, with burial in Forest Home cemetery.

Randolph Field, Tex., May 23 [Special].—Frederick E. Fair of Chicago has no trouble with the tumbling drills given flying cadets at this "West Point of the air" to teach coordination and body control. Fair was gymnastics captain at the University of Chicago in 1935-'36.

REV. SCHIKOWSKI OF ST. MARTIN'S CHURCH IS DEAD

The Rev. Francis J. Schikowski, 76 years old, pastor of St. Martin's Roman Catholic church since 1908, died early yesterday in the rectory at 5842 Princeton avenue.

Father Schikowski was born in West Prussia. He came to the United States in 1880. He was ordained a priest in 1890, after being graduated from St. Francis seminary in Milwaukee. For a time he was curate at St. Francis of Assisi church, and later was pastor of St. Clara's, which he organized. He was active in his clerical duties until a week ago. Last June Father Schikowski's golden jubilee was observed in a two day festival.

Funeral services will be held in St. Martin's church at 10:30 a. m. Monday.

LORD AUSTIN, 75, DIES; MAKER OF BANTAM AUTOS

LONDON, May 23 (AP).—Lord Austin, manufacturer of the Austin automobile, died today at his home near Bromsgrove. He was 75 years old.

Herbert Austin served his engineering apprenticeship in Australia and in 1905 began manufacturing both the large Austin and the pint sized "baby" Austin at Birmingham.

In 1936, he was created first Baron Austin of Longbridge. He is survived by two daughters but there is no heir to his title.

Lord Austin was a rival of Lord Nuffield both automobile manufacture and in benefactions. One of his donations was a $1,000,000 endowment for Cambridge university in 1936.

FARM GIRL WHO ROSE TO $200,000 A YEAR JOB AND TITLE DIES

Superior, Neb., May 23 [Special].—Friends and former schoolmates of Lady Vestey, a native of Superior, who rose to international social and business preëminence, received word today of her death in London, Eng.

The titled woman was Evelyn Brodstone when she lived on a farm near here and attended high school. She was 14 when she was graduated in 1888 and went to Chicago as a stenographer for the Vestey Cold Storage and Packing company.

In the following years she became traveling auditor for the big English company, with headquarters in London. Her salary was reputed to be $200,000 a year, said to be the largest ever paid a woman executive. In 1924 she was married to Lord William Vestey, head of the company and known as Britain's "meat king." Among her numerous gifts to her birthplace was a modern hospital, a children's playground, and a bird sanctuary.

INFLATION RISES DESPITE PRICE FIXING EFFORTS

Some Upturns Pass Those of World War.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—An inflationary rise in commodity prices is proceeding against the best wishes and intentions of Price Fixer Leon Henderson, a survey showed today. In some instances, prices are outrunning those during the corresponding period of the world war, altho the experiences of price rises then were expected to help halt them now.

Inflation is inherent in the borrowing and spending of at least 40 billion dollars on armaments. An attempt to cut public buying power thru taxation will be made, but experts doubt that efforts to cut consumer buying power in a period of rising wages and easy spending will be successful. They assert that the New Deal will see the inflationary results of a pyramided national debt, now expected officially to rise as high as 90 billions in connection with the arms program, from the present level of 47½ billions.

Raw Materials Bound.

The department of labor's wholesale price index shows that in the first 20 months of this war, commodities as a whole have risen 12 per cent, compared with the over-all increase of 16 per cent during the corresponding period of the 1914-'18 war. Yesterday the department reported a rise of 0.7 per cent in wholesale prices for last week alone, bringing them to 84.6 per cent of the 1926 average and the highest in four years.

But within this general pattern it is disclosed that raw material costs have jumped 18 per cent in this war, against only 11 per cent in the last one. Prices of farm commodities, textiles, hides and leather products, foods, and house furnishings have all risen more sharply than during the corresponding period in the 1914-'18 "war to end wars."

Prices of manufactured articles, according to the bureau's statistics, have risen 9.6 per cent in this war, against 14 per cent in the last.

Gives Comparative Figures.

	PER CENT GAIN. Aug. 1939 to May 10, 1941.	June 1914 thru Feb. 1916.
All commodities	12	16
Farm products	23	7
Foods	17	10
Hides and leather products	13.5	13
Textile products	20	17
Fuel and lighting materials	3	20
Metals and metal products	5	34

War Brings Inflation.

New Dealers seem doomed to disappointment if they believe they can automatically press a button and stop inflation. Past experience has proved, if anything, that war brings inflation—whether it be credit inflation in which the supply of money and credit exceeds the volume of goods desired, or monetary inflation, in which government resorts to printing press money to finance an anemic budget.

During the Napoleonic wars prices rose about 45 per cent. During the civil war in the United States commodities soared about 120 per cent. And during the war of 1914-'18 there was a general rise of about 127 per cent. Henderson has a full time job ahead of him, it is indicated, altho he still is nominally a member of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Gets G-Men's Support.

He has been promised the support of the G-men and the justice department anti-trust division in any price orders he chooses to issue, a procedure which has raised doubts of constitutionality on Capitol hill. Attorney General Robert H. Jackson has admitted that there is no criminal statute to cover the procedure, but anti-trust operations will be employed nevertheless.

Today, his department pursued this policy by announcing that a federal grand jury at Hartford, Conn., had indicted eight wholesale and retail grocery companies and their officers on charges of conspiring to "fix" retail grocery prices.

Ford Attorney Assails Labor Act as Vicious

Detroit, Mich., May 23 [Special].—Bitterly attacking the national labor relations act for making possible the overwhelming victory of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] at the employé elections in the Ford Motor company's Rouge and Lincoln plants, I. A. Capizzi, company counsel, today declared that his client will continue to deal with the union merely "because the law says it must."

I. A. Capizzi.

"But it will continue to assert and point out," he said, "that the Wagner act as now framed and functioning is a most vicious law in that it breeds conditions and admits of practices which its framers never foresaw nor intended, and, which, if allowed to run, will force all American industry to close down or be sovietized."

Labor Leaders Reply.

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW, and Michael F. Widman Jr., director of the UAW Ford organizing committee, immediately replied that Capizzi's "outburst is the ill-natured expression of a bad loser rather than an expression of policy by the Ford Motor company."

"If Mr. Capizzi is speaking for Henry Ford," added Thomas, "then our wish, expressed yesterday, that the curtain be drawn down on the bitterness of the past, will probably not be fulfilled."

Capizzi's attack on the union as a "communist-influenced organization" was viewed as forecasting a long battle at the NLRB hearing on the 10th complaint against the company, which was opened yesterday and recessed until Monday.

Union to Seek Bargaining.

As soon as the election results are certified by the NLRB the union will formally ask the Ford company for a conference to work out a collective bargaining agreement.

Meanwhile, the CIO union's efforts to take a vote on the recent General Motors corporation agreement providing for a 10 cents an hour pay increase was interrupted by a notice of intent to strike filed with the state labor mediation board by the Pontiac, Mich., local. The local charged anti-union activities by the plant management.

22 OIL CONCERNS AGREE TO CURB PRICE INCREASES

Washington, D. C., May 23 [Special].—The Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply announced today that 22 oil companies in the New England and mid-Atlantic areas had agreed not to institute "further increases of a substantial character on gasoline prices without prior consultation" with Leon Henderson, price administrator.

The announcement followed a conference between oil company representatives and OPACS officials who said that "it was the consensus of the meeting, with some reservations, that no further substantial increases in gasoline prices are called for unless basic cost conditions change." The meeting was called as a result of recent price increases along the eastern seaboard.

EIGHTEENTH EXCHANGE SEAT BOUGHT BY ONE BROKER; IT'S A RECORD

New York, May 23 (AP).—If Jerome Lewine, wealthy broker, were octodecuplets, he could sit simultaneously today in his seats in:

New York [two], Chicago, Boston and Detroit stock exchanges;

New York, New Orleans, Dallas and Liverpool cotton exchanges;

New York and Montreal commodity exchanges;

New York produce, coffee and sugar, cocoa and wool exchanges;

Chicago Board of Trade and Mercantile association, and the London United Terminal Sugar Market association.

Stewart-Warner Ends First Year of Military Production

Stewart-Warner corporation, Chicago, has completed more than three million artillery fuses for the army ordnance department since the company's first shipment to the army was made a year ago, James S. Knowlson, president, announced yesterday.

A "progress report" on the corporation's armament work was made by Knowlson to Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the Chicago Ordnance district, at a luncheon celebrating Stewart-Warner's first year of arms production.

[While company and ordnace officials and guests were celebrating the anniversary of the first shipment and touring the plant where the fuses are made the war department announced that another order for $1,417,800 worth of fuses had been awarded to Stewart-Warner.]

14% of Volume Is Arms.

Armament business currently accounts for about 14 per cent of the dollar volume of the company's output, said Knowlson, who reported, however, that normal production of the regular lines has not been curtailed. These lines include refrigerators, electric ranges, automobile heaters and accessories, and lubricating equipment. The company also is making bomber plane heaters, bomb parts, and numerous other items for the armed forces, either on direct order or as a subcontractor.

Willingness to Spend Cited.

Knowlson, in his report, called attention to the willingness of the company's directors to spend money on equipment with which to produce armament items, and added:

"If they at any time labored under the delusion that this was an enterprise for profit they have long since been disillusioned."

Paying tribute to suppliers of equipment and materials, company employés, and ordnance officials for "teamwork that gets results" in production, Knowlson declared:

"Any one with a soap box and a good pair of lungs can predict what we in this country are going to do, and any one who hears these predictions can shrug his shoulders at another piece of bombast. Talk can be laughed off—but production can't be laughed off."

URGES FEDERAL INTERVENTION IN SHIPYARD TIEUP

Use Force if Needed, Admiral Demands.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—A call for immediate government intervention, by force if necessary, to end a dispute which has tied up the shipyards in the San Francisco area was made before a senate committee today by Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission.

The committee, which is investigating the armament program, heard a half dozen witnesses, and then suspended the hearing until Monday with the hope expressed by Chairman Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] that current negotiations on the west coast may bring the dispute to a close before that time.

Land told the committee that the dispute was an "outlaw" strike in which 1,700 machinists had stopped the work of 17,000 persons and had tied up $500,000,000 of merchant shipbuilding and naval orders.

Would Use Force If Needed.

"I believe there is justification," he said, "for every possible step the government can take, up to and including the use of United States forces—be they city, state or national—to take off this picket line so that the people there can go to work."

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] observed that if necessary to maintain production in armament plants the government should be authorized to take them over and operate them.

Ralph Bard, assistant secretary of the navy, expressed the view, in response to questions, that the government should operate plants in cases of "outlaw" strikes, or of walkouts called on fraudulent strike votes. As an alternative, he said the government might prosecute strike leaders for conspiracy to hold up the preparedness program.

Many Naval Vessels Delayed.

He testified that work on naval vessels costing $342,012,000, including four light cruisers and a number of destroyers and minesweepers had been held up by the strike.

[Dispatches from San Francisco said naval officials indicated that nearly finished vessels may be taken to the navy's own yard at Mare Island for completion.]

Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco read to the committee a telegram from John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, describing the strike as "the most serious blow to collective bargaining and the integrity of agreements with employers which has ever occurred in our industrial history."

Renew Peace Effort in Coal.

The labor mediation board panel renewed its efforts to settle the soft coal dispute, with representatives of both the CIO's United Mine Workers and southern operators silent on the prospects for agreement.

Northern operators have signed a contract providing for a basic wage of $7 a day, an increase of $1, but it is contingent upon the southern conference meeting the same figure. Southern mines are operating on a temporary agreement of $6.60 a day, also a $1 increase over previous rates.

William Green, president of the AFL, it was learned tonight, has approved the taking of a strike vote by the AFL workers in plants of the Reynolds Metal company in several cities including Chicago.

Ask Federal Intervention.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23 (AP).—The 700 strikers at the American Potash and Chemical corporation's Trona, Cal., plant urged President Roosevelt in a resolution sent to Washington to take over and operate the now idle plant "in the interest of national defense."

Lake Package Freight Embargoed.

Cleveland, O., May 23 (AP).—The Great Lakes Transit corporation today declared an embargo on lake package freight to and from its docks because of the AFL International Longshoremen's strike against three lake terminal companies. H. W. Arndt, Cleveland general agent for the firm, said the move was taken to protect shippers.

Shell Workers to Return.

Ravenna, O., May 23 (AP).—Work on the government's $30,000,000 Ravenna shell loading plant will be resumed Monday, S. E. Hunkin, vice president of Hunkin-Conkey Construction company, announced late today. Hunkin said 5,000 AFL laborers who struck Wednesday would be reassigned to jobs pending negotiation of demands for a 25 cent increase in 65 cent hourly wages.

1,300 Return to Work.

La Porte, Ind., May 23 [Special].—Thirteen hundred Allis-Chalmers office and factory employés returned to work late this morning following approval by the United Farm Equipment Workers Local No. 119 of an agreement reached at a long night session of union delegates and company representatives.

Prosecutor of Aluminum Co. Joins Its Competitor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Walter L. Rise, special assistant to the attorney general who handled the government's 10 year prosecution of Aluminum Company of America on anti-trust charges, today resigned his government position to become vice president and general counsel of the Reynolds Metals company, an Aluminum Company of America competitor which has been put into active aluminum production with government financing.

Construction of Submarines Speeded at Manitowoc Yards

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Manitowoc, Wis., May 23.—The Manitowoc Shipbuilding company which is constructing, under direction of the United States navy, the first 10 submarines ever built at any Great Lakes port, hopes to make its first deliveries ahead of the contract date, Lieutenant Commander G. C. Weaver, supervisor, said today.

The company received the order last September. The contract was signed Oct. 4. Shortly thereafter the shipyards on the Manitowoc river were shut off behind a wire barrier and the plant has been a beehive of activity night and day ever since. The tooling has moved faster than expected.

"Fabrication in the structural shops is under way and machine shop work has started, so the job is moving beyond the preparatory stage," Commander Weaver said. "We hope to lay the first keel in a few weeks."

Allow 3 to 5 Years.

The contract called for completion of the first submarine within three years. The last was to be delivered within five years. "We hope now to anticipate both those dates," Weaver said.

Just across the river from the shipyards, the Burger Boat company celebrated last week the laying of the first keel of six 135 foot wooden mine sweepers it is making for the navy under a $2,000,000 contract. During the world war, the Burger company built submarine chasers and harbor tugs.

Not all of the navy contracts in Wisconsin are in Manitowoc. The Leathem Smith Coal and Ship company of Sturgeon Bay is building three 170 foot steel submarine chasers. The Peterson Boat works at Sturgeon Bay is building four 110 foot wooden sub chasers and the Lake Superior Ship Building company at Superior has orders for two 10,000 ton oil tankers for the navy.

Plan Lake Michigan Tests.

The Manitowoc made submarines, 312 feet long, will not be able to pass thru the locks of the Welland canal, whose locks are 270 feet long. They will reach salt water by passing thru the Chicago river and the Mississippi river.

The submarines when ready for delivery will have submergence tests in Lake Michigan. It is believed they will be the first navy craft to make dives in the Great Lakes.

On their way to the ocean they will have to submerge partially in the Chicago river to avoid some fixed bridges, Commander Weaver said.

When they enter the Illinois river they will be mounted on floating dry docks and towed down the Illinois and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans. At New Orleans they will proceed by their own power to the Electric Boat company at Groton, Conn. Electric Boat company crews will man the subs on the trip from Manitowoc. It is the practice of the navy not to operate privately built boats until accepted for service.

The Electric Boat company is the only private concern heretofore to manufacture submarines for the navy. It is now building 45 similar to those under way here. Submarines also have been built at the navy yards at Portsmouth, N. H., and Mare Island, Cal.

The displacement of the Manitowoc type of submarine will be about 1,600 tons. Each will contain 900 tons of structural steel.

The total cost of the 10 submarines here will be nearly $60,000,000.

The turbines, Diesel engines, main motors, electrical motors, and storage batteries are being built elsewhere and assembled here. The turbines are being made by a General Motors plant at Cleveland, O.

Housing Problem Acute.

Manitowoc, a city of 24,000 [it got its name from the Indian God, Manitou], is disturbed over the housing problem that is created by the expectation of from 500 to 1,000 new families working on preparedness orders. A survey completed last week showed only 11 vacant dwellings and some of those were said scarcely to be habitable.

A federal housing project has been certified and there has been endless discussion among city officials, real estate men and the federal government over the type of houses to be built. The latest decision by the government was for prefabricated houses and a contract was signed with the Harnischfeger corporation of Milwaukee to build 400 steel prefabricated houses for Manitowoc and with the Kroening Engineering company of Milwaukee to erect them.

RUMELY ELECTED CRANE COMPANY VICE PRESIDENT

V. P. Rumely has been elected vice president in charge of manufacturing of the Crane company, the company announced yesterday. He succeeds J. H. Collier, who became president earlier this month. Rumely, who has been works manager of the company's Chicago plant, joined the Crane company in 1937. Previously he had served as superintendent and factory manager of the Hudson Motor company. Graduating from the University of Wisconsin in 1912, he first worked for a farm implement plant in La Porte, Ind., and later with the Buick Motor company.

FERTILIZER FIRM WILL MOVE HERE

Seeks Offices Nearer Its Big Sales Area.

The International Agricultural corporation, 26½ million dollar fertilizer and chemical company, will move its general offices from New York to Chicago about July 1, Louis Ware, president, disclosed yesterday. At the same time part of the general records and a number of staff executives at the southern headquarters in Atlanta will be moved to Chicago and combined with the executive offices.

Louis Ware.

International, which has had its general offices in New York for 32 years, has leased the entire 29th floor of the Civic Opera building, 20 North Wacker drive. Remodeling of the offices now is under way.

Calls City's Location Ideal.

Ware said that the move to Chicago was the result of the trend of the company's operations toward the west and away from the east and also because of possible economies in operation.

"Chicago is ideally situated to serve as headquarters for companies having operations in various parts of the country," Ware said. "Being the hub of the nation's air transportation system, Chicago has the advantage of making it possible for executives to get to the scene of operations in any part of the nation speedily.

"There is now a definite trend of business operations away from the eastern seaboard toward the industrial sections of the middle west. If Chicago is fair in its treatment of companies with respect to taxes, other corporations may be expected to move here."

Will Bring 100 Families.

Moving of the International offices here will bring about 100 families to the Chicago area. Ware, formerly president of United Electric Coal companies, owns a house in Winnetka.

International is one of the largest producers of fertilizers and chemicals in the country, getting its raw materials from mines in Florida, Tennessee, and Virginia. It has plants in 27 cities, including Chicago Heights.

It will also move to Chicago the offices of its subsidiaries, the Union Potash and Chemical company, the Phosphate Recovery corporation, and the Kyanite Products corporation.

Ware said that company executives studied for a year the advisability of moving to Chicago.

Firm Will Test Ability to Sell Defense Bonds

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago, next week will throw the force of its nation-wide bond selling staff into an experimental test of its power to do what the government is attempting to accomplish in the rearmament bond sale drive—distribute federal securities to small investors.

The company, a major unit among investment houses, which along with securities dealers and brokers have been cold shouldered by the treasury department in the defense bond campaign, will use in the test its allotted share of this week's treasury offering. The offering consisted of 600 million dollars of 2½ per cent regular treasury bonds of 1956-'58. Halsey, Stuart entered subscriptions for 10 million dollars of the bonds, and expects an allotment of 800 to 900 thousand dollars.

Seeks to Prove Ability.

In disclosing yesterday that bonds from the new offering will be used in the test, an official of Halsey, Stuart said that the object is to prove to the company's own satisfaction that it and other bond houses, as well as other securities firms, would be a logical channel for sale of defense bonds.

These firms are not permitted to help sell such bonds now, but some securities men have said privately that they believe the government either will have to call on the dealers or resort to forced selling if America enters the war. The chief outlets for the arms program bonds now are postoffices, savings and loan associations, and banks, which are performing the service without compensation.

"Our aim is to satisfy ourselves that government bonds, including defense bonds, could be distributed to small investors thru regular bond selling organizations," said the Halsey, Stuart official.

Believed Wiser Policy.

"Should the government later encounter difficulty selling enough of these bonds, we hope to be able to show, thru our tests, the logic of permitting security houses to sell the bonds for a small commission. It would be wiser, we think, to pay a small commission than to force the public to buy."

Next week's test will be Halsey, Stuart's third. In March, the company tried the plan for the first time by offering its salesmen a small commission to sell limited amounts—not more than $4,000 to one individual—of 2½ per cent treasury bonds of 1952-'54, of which the firm had received an 800 thousand dollar allotment. In the second trial, several hundred thousand dollars of short term notes of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were sold in April.

Canada Earmarks Most of Its Cheese for Britain

OTTAWA, Ont., May 23 (AP).—Effective Monday, the entire cheddar cheese production of Ontario and Quebec will be earmarked for export to the United Kingdom, the dairy products board has announced. About 93 per cent of all cheese produced in Canada comes from these provinces.

Standard Oil (Ind.) Lets Contract for Power Plant

NUMBER OF U.S. WAGE EARNERS TOPS 1929 PEAK

Over 37½ Millions Now at Work.

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—Employment in nonagricultural pursuits has passed the 1929 peak to the highest levels in United States history, a computation based on government figures showed today.

The preliminary estimates indicated that more than 37,500,000 wage earners are at work.

This compares with the boom peak of 37,470,000 in September, 1929, and the depression law of 26,381,000 during March, 1933. [The estimate of current employment does not include army and navy personnel, workers on WPA and National Youth projects or men in the Civilian Conservation corps.]

6 to 9 Millions Still Idle.

The present preparedness drive, however, hardly approaches the war effort of 1917-'18 in the full employment of the nation's resources of working men and women.

Some estimates by research experts have put the total of unemployed at the peak of activity in 1918 at only 500,000. This contrasts with current unemployment estimates running from 6,100,000 to 9,000,000. However, since 1918 the number of persons capable of gainful work has increased by approximately 15,000,000.

Experts on employment opportunities point out also that 3,000,000 young people leaving classrooms in May and June will be looking for permanent or vacation jobs.

WPA to Release 500,000.

The WPA is preparing to release another 500,000 of its workers, to bring the total within the 1,000,000 for whom President Roosevelt has asked congress to provide wages in the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Furthermore, one labor analyst said, the employment market probably will see an increasing influx of women, many of whom have never worked before for wages.

The experts vary in their figures on the rate of employment increases. The bureau of labor statistics estimated the jump from February to March at 290,000. Assuming that this rate continued thru April and the first half of May, the total employed on May 15 was about 37,653,000.

CHEERLESS WAR NEWS BURDENS STOCK MARKET

Some Specialties, Rails Manage to Rise.

New York, May 23 (AP).—A little more confidence returned to the stock market today, but there still were enough doubters to keep any worthwhile rally from developing.

A few rails, rubbers, aviations, and specialties managed to edge forward, but there were more declines than gains at the close.

Drying up of selling was regarded as encouraging. Claims of the British that the battle of Crete was far from being lost aided sentiment to some degree. A batch of pleasing dividend declarations also was helpful.

Deterring Factors Remain.

At the same time, many customers held aloof pending outcome of the Mediterranean conflict, more light on the tax program, the labor picture, and spreading price "ceilings."

Many leaders never registered on the ticker tape. Bethlehem Steel opened two hours and ten minutes late and ended down ½ at 69½. United States Steel was up ¼.

Propping the rails were estimates revenues would mount sharply above spring forecasts and freight loadings reach the 900,000 mark weekly by June. Wage demands of the brotherhoods, tho, remained as a restraining influence. A continued high level of retail spending and a jump in this week's automotive production inspired scant buying.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Declines again predominated on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as transfers slid to 17,000 shares from 18,000 Thursday. Commonwealth Edison led the list with turnover of 2,350 shares, closing at 25⅛, off ⅛.

Three issues gained ¼ point from the New York close during the trading from 2 to 2:30 o'clock. They were Commonwealth Edison at 25⅛, Libby, McNeill & Libby at 5⅛, and Spiegel at 5¼.

BETTS GIVES SEC SUGGESTIONS ON BOOSTING SALES

Arthur M. Betts, chairman of the board of the Chicago Stock exchange, said yesterday that he has submitted to the Securities and Exchange commission a list of suggestions on increasing trading in organized markets. He was unable to join heads of several other exchanges in Washington yesterday to present proposals, as had been planned.

Betts explained that a new exchange marketing technique had been proposed "to improve the markets on the less active listed stocks, especially the small issues, and thereby to retain and enhance the advantages and protection afforded by listing on a national securities exchange."

Such stocks, he said, should be handled by a dealer who can inform prospective purchasers of their merit, instead of the way larger securities issues, in which interest is spontaneous, are handled.

CAR PRODUCTION RISES; SETS PEAK IN REGISTRATIONS

Detroit, Mich., May 23 (AP).—Auto and truck production this week, will reach 133,560 units, compared with 127,255 assemblies last week when production at several points was impeded by strikes, Wards Reports Inc., estimated today. A year ago output totaled 96,810 cars and trucks.

Ward's said that April reports indicated that month was the highest retail registration period in automotive history.

G. E. PRESIDENT 'SATISFIED' WITH ARMS PROGRESS

Company Is Month Ahead of Delivery Schedule.

New York, May 23 (AP).—Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric company, asserted today that he was "well satisfied" with the progress of American armament manufacturing and disclosed that his own company is running a month ahead of schedule on deliveries of propulsion equipment for United States warships.

Talking informally at a press conference, Wilson said United States army and navy specifications for materials were superior to similar products being turned out by the European belligerents.

Cites Full Coöperation.

He asserted that manufacturers were coöperating wholeheartedly in the greatest armament production effort in history.

"It takes a tremendous amount of preparation, including construction and tool-making, before brand new models of intricate products can get into full production," Wilson said. "It seems to me that everything that can be expected on the time basis is being accomplished."

As for expansion, Wilson said, the General Electric company was constructing factories at a present rate of $50,000,000 a year.

Today there are some 110,000 employés in General Electric plants, 52 per cent above this time last year, and for months, he said, there has been an average of 9,000 extra employés "in training" for technical operations.

60% of Orders for Arms.

The company is receiving orders, he said, at the rate of $500,000,000 every six months and expects to turn out about $300,000,000 worth of products in the first half of this year.

Of the total orders, Wilson said, about 60 per cent are directly traceable to military demands. In addition, he said, "undoubtedly" many standard products such as certain types of motors are being used in armament industries.

Thus far, he said, in the case of his own company, there had been no hampering of military work thru shortages of raw materials, but, he added, it had been necessary to curtail some standard production—he mentioned electric irons specifically—because of priorities.

He said the earnings of the company in the first half of this year probably would run about the same as in the first half of 1940, when they equaled 91 cents a share.

People and Events

Dr. C. F. Rassweiler.

Dr. C. F. Rassweiler has been appointed director of the Johns-Manville corporation. A native of Illinois, Dr. Rassweiler had been director of the Philadelphia laboratory of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. since 1932.

T. H. Golightly, president of the Madison-Crawford National bank, was elected president of the Chicago Financial Advertisers at the meeting yesterday in the La Salle hotel.

O. G. Zeemann has been named sales manager in charge of several midwestern states for Philip Morris & Co. B. C. Graft, who had charge of the St. Louis division, will succeed him as Illinois supervisor.

LOWER ESTIMATE OF 1940 COTTON YIELD; TOPS '39

Washington, D. C., May 23 (AP).—The department of agriculture today issued revised estimates of the 1940 cotton crop, placing production at 12,564,640 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, compared with its estimate of 12,686,000 bales made last December, and 11,817,000 bales produced in 1939.

The area in cultivation to cotton on July 1 last was 24,871,00 acres, compared with 24,683,000 on that date for the 1939 crop. The area picked was 23,861,000 acres, compared with 23,805,000 for the 1939 crop.

The yield of lint cotton picked was 252.5 pounds to the acre, compared with 237.9 pounds in 1939.

Legislation directing the Commodity Credit corporation to "withhold from the normal channel" cotton owned by the government or held as security for loans during the present European war was passed by the senate today and sent to the house.

INDICT GROCER GROUP ON PRICE FIXING CHARGES

Hartford, Conn., May 23 (AP).—A federal grand jury today indicted seven wholesale and retail grocery concerns and the Connecticut Food Council, Inc., on a charge of conspiracy to fix retail prices.

They were the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company; First National Stores, Inc.; Roberts, Steele and Dolan Co., Inc.; William Shore, Inc.; Naugatuck Valley Wholesale Grocery company; Everybody's Market, and the Hartford Market company. Various officers of the concerns also were indicted.

The indictment charged that, under the pretext of complying with the state fair trade practices act which prohibits selling below cost, the defendants formed the food council and agreed to fix prices at higher levels than the law required.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BOB BECKER

Peacocks Penned.

May 23, 1941.

THE two peacocks which had been free to roam on the lawn and in a garden near one of the farm homes are in disgrace this week. As a result they have been sentenced to the barnyard.

The aristocratic and beautiful peacocks, as yet only partly mature, certainly have dropped considerably down the social ladder, because their new associates in the barnyard are White Rock chickens, guinea hens, and a solitary turkey. But until the peacocks learn how to behave themselves they'll have to stay there.

Battle with Calves.

The birds flew into a rage the other day when some calves wandered out of their lot and invaded territory patroled by the handsome peafowl. The birds attacked them. The calves weren't hurt, but the man who saw this incident began to wonder about the temperament of the birds. He reasoned that if they would attack a calf they probably would be pugnacious enough to go after the dogs that belong to farm residents. The dogs have been trained not to fight any of the pheasants or other birds around the lawn and probably would not defend themselves. They could be seriously injured by the quarrelsome peacocks.

In the barnyard the other morning these birds seemed content in their new surroundings. So far they have made no moves against the smaller fowl in the yard.

Protects His Flocks.

A downstate farmer who read that the Wheaton farm had had trouble with sheep killing dogs recently wrote about his system of protecting his flocks.

This farmer, L. J. R. de Vries of Panola, Woodford county, uses electric or kerosene lights around his sheep barns, and has found that troublesome dogs shy away when the lights or lanterns are kept going after dark.

He says that bright lanterns suspended over a fence a quarter of a mile in each direction from the farm building where the sheep are housed at night will keep dogs away. He suspends his lanterns about two and a half feet above the ground, and says that they should be erected so that they can sway with the wind. The moving lantern is more effective than one which is stationary, he has found.

That was the remark of one of the farm workers after inspecting the vegetable garden. A number of the vegetables are out of the ground and giving promise of a good growth now that the danger of cool weather and frost is past. Among the plantings which already are out of the ground are bush beans, peas, kohlrabi, turnips, carrots, lettuce, and radishes.

GEN. AMERICAN TRANSPORTATION PROFIT SMALLER

The General American Transportation corporation reported yesterday from its general offices in Chicago that net earnings for the first three months of this year showed a slight decline from a year ago.

Net income for the March quarter amounted to $1,165,853, equal to $1.13 a share, compared with $1,241,662, or $1.20 a share, in the corresponding period of 1940. The company leases tank, refrigerator, and other special types of railway cars; manufactures and repairs freight cars, and operates storage terminals.

Camera Firm Earns More.

International Industries, Inc., manufacturer of cameras, photographic accessories, and optical equipment, Ann Arbor, Mich., realized net income of $33,639, equal to 8 cents a share, in the three months ended April 30, compared with $6,427, or 1 cent a share, in the corresponding quarter a year ago.

The Holly Sugar corporation, a major domestic producer of beet sugar, realized net income of $1,660,659, equal to $3.02 a share, for the year ended March 31, compared with $1,407,645, or $2.50 a share, in the preceding year.
